Automaker recalling 1.2 million vehicles

DETROIT (AP) — All Plymouth Volares, Dodge Aspens, Chrysler Lebarons and Dodge Diplomats built before Sept. 23 — some 1.2 million cars — are being recalled by Chrysler Corp. to correct potential brake defects.

The nation's third largest auto maker said Monday there were no injuries or accidents in 20 reported incidents in which cars lost their front brakes.

Chrysler said one defect involves acid leaking from the battery and eating through the brake tubes, causing a loss of brake fluid.

The company said its dealers will replace the brake tubes if necessary and install a protective shield between the tubes and the battery cover at no charge.

In a second problem, Chrysler said front brake hoses which run from the tubes to the front wheel brakes may become brittle and crack in prolonged cold weather.

If trouble develops in the front brakes, the rear brakes will be enough to stop the car, Chrysler said.

Chrysler said owners should inspect brake tubes for signs of corrosion at the rear of the battery cover and inspect the brake hoses for visible cracks.

Has largely nullified air defense system

Pentagon believes cruise missile will force Russ into costly crash program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon experts believe development of the cruise missile has largely nullified the Soviet Union's $100 billion air defense system and that Moscow would have to launch a crash program to catch up.

Defense officials said Monday that even with a $50 billion crash program, the Soviets would trail the United States if the Pentagon continues to improve the sophistication of the new U.S. weapon.

Cruise missile improvements now being developed can be made operational faster than the Russians can update their air defense system, the defense officials said.

The officials, rebutting a published report questioning the weapon's capabilities, said they are confident the present cruise missile can penetrate current Soviet air defenses.

President Carter has decided to step up development of the cruise missile, choosing it over the proposed B-1 bomber as the nation's next major strategic weapon.

But it faces a Soviet defense system described by the Pentagon as the most extensive in the world, involving 500,000 persons, more than 12,000 surface-to-air anti-aircraft missiles stationed at 1,000 sites, and 2,600 aircraft.

The cruise missile, a technology in which the United States is believed to lead the Russians by at least five years, essentially is a small, pilotless jet plane which can carry either nuclear or conventional warheads.

About 14 feet long and 2 feet in diameter, it flies at about 650 miles an hour as low as 30 feet above the surface, presenting what U.S. planners hope would be a nightmare for defensive radar.

Defense officials said the weapon would be launched in a saturation cloud of 3,000 cruise missiles at the same time 200 bombers attacked the target, further complicating air defense problems.

Pentagon officials discussed the cruise missile's capability following a published report that secret computer studies showed the weapon "would not have a chance" of penetrating the Soviet defense system.

The report, by columnists Rowland Evans and Robert Novak, said the computer study was based on a study of the cruise versus the U.S. Hawk air defense system.

According to the report, the study showed that Hawk radar would locate the cruise and that a surface-to-air Hawk missile would shoot it down.

Moratorium on RV ordinance

Study hints oil firms exaggerating claims

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new economic study sponsored by a conservative research organization suggests the petroleum industry is exaggerating claims that it needs higher profits.

The study, commissioned by the American Enterprise Institute, says the apparent low profits of oil companies in past years were actually higher than average for the amount of investor risk involved.

The petroleum industry's money-making record thus seemed good enough to attract investment money, said the study released Monday.

That conclusion seems to challenge one of the oil industry's chief arguments for deregulation of oil and natural gas prices. The industry has contended that controlled prices make profits too low to attract investors, thus hampering exploration and development of new energy sources.

The analysis was prepared for the Washington-based institute by Shyam Sunder, assistant professor of accounting at the Graduate School of Business of the University of Chicago.

A spokesman for the American Petroleum Institute, the industry's trade organization, said late Monday that its own experts had not yet read Sunder's analysis.

Sunder first figured out the profits of the oil industry over the past 15 years by the usual measurements, such as return on net worth, or return on assets. He concluded, as others have found, that the industry's profits lagged behind U.S. industry in general until the steep price increases associated with the Arab oil embargo of 1973-74.

Sunder said recent profits only made up for the lower profits of earlier years and may not represent a future trend.

But in his analysis, Sunder noted that standard profit measurements fail to take into account an investor's risk.

To include the risk factor, he did a series of unusual and complicated calculations.

First, Sunder figured out how much oil industry profits fluctuate compared with all other industries — a measure of uncertainty or risk known to stock analysts as a "beta coefficient."

From that, Sunder figured a normal range of profits and calculated how much the oil industry's earnings deviated from the norm for the years 1961 through 1975.

On that "risk-adjusted" basis, Sunder concluded that oil industry profitability was actually a bit higher than the average for all other industries.

South Africa arms embargo resolution introduced

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — African delegations to the United Nations are formulating their response to a Western resolution for an indefinite arms embargo against South Africa.

The resoultion was introduced in the U.N. Security Council Monday night after the Western Big Three vetoed African resolutions calling for military and economic sanctions.

A spokesman for the African bloc, Radha K. Ramphul of Mauritius, said his group "likely" would propose amendments to the resolution.

The new resolution, introduced by West Germany and Canada, would call on all U.N. members to stop shipments of weapons to South Africa's white government until the Security Council lifted the ban. But it omits a ban on nuclear cooperation which the Africans called for in their vetoed arms embargo resolution.

The council adjourned to let the 49-nation African bloc confer on the new resolution.

One resolution did pass the Security Council on Monday. Prompted by the crackdown Oct. 19 on black organizations and leaders still at large, it demands that the South African goverment release all persons imprisoned or restricted under security laws or for opposing the apartheid racial policies and lift the bans on organizations and newspapers opposed to apartheid.

The resolution, sponsored by Benin, Libya and Mauritius as African members of the 15-nation council, passed unanimously.

Then came three triple vetos by the United States, Britain and France, the largest number in one day in the history of the council.

30 children hurt as school buses collide

DENVER (AP) — Two school buses collided at an ice-slickened intersection today, injuring 30 children. Authorities said the injuries were not serious.

Several of the 30 Merrill Junior High School pupils who were taken to hospitals suffered head cuts and knee injuries when thrown forward in the buses, hospital spokesmen said.

The collision occurred shortly before 7:30 a.m. at Colorado Boulevard and Cherry Creek Drive. Police officers at the scene said one bus had stopped at a traffic light and the second bus hit the back of it.

Streets were coated with ice this morning after a storm that dumped up to three inches of heavy, wet snow on the city during the night.

Minimum wage bill signed by president

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter today signed legislation increasing the paychecks of many of America's lowest paid workers 45 percent by 1981. He called it "a step in the right direction" and said it will pump an additional $9 billion into the economy.

At a ceremony in the White House Rose Garden, the president dismissed criticism that the increase would be inflationary, saying rather that it will put money "into the hands of those who need it to buy the necessities of life."

Under the legislation, the minimum wage will rise from the current $2.30 an hour to $2.65 on Jan. 1 and then in annual steps over the next three years to $3.35 an hour on Jan. 1, 1981, a total increase of $1.05.

A number of congressional and labor leaders who helped steer the bill through Congress were on hand for the brief ceremony. They included several whom Carter noted were at the White House 39 years ago when President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed a law establishing the first minimum wage at 25 cents an hour.

AFL-CIO President George Meany, Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va., and Rep. John Dent, D-Pa., had been there in 1938 and each was asked by Carter to say a few words.

Meany said the higher minimum wage will give the great mass of people a greater purchasing power, while Dent said it will bring a "little bit better way of life" to millions of Americans.

The first increase in the new minimum wage on Jan. 1 will add about $2.2 billion to 4.5 million workers. Each additional increase will pump another $2 billion into the economy.

Carter noted that each time the minimum wage was increased, it brought predictions of higher inflation and catastrophy for the economy. But, he added, Congress nevertheless "acted, perhaps belatedly, but wisely in each instance" in raising the federal pay floor.

The president said the overall impact of the bill "is good" and "will be beneficial."

Pomona suspends citing of vehicles for 30 days

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

The Pomona City Council has set a 30-day moratorium on the enforcement of an ordinance pertaining to the storage of recreational vehicles in residential neighborhoods.

The council Monday night, by a 4-1 vote with Councilman G. Stanton Selby saying no, stated the 30-day period was long enough for the city staff to come up with suggestions for amending the disputed ordinance.

The Pomona Planning Commission had recommended a four-month moratorium on recreational vehicles such as boats, campers, camper shells, camping trailers, motor homes, and mobile homes.

The commission wants time to schedule a study session and public hearings with regard to either rewriting or amending the existing ordinance which has provoked Westmont area residents into asking for some relief from the law which has been on the books for 20 years.

Councilwoman Georgia Grove said that the present ordinance is good, and that she saw no need for such a moratorium.

She noted that campers and motor homes are not included in the law.

Councilman Benjamin Ochoa disagreed, and said that he wanted to see the ordinance redefined.

"We want to clean up the city," he said.

City Planner Sanford Sorensen suggested the ordinance may be amended as the council sees fit. He explained that the problem is defining a recreational vehicle.

The present ordinance states that no motor vehicle shall be sorted or parked on private property except in a space enclosed on all sides so as not to be seen from a public street or alley and to the rear of the front yard setback unless the vehicle is capable of movement under its own power.

No trailers, boats, camper bodies or mobile homes shall be stored or parked except in a space enclosed on all sides so as not to be seen from a public street or alley, the ordinance states.

Sorenson said that a person could get into the idea of dune buggies or that of rebuilding a car as a person's recreational vehicle.

Councilman Adrian Wright suggested mororcycles as recreational vehicles, and said the width of properties of new homes may prevent owners from putting motor vehicles in their backyards.

"I do think they ought to be kept neat, though," he said.

Selby said he was confused about the matter, and that the major problem appears to be the definition of recreational vehicles.

Sorensen said that camper bodies and tent trailers are things that come under the present ordinance.

"Whether a camper body is on a truck or off doesn't make any difference," Wright said.

Mayor Charles Bader said that a moratorium could serve as a cooling off period for tempers of those cited because of complaints of neighbors.

He said that complaints filed by one neighbor led to complaints throughout the city.

"You've got people playing games with the ordinance," he explained.

"Is that a fair way to administer the ordinance?" he asked. "I feel a four-month period is appropriate. I don't feel we should be in a position of protecting the complainant."

He questioned the enforcement method of a neighbor being able to complain about neighbor.

Ochoa agreed with Bader. He said he is opposed to a moratorium because it would be regressive, and added that two to three weeks would be sufficient.

Bader asked Sorensen if the staff could come back with some sort of a recommendation in a short time.

Sorensen said he couldn't speak for the staff.

"Why not compromise?" Selby asked.

"I see no reason to hold this over," Mrs. Grove said.

E. J. Gaulding said that he didn't think any kind of moratorium is needed.

"The problem can well be solved," he said. "I want to speak on behalf of the 100 people who want to clean up Pomona," referring to the residents who complained to the city.

Mrs. Penny Moffitt said that there are many retired people who own RVs.

Selby said four months is too long and suggested 60 days. Ochoa asked for no moratorium. Wright suggested 90 days and then 30. Mrs. Grove then moved for a 30 day period, and Ochoa seconded the motion.

Bus service disrupted in some parts of U.S.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Greyhound bus service was disrupted in some parts of the nation today after a union representing 13,000 drivers, mechanics and other employees called for a strike vote against the company.

Contracts for Greyhound employees across the nation expired at midnight Monday, but national Amalgamated Transit Union officials urged workers to stay on the job until the vote was taken.

There were reports of scattered walkouts in Ohio, West Virginia, Virginia and North Carolina. However, Greyhound bus operations were said to be operating normally in most areas served by the company, including San Francisco, Los Angeles, Seattle, Pittsburgh, Phoenix, Denver, New York and Washington, D.C.

A few pickets appeared at the Greyhound terminal in Cincinnati, with all departures reported halted.

"They're using Trailways and other means of transportation," said Ray Eld, manager of the Cincinnati terminal.

Driver Jim Webb, one of those on the picket line, said the strike was ordered by ATU Division 1493. Division officials, however, were not immediately available for comment.

Owen Jones, president of the union's Greyhound Council, said the company's only wage offer was "an out and out insult in this day and time."

Hit public works bill as racist

Liken it to Bakke case

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A federal judge has declared unconstitutional a 1977 Public Works Act provision that requires 10 percent of the work it finances to be done by minority-owned businesses.

But U.S. District Judge A. Andrew Hauk on Monday declined to prohibit any contractors from using funds from the $4 billion Public Works Act.

"I think I have to keep in mind the tremendous harm I could cause if I tried to enjoin $4 billion already granted," said Hauk, who noted that it was the intent of the act to pump construction money into the economy immediately.

While declining to bar the use of funds from the current allocation, the judge issued a permanent injunction against future allocations of federal construction monies with any racial quotas included.

The city and county of Los Angeles so far have received $57 million under the act.

The contractors, represented by the Pacific Legal Foundation of Sacramento, contended they were left out of competitive bidding because of the minority quota.

"There was doubt on the part of the plaintiffs that there were enough available minorities to meet the quota," said attorney Sandra Johnson of the Pacific Legal Foundation.

The U.S. Justice Department defended the minority contractor provision, as it is doing in Pennsylvania, Indiana and Montana suits.

Associated General Contractors, a national trade association, is bringing the challenges, saying suits may be brought in five more states.

"It's much more than affirmative action," says association spokesman John Ellis. "This is essentially a racial quota."

The association, which lists 8,000 general contractors across the country as members, supported the Public Works Act, but opposed the quota.

Justice Department lawyers argue that racial minorities make up 17 percent of the American population, although minority-owned firms account for just 1 per cent of the industry's gross receipts.

Hauk compared the case to the Allan Bakke "reverse discrimination" case now before the U.S. Supreme Court. That case challenges the minority admissions quota at the University of California at Davis medical school.

Hauk said he felt the two cases were the same and contended that the quota provision violated the Fifth Amendment's equal protection clause.

However, Deborah Seymour, a Justice Department lawyer, claimed the two cases were different because the public works minority provision was an act of Congress, while the UC Davis admissions policy was voluntary.

Sentence Texan for contempt in Panther case

OAKLAND (AP) — A white great-granddaughter of a former Texas governor has been sentenced to a $500 fine and five days in jail for refusing to testify in a murder case against Black Panther party leader Huey Newton.

Molly Dougherty, 28, a teacher at a Black Panther school whose great-grandfather was John Ireland, had refused to reply to questions about a leased Lincoln Continental the prosecution claims was used by Newton the night of the slaying.

She had refused to answer Alameda County Deputy District Attorney Tom Orloff's questions Friday, contending the case against Newton is "a frame-up."

Municipal Court Judge J. Robert Friborg found her in contempt of court but delayed sentencing until Monday, hoping she would change her mind over the weekend.

Asked again Monday, she refused to answer when Orloff asked if she leased the vehicle. The prosecution claims Newton got out of the car the night of Aug. 6, 1974, and fatally shot Kathleen Smith, 17, a prostitute.

Last week Raphaelle Gary, 32, another prostitute, also known as "Crystal Grey" and "Little Momma," identified Newton as the man who got out of the Continental on an Oakland streetcorner, struck Miss Smith and pulled a gun on her.

She said she heard a shot and then saw Newton standing over Miss Smith's body, laughing.

Another self-acknowledged prostitute, Michelle "Candy" Jenkins, also placed Newton at the murder scene in testimony last week.

Orloff and Newton's attorney, Sheldon Otis, are scheduled to present closing arguments in the hearing on Friday. Friborg then will decide whether to bind Newton over to Superior Court for trial.

After a three-year, self-imposed exile in Cuba, Newton returned to face the murder charge and an unrelated assault charge involving the pistol whipping of a tailor. Newton remains free on $80,000 bail.

Say Watson refuses grand jury summons

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former County Assessor Philip Watson has refused an invitation by the county Grand Jury to appear at a three-day hearing into his activities, a Los Angeles newspaper reported today.

Watson's attorney, Douglas Dalton, said his client declined the offer due to orders from a physician. Watson, 52, retired on disability following heart surgery in February.

The paper also reported that a grand jury investigation would focus on Watson's allegedly improper assessments and use of county employes.

The investigation will include Watson's alleged use of county employes for his 1972 propertytax limitation initiative and for a $250-a-player golf tournament that raised funds for his successful 1974 re-election campaign, the newspaper said.

It added that assessments of a commercial building owned by a major campaign contributor and of an apartment complex in which Watson reportedly had an interest would also be studied.

The attorney said Watson wanted to present his side to the grand jury without accepting its offer to appear personally — an invitation that is normally extended to people who are being investigated.

Forty witnesses have been subpoenaed for the hearings, which were scheduled to begin today. Among them were six former Watson employes and acting Assessor Gerald Miller.

KTTV strike may halt top shows

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A strike by KTTV newsroom workers has created uncertainty over production schedules for six network television series taped at studios owned by the television station's parent company, Metromedia Inc.

More than 200 engineers involved with the shows are members of the union representing the newsroom workers, and it was unknown how many would honor picket lines put up Monday by the striking newsroom workers.

Episodes of the Norman Lear productions "The Jeffersons," "Maude," "Good Times," "All in the Family" and "One Day at a Time," as well as the James Komack productions of "Sugartime" and "Another Day" were to be taped at the studio this week.

Spokesmen for both producers said it was not immediately certain whether the scheduled tapings would be affected.

Conrad Holzgang, executive in charge of production for the Komack Co., said he expected supervisory personnel could fill in gaps.

Eighteen KTTV employes, including producers, writers, assignment editors and directors, walked off the job Monday, said Doug Culver, a producer and spokesman for the National Association of Broadcast Employes and Technicians Local 53.

Chowchilla kidnap case opens today

OAKLAND (AP) — The Chowchilla kidnapping trial opens today with the testimony of a school bus driver who became a hero during a stranger-than-fiction case of mass abduction.

Ed Ray, repeatedly honored since he and 26 children escaped from an underground tomb, was scheduled as the lead-off witness against their three admitted kidnappers.

Eight of the kidnapped children were also to appear — confronting their abductors for the first time since July of 1976.

The issue of the trial is not who kidnapped Ray and children. The three men on trial — Fred Woods, 26, James Schoenfeld, 26, and Richard Schoenfeld, 24 — have pleaded guilty to the kidnapping.

The question to be resolved is whether the victims suffered "bodily harm" at the hands of their abductors.

Simple kidnap carries a life sentence with eligibility for parole in seven years. But "kidnapping with bodily harm" carries a mandatory life term without the possibility of parole.

The defense, aware that children will be the star witnesses, has chosen a trial by judge rather than a jury which might be swayed by sympathy for the youngsters.

The defendants claim that not only were the children unharmed, but there was never any intention to harm them.

"This was really something that came up as a fluke that was perpetrated by three not too brilliant men," public defender Lester Jendron has said.

He and other defense attorneys are expected to note that the kidnappers provided matresses, food and ventilation in the buried moving van which held Ray and the children.

District Attorney David Minier, who came here from Madera County to prosecute, admits it's an unusual case in which to prove bodily harm. No one was shot or stabbed, and only Ray and four children came back with cuts and bruises.

Minier claims there was a greater harm — "The terror, fear, heat and discomfort of confinement."

The children will be asked to describe again the day of July 15, 1976, which became a nightmare for them.

It was that afternoon, as Ray drove the children home from summer school, that their bus was hijacked by three masked men. Ray and the children were herded into vans, taken to a gravel quarry and buried in their bizarre tomb.

After 16 hours, the childen and bus driver escaped, digging their way out. They were brought home, shivering and bewildered, to the glare of national publicity which had focused on the strange kidnapping.

Within two weeks, the Schoenfelds and Woods, products of priviledged middle-class backgrounds, were in custody.

Kid porn hearings cite Constitution

SAN DIEGO (AP) - The publisher of the legally embroiled Hustler magazine says laws against child pornography should focus on those actually responsible for posing children in sexually explicit photographs.

Larry Flynt told an Assembly Criminal Justice Committee hearing here Monday that to prosecute those who publish or distribute such material is an infringement on freedom of the press.

Flynt, 34, is currently appealing an obscenity conviction and a 25-year prison sentence in Ohio in connection with his own sexually explicit publication.

During an hour of testimony Flynt argued that child pornography is but a mirror that reflects deeper social problems which he said must be addressed first.

Committee members disagreed, saying that freedom of the press is not at stake.

"Aren't these activities being conducted specifically for the photography?" Asked Assemblyman Mel Levine, D-Los Angeles. "Isn't that encouragement or creation of conduct for the purpose of commercialization rather than coverage or reportage?"

Flynt, who was invited to testify by Committee Chairman Ken Maddy of Fresno, said that while a bank robbery is illegal, printing pictures of the event is not.

Levine rejected that analogy, saying that acts depicted in child pornography are "conduct that is expressly for the purpose of commercialization of it."

Flynt was undaunted and when asked if pictures in a magazine entitled "Lollitots" were pornographic, said "Yes. Are they obscene? Personally, yes. But should they have the right to be published? Of course."

Flynt has made an offer to Congress—as yet unaccepted— to use Hustler's profits, which he says total about $20 million a year, to underwrite a revival of the Presidential Commission on Obscenity and Pornography.

Justice is blind; not jurors

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Three blind people seeking a court order against the county for its past practice of excluding blind persons from jury duty have been sent to state court by a federal judge.

In refusing to grant the request to make new selection procedures allowing blind persons to serve on county juries retroactive for all of 1977, U.S. District Court Judge Warren Ferguson said Monday the suit should have been filed in state court.

"You're first going to have to wait to see what the state courts think about this," Ferguson told plaintiffs Mitchell Pomerantz, Maureen Soucy and Bert Hayner. Their attorney, Stanley Fleischman, said he would re-file the suit in state court.

However, Ferguson will hear arguments in the same plaintiffs' related suit against the county for $50,000 damages each.

Since the suit was filed Sept. 16, the county has amended its selection process to make blind people eligible for jury duty.

Cop's murder trial to jury

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Nine men and three women jurors began deliverating today in the trial of a retired San Gabriel policeman accused of kidnaping and murdering a teen-age gang member.

Superior Court Judge William B. Keene ordered the jury sequestered for the night Monday after giving them final instructions for considering their verdict in the three-week-old trial of 33-year-old Billy Joe McIlvain.

The former officer is accused of kidnaping and murder in the shooting death of David Dominguez, 18, a member of a gang that had harassed McIlvain.

Dominguez was killed inside McIlvain's home Feb. 28 after police beseiged the building.

McIlvain initially told police that he had had a long-running feud with Dominguez' gang, called "Sangra," and that Dominguez had kidnaped him at gunpoint and made the former officer drive him to the home.

McIlvain claimed that when the teen-ager's attention was diverted, he pulled a pistol from his boot and shot him.

Younger has tigress by tail

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Women activists contend state Attorney General Evelle Younger's proposal to rotate the post of state chief justice among all Supreme Court members is aimed at diluting the power of women — specifically Chief Justice Rose Ann Bird.

"If he were truly concerned by the accumulation of power in one individual, why did he not propose rotating the chief justice's position when it was held by a man," asked Gloria Allred, spokeswoman for the National Organization for Women.

Ms. Allred held a news conference Monday on the steps of the former home of Clara Shortridge Foltz, first woman lawyer admitted to the California bar in 1879.

Under Younger's plan, announced last week in Sacramento, the state's seven Supreme Court justices would continue to be appointed to virtual life terms, but the chief justiceship would rotate between them.

A chief justice now serves a 12-year term but cannot be opposed on the ballot when the term expires.

Pot smoker driver arrests jump

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The California Department of Justice says that one out of four persons stopped for erratic driving in a special sampling had been smoking marijuana.

Victor Reeve, manager of the department's Central Resources Unit, said Monday the sampling was taken in April, May and June as part of the first study of its kind in the nation.

The results were in the second quarterly report of the study.

Marijuana use was up slightly since the first quarterly report. Officials said the figures are conservative and will probably climb higher.

Reeve said one test was aimed at determining the presence of up to 0.1 percent of tetrahydrocannabinol (THC) in the blood. In this test of 376 motorists stopped for driving erratically, 27.6 percent had up to 0.1 percent in their blood of the chemical in marijuana that impairs a person's functions. The first-quarter percentage was 26.4.

Another test was set up to determine the presence of more than 0.1 percent of that chemical in the blood. Reeve said of the 360 erratic drivers in that sampling, 18.8 percent had levels above 0.1 per cent. The first-quarter figure was 16.1 percent.

He said the tests were taken mostly on state highways in outlying areas. None was taken on city streets or freeways.

The study was initiated after a 1976 law reduced the penalties for possessing an ounce or less of marijuana to a maximum $100 fine, traffic-ticket style offense.

Mexican-Americans decry UC admissions

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The University of California's recent decision to weigh test scores more heavily in deciding whether to admit marginal students has been sharply criticized by two prominent Spanish-surnamed officials.

"To continue to rely on tests which have not been proven adequate indicators of success rates is a gross irresponsibility on the part of the regents," Assemblyman Art Torres, D-Los Angeles, told a news conference Monday.

Torres and Los Angeles school board member Dr. Julian Nava, a university professor, said they are trying to organize a coalition to protest changes in the admission policy adopted earlier this month.

Torres said standardized tests have not adequately predicted the success rate of minority college students. He claimed such students have often performed better into college than test norms would have indicated.

"We're not opposed to testing per se," Torres said after the news conference. "We're just suggesting that the types of tests are not necessarily applicable."

A UC Board of Regents' study concedes the changes will tend to weed out a larger percentage of minority students with high school averages just barely above university minimums.

The study showed that 16.2 percent fewer Mexican-American freshmen, 8.8 percent fewer black freshmen and 2 percent fewer white students would be admitted under the new standards.

The policy, which takes effect in 1979, is based on a complex formula which would give added weight to standardized national test scores of students whose grade point averages are betwen 3.0 and 3.1, said UCLA spokesman Chandler Harris.

Investiture of heir to Spanish throne postponed

COVADONGA, Spain (AP) — The investiture of King Juan Carlos' 9-year-old son with the title traditionally held by the heir to the Spanish throne was postponed by political objections at the last minute today, and instead young Prince Felipe de Borbon formally "accepted" the title of Prince of Asturias.

Socialist and Communist members of the Cortes, the Spanish parliament, boycotted the simple religious ceremony in the northwest Spanish province of Oviedo, the seat of the 9th and 10th century Asturian kingdom.

Unofficial sources said leftist members of the Cortes from Asturias and some monarchists felt the investiture was a constitutional act and therefore should be delayed until after approval of the new democratic constitution.

The constitution is now being written by the Cortes to replace the charter promulgated by the Franco dictatorship. It probably will not be approved until next year at the earliest.

The leftists also objected because the delegation of Asturian officials who asked that the young prince be given the title were holdovers from the Franco regime.

Political sources said the change in the ceremony in no way affected Felipe's status as his father's heir. They said the delay in his investiture was a technicality only.

However, monarchists said earlier the official recognition of the child prince as heir to the five-century-old Spanish throne would help to head off any challenge to the future King Philip VI's succession by the rival Carlist branch of the Spanish Bourbon dynasty, which fought a series of wars from 1833 to 1876 but failed to get the crown, or by members of his own branch of the Bourbons.

The Carlists have not been a serious threat since dictator Francisco Franco designated Juan Carlos in 1969 to become king after his death. But the investiture became a matter of some urgency because of two attempts to kill the 39-year-old king in the last two months.

The title of Prince of Asturias, equivalent to Britain's Prince of Wales, was never given to Juan Carlos. The last Prince of Asturias was his uncle Alfonso, the oldest son of King Alfonso XIII, who renounced his right to the throne because he was a hemophiliac.

King Alfonso was deposed in 1931 and Spain became a republic. Franco changed it back to a monarchy in 1947, eight years after his victory in the civil war, but named himself chief of state and left the throne vacant until his death in 1975.

Under the 1947 Law of Succession, Felipe cannot succeed to the throne until he is 31, and if Juan Carlos dies before then a regency council will rule. Spain's new parliament is to rewrite Franco's constitution, but it is not expected to revise the Law of Succession.

Palace aides say Felipe is aware of his royal role but more interested in zipping around the palace grounds outside Madrid on his motorbike.

The king, who often rides a motorcycle alongside his son, had the horsepower of his son's trail bike cut down for safety.

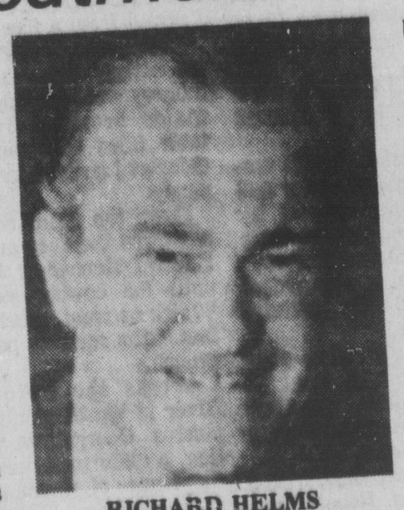
National security, 'career' cited in treatment of Helms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government says national security and concern for a "distinguished career" were factors in allowing former CIA director Richard M. Helms to plead no contest to charges of failing to testify fully about CIA activities in Chile.

The Justice Department, with President Carter's concurrence, cited Helms' "outstanding services" Monday in asking a federal judge to impose the minimum $200 fine and suspend any jail sentence on two misdemeanor charges.

Helms, 64, entered the plea to charges stemming from 1973 testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which was holding hearings on his nomination to be U.S. ambassador to Iran.



RICHARD HELMS

The nomination by then-President Richard M. Nixon was subsequently confirmed by the Senate.

Assistant Attorney General Benjamin R. Civiletti said he expected Helms to be sentenced soon, perhaps as early as today.

The plea bargaining arrangement drew an immediate protest from Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, who presided over a Senate subcommittee investigation into clandestine U.S. involvement in Chilean domestic politics.

"I thought there was to be an end to the double standard of justice for the big shots," Church said. "Apparently, Helms was just too hot to handle."

Watergate burglar held in threat on witness

NEW YORK (AP) — Convicted Watergate burglar Frank Sturgis has been arrested for allegedly threatening a witness who gave a House of Representatives committee details of Sturgis' relationship with Lee Harvey Oswald, police report.

Oswald was the assassin of President John F. Kennedy, according to the Warren Commission, which investigated the assassination.

Police said Sturgis, 52,of Miami, was seized at 11:30 p.m. Monday in the Manhattan apartment of Marita Lorenz, former undercover agent for the FBI and CIA and onetime lover of Cuban President Fidel Castro.

On Miss Lorenz' complaint, police charged Sturgis with aggravated harassment and coercion. They said he applied coercion "instilling fear on the complainant to refrain from testifying before a legally constituted authority.

Miss Lorenz was interviewed Saturday by Gaeton Fonzi and A. Gonzales, investigators from the House Committee on Assassinations, about a trip she says she took with Oswald, Sturgis and four Cubans in a car from Miami to Dallas a few days before Kennedy's death.

She told Fonzi and Gonzales that her companions were members of Operation 40, a 30-member guerrilla organization originally formed by the CIA in 1960 to prepare for the invasion of Cuba.

Sturgis, who has admitted he took part in Operation 40, has denied he made the trip with Miss Lorenz.

Police said Sturgis somehow heard about Miss Lorenz' session with the committee representatives and flew to New York. Police said some of the threats were telephoned.

Sturgis was to be arraigned today in Manhattan Criminal Court.

Boy runs to meet mom, run over by her car

A young Pomona child, running to meet his mother, was run over by the small sedan she was driving Monday afternoon, police reported.

The accident occurred in the driveway of the family's home at 1981 Titus Ave.

The victim's mother, Darlene Romero, 21, told police that she had driven into the driveway and stopped when she realized she had parked too close to the garage door. She said that when she backed up the car, she felt it run over something and found it had been her son, Frank.

The 5-year-old victim was taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital, suffering possible internal injuries. He was reported in fair condition today in the intensive-care unit.

'Proof' coffee crisis contrived

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spiraling U.S. coffee prices in recent years can be attributed in part to supply and price manipulations by coffee exporting countries, congressional investigators say.

The Government Accounting Office, an arm of Congress, issued a 91-page report concluding that "the producing countries have been directed by their perception of their own best interests" in setting export prices and controlling inventories.

The GAO report was released Monday by Rep. Frederick W. Richmond, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Agriculture subcommittee on domestic marketing, consumer relations and nutrition.

Richmond said the report "proves that the 'Great Coffee Crisis' was contrived by the coffee-producing nations to maintain artificially high prices so that they could pay off their enormous petroleum bills."

The GAO report also said the worried reactions of importers, retailers and consumers to news of a possible shortage contributed to rising coffee prices, which at one time approached $4.50 a pound on grocery store shelves.

Richmond said the State Department went along with the dramatic increase in coffee prices in the last two years by negotiating a 1976 International Coffee Agreement with a price floor to cover foreign farmers' costs, but no ceiling to protect consumers.

Coffee prices rose 114 per cent after the pact was signed a year ago, but they plummeted at the import level this spring.

Richmond also accused the major U.S. coffee roasters of not passing on the recent lower import coffee prices to retailers and, eventually, to consumers.

He said the retail price for coffee should be about $2.85 a pound now.

Man found beaten and stabbed at boys club

An unidentified Latin man, possibly an illegal alien, was severely beaten and stabbed 20 times behind the Boys Club at Ferron Street and Turner Avenue in Old Northtown, Cucamonga, Monday night sheriff's deputies reported.

West End deputies said that a woman called the station about 9:15 p.m. to report that a man was injured behind the club.

When deputies arrived minutes later, they found the victim, about 25 to 30 years of age, 5 feet 6, 145 pounds wearing dark blue pants and a blue western-style shirt, severely injured in a pool of blood.

Deputies said it appeared the man had been brutally beaten about the head with large chunks of asphalt and stabbed numerous times in the back and stomach.

The victim was rushed to San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland where deputies said he was in very critical condition.

Deputies believe the victim was attacked by several men and possibly robbed about 9 p.m. Deputies said the man had no wallet or money on him when he was found.

Pair sought in market robbery

Ontario police are seeking two men, one wearing a sheet over his head, who robbed the Stop n Go market at Eighth Street and Baker Avenue in Ontario of a small amount of cash Monday evening.

Police said the two men entered the store about 6:30 p.m. and pulled a revolver on the woman clerk, demanding money from the cash register.

Trick instead of treat as apple has pin inside

An Alta Loma mother reported to West End Sheriff's deputies that her children had received an apple with a pin hidden inside while trick-or-treating Halloween night.

Upland city crews this morning were busy cleaning up the Madonna on the Trail statue that had become the victim of trick-or-treaters who placed a pumpkin over the mother's head and a cape about her shoulders.

Chino police were a bit concerned Halloween night when residents in the downtown area of the city reported that a group of men dressed in Ku Klux Klan outfits were blockading the roads.

A number of police units immediately went to the area and after questioning the suspected Klansmen, found out they were trick-or-treaters playing a prank.

In Montclair police were dispatched to Monte Vista Avenue where a man was reported down and seriously injured in the roadway. When officers arrived, the "body" was quickly stuffed in the car and transported to the station.

The body proved to be a man-sized dummy trick-or-treaters had thrown into the street.

Other West End residents reported a series of Halloween pranks, including a patio chair set on fire, a pumpkin's carrot nose stolen and eggs thrown.

Hitler had son, historian claims

LONDON (AP) — Did Adolf Hitler have a son?

The Sunday Times of London quotes Dr. Werner Maser, 55, a respected historian of the Nazi era, as saying Hitler's son is a 59-year-old Frenchman named Jean Lorret.

Maser says he has known for 12 years that Hitler had a son, located Lorret two years ago and has been working since then to authenticate that he is Hitler's son.

The newspaper said Lorret is seriously ill and willing to talk about his parentage.

According to the Times report, Hitler met Lorret's mother in 1918 while serving in World War I. The boy was given her name and not told of his father's identity until 1952 when his mother was dying.

Car goes over freeway embankment; five hurt

Five persons were injured Monday night when a car came off an onramp of the Orange Freeway from Temple Avenue in west Pomona and went down a 40-foot embankment before crashing into a second car on the freeway, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Injured in the first car were Bernard Daniel Bollinge, 17, Glendora, and a passenger, David Allen Mack, 16, Glendora.

Injured in the second vehicle were Orien Joy Pagan, 39, 23814 Diamond Bar Blvd., Diamond Bar; Jan Hoffman, 40, and Kathy Hoffman, 22, both of 23819 Twin Pines Ave., Diamond Bar.

Bollinge and Mack, both reportedly told patrolmen they would see their own physicians, while the driver of the second vehicle, Pagan, and both passengers, Jan and Kathy Hoffman, sought treatment at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

Two Pomona gas stations robbed

Two Pomona service station attendants were robbed in separate holdups Monday by robbers of similar descriptions.

The first incident was at Robin Oil at 1207 E. Mission Blvd. where the attendant told police Monday afternoon that he surrendered cash to a man armed with a jagged-edged knife. The second holdup occurred several hours later at the Union Oil station nearby at 1200 E. Mission Blvd. The victim, a 32-year-old man, told police he also was robbed by a man armed with a knife.

Motorcyclist injured in crash

A 19-year-old Fullerton man was listed in stable condition today with head injuries at Chino General Hospital after he lost control of his motorcycle while going west on Carbon Canyon Road near Ginseng Lane and crashed Monday night.

California Highway Patrol officers aid the motorcyclist, Dean Patrick Hoebel, was admitted to the Chino hospital shortly after the 5:50 p.m. accident.

Patrolmen said the man apparently lost control of his motorcycle when it came over a hill on the curving road.

The bike went airborne and crashed into a dirt embankment.

Seek rape suspect kin

Claremont police today revealed that they are looking for the brother of a rape suspect they arrested Sunday in connection with the attacks on two Pitzer College coeds Oct. 23.

The man they wish to interview was identified by Detective Ted Kamena as Danny Apodaca, 24. Apodaca's brother, Jesse, 29, was arrested Sunday afternoon at El Barrio Park in Claremont.

Police were issued warrants for the brothers' arrest by Pomona Municipal Court Judge Robert Gustaveson. Bail was set at $25,000 each.

The warrants named the men as suspects in the kidnapping, robbery and rape of the two 18-year-old students.

Faulty lamp plug blamed in fire

Los Angeles County firemen today blamed a $27,000 house fire in Diamond Bar on a faulty lamp plug.

The fire, at 21295 Gerndal Ave., damaged mainly the bedroom containing the lamp. The blaze, which was put out by one engine company, broke out shortly before noon.

Rather sit in Mexican jail than have record in U.S.

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Lance English says he'd rather sit in his Mexican jail cell than spend Dec. 25 with his family in Austin if the U.S. government is going to give him 2½ years of federal probation for a Christmas present.

"I only have 11 more months to go over here with the time I get off for good behavior," said English, 29. "It'd be stupid for me to go back to the States if I've got to be on probation for 2½ years and have a record."

English, who received a five-year, nine-month sentence for marijuana possession, has spent the last four months in the Mexican jail just across the Rio Grande from this border city. He is one of 26 American prisoners in the Matamoros jail awaiting implementation of the prisoner exchange treaty.

"The U.S. officials have told us that we would probably be home for Christmas and that may sound good, but there are still a lot of unanswered questions," said English, interviewed by telephone Monday. "Nobody's told us whether we'd have a record in the States. If that's the case, I'd be better off staying over here."

The U.S. magistrate in Brownsville, William Mallet, said Monday: "As I understand it, the prisoner will have no record in the United States unless he already has one. The Mexican convictions will not be added to their record."

Mallet added he will go to the Matamoros jail on Dec. 12 and 13 and preside over hearings at the Monterrey prison on Dec. 14.

The American prisoners must be brought before a magistrate and verbally agree with the provisions of the treaty before an exchange can be made.

One provison disallows any appeal of a prisoner's sentence in U.S. courts. A prisoner must appeal in the country where he was sentenced under the treaty guidelines.

Terrell English, Lance's father, said in Austin: "It's cost the family about $10,000 since Lance was put in jail over there. If he can come home by Christmas, that's fine; but if he can stay and not have a record, then that's even better. I'm sure he'll do what he thinks is best."

Death unveils drug lab

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police say they have uncovered an illegal PCP laboratory after a man apparently died from fumes that escaped while manufacturing the hallucinogenic drug.

Charles Thomas, 42, of Los Angeles, was pronounced dead at Broadway Community Hospital Sunday. Lt. Fred Reno said Monday that 35-year-old Charles Thurmond of Los Angeles had taken Thomas to the hospital after finding him slumped over a box in the garage laboratory.

Police have reported finding PCP crystals in the garage with a street sale value of about $50,000.

Thurmond has been booked for investigation of possessing PCP.

DISCO HALLOWEEN — Halloween revelers at New York's Studio 54 dance the night away Monday night in costumes ranging from burlesque to stellar.

No tricks, some treats in VIP land

WASHINGTON (AP) — No tricks. No treats. Not even peanuts at the White House this year. Halloween on Pennsylvania Avenue was a bummer.

That's what five tots discovered Monday night on a Halloween tour of who's who in the nation's capital.

Disguised as a bunny, a witch, a cowboy, a soldier and Groucho Marx, they arrived at the White House gates howling, "Trick or treat."

"Sorry, we don't have anything," said one of the guards.

Undaunted, they kept on trickin' to Washington's best addresses.

Former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger wasn't home. Neither was Jackie Kennedy Onassis' mother, Mrs. Hugh Auchincloss, though a light was on in the servant's quarters.

The grand old diplomat, Averell Harriman, had a maid handing out dimes. And Lynda Johnson Robb, whose father used to be president, was pushing raisins.

At the CIA, only real-life spooks could get through the gates.

And at the Iranian embassy, home of caviar and champagne served by white-gloved butlers, there were no treats this year.

"This is a government building," the official greeter said.

The kids' five-star pumpkin award went to Ethel Kennedy, who lives on an estate called Hickory Hill in McLean, Va.

In her front yard, where the late Sen. Robert Kennedy used to play touch football with his brood, a straw witch riding a broom dangled from a tree.

Inside, where fireplaces on either side of the hallway were burning, two maids presided over a table filled with mugs of cider and a dozen kinds of candy.

Down the road, nobody answered the door at Sen. Edward Kennedy's home until the cowboy yelled, "Trick or treat, smell my feet." His reward: peanut crunch.

Across the Potomac River in Washington's exclusive Georgetown section, a uniformed maid at the home of Washington Post publisher Katharine Graham handed out chocolates and hard candy.

A woman in a blue jogging outfit offered apples and candy at the castle-like home of reporter Bob Woodward, who helped make Watergate a household word.

Several blocks away, the heir to the Reynolds tobacco fortune, Smith Bagley, lives in a hotel-size house with a tennis court in the back yard. When the doorbell rang, a woman answered holding a silver tray piled high with candy.

Standing in the glow of a giant crystal chandelier, she offered the tray to the trick-or-treaters, cautioning, "Only one lollypop each."

COME UP EMPTY — A White House guard offers some conversation but no treats outside the White House Monday night as he turns away trick-or-treaters. The youngsters visited other well known Washington addresses during their Halloween travel.

700 pounds of pot is seized

CANOGA PARK (AP) — Police say they have arrested five persons at a motel and confiscated some 700 pounds of Kansas marijuana having an estimated street value of $65,000.

The raid Monday night at the Desoto Motel followed the purchase of 155 pounds of marijuana by undercover officers who paid three men and two women $2,700, police said.

The five have been booked for investigation of possessing marijuana for sale.

Only one — Jimmy Burgett, 32 — has been identified by police. Burgett, whose address was unknown, was also being held on an eight-year-old felony warrant accusing him of selling dangerous drugs and receiving stolen property.

Mt. SAC astronomy students

Wizards building marvels

Designing original circuitry for laser light concerts and building the largest refracting telescope in the world are not every-day projects for the students of astronomy at Mt. San Antonio College (MSAC).

But the MSAC planetarium has proven to be a fertile training environment for students. And three of the program's graduates have gained such proficiency in these areas that they are far beyond many experts and professionals with dozens of years in the field, college officials claim.

The three are Jeff Schroeder, Pomona, Bill Cameron, Covina and Mike Wandtke, Pomona. They started their training as seating guides for the planetarium's Friday programs.

Schroeder began his work on the refracting telescope three years ago. Two years were spent designing then constructing the metal parts of the 11-inch, 1,100-pound instrument in the college's industrial technology lab. The third year, he ground the delicate lenses.

The final assembly stands 16-feet tall. The largest of its kind ever built by an amateur, the telescope and Schroeder received national publicity in "Sky and Telescope" when the project Was completed last summer.

During the recent solar eclipse, Schroeder trailered the telescope to the campus so students and staff could view the phenomenon.

Planetarium director Ronald N. Hartman said, "Jeff is quite ready to work in a planetarium at the technical level to develop programs, and under the director's guidance to give shows."

Cameron and Wandtke have been working during the same period on the perfection of laser circuitry that allows precision manipulation of the beam.

Using optical materials to draw the laser light patterns, they have choreographed electronic music with the patterns for the current planetarium program, Isasc Asimov's "The Last Question," and have developed a number of other concerts for general use.

Cameron said, "Our first materials were very crude and the scanners did not give us the repeatibility we were after. We have just recently located a company which makes scanners with all kinds of patterns. This will give us more control over the laser beam and more versatility in our laser light concert programs."

Hartman said, "Bill and Mike have done more research and actual development in this area than almost anyone else in the country. Their technology is outstanding."

In addition to developing laser technology which integrates art, music and science for both planetarium programming and for concerts, Cameron and Wandtke are moving into the techniques of holography to use for special effects. The team has been using Wandtke's laser instrument.

For "The Last Question," Schroeder designed and produced all the art work, "jumping head-long into the use of the air brush for the first time," Hartman said. His design for the futuristic city in "The Last Question" is one of the highlights of the show.

All three students have been giving demonstrations to both school children and Friday evening planetarium audiences on the planetarium instrumentation.

Schroeder, who earned a machine tool technology degree from MSAC, recently completed his bachelor's degree at Cal Poly Pomona. Cameron is also a B.S. graduate of Cal Poly. Wandtke earned his B.S. from Cal State Fullerton.

JEFF SCHROEDER WORKS ON HIS TELESCOPE

PTA leader is speaker

ARLENE SOLOMON

Arlene Solomon, secretary of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers, will be the featured speaker at the Pomona Council PTA annual inspirational breakfast Wednesday.

The breakfast will begin at 8:30 a.m. at Kellogg West on the Cal Poly Pomona campus.

Mrs. Solomon, who conducts programs in leadership training throughout the state, will speak on "Is Your Attitude Showing."

Supt. Charles Carpenter will bring greetings from the district and introduce the three new area administrators. Laura Pilchier, Pomona Council PTA president, will preside at the affair. Rafael Estupinian, administrator of bilingual/bicultural programs for Pomona schools, will present a poem from one of his books of bilingual poetry.

Doreen Keepers serves as program chairman with assistance from Rose Yezek and Marcella Cortez.

YMCA names two staffers

The Pomona Valley YMCA has added two new people to its staff. They are Margaret Soto, hired as director of volunteers and program assistant, and Willie Redmon, hired as director of resources for the outreach program.

WILLIE REDMON

Mrs. Soto has lived in the valley for 15 years. She attended Mt. San Antonio College and studied psychology and sociology.

She is the mother of three. Her eldest soon will be graduated from the Marine Corps training school in San Diego.

She formerly was employed by Los Angeles County Probation Department where for more than six years she developed youth programs.

Redmon is a 1968 graduate of USC with a degree in psychology and physical education. He coached and taught in LaJunta, Colo., two years, and later served four years in the Air Force.

Later he moved to California and did graduate work at Cal State Los Angeles in psychology.

Currently Redmon is attending law school in West Covina. He and his wife, Anita, and their three sons moved to Pomona a year ago.

Push night hours for DMV

Many California motorists want the Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV) to provide evening and Saturday service at local offices, automatically extend the driving privilege of people with good driving records, and issue driver's licenses good for 8 or 12-year terms.

Those preferences are suggested by the results of a scientific survey conducted for DMV by an independent polling firm, Field Research Corp., between Aug. 13 and 23, and released recently.

The company's "Fieldscope" survey polled 1,100 randomly selected adults, aged 18 or over, in personal in-home interviews on four questions about the department's service schedules and driver's license issuance program.

Saturday service in DMV's 147 local field offices was preferred by 21.4 pcent of those polled, with 74.1 percent satisfied with weekdays only, and 4.5 percent either not answering or having no DMV business to conduct. The strongest preference for Saturday service came from persons 25 to 29 years old, while persons 50 years of age or over generally believed any weekday was acceptable.

Fieldscope's survey results also showed 42.6 percent would like local department offices to be open after 5 p.m., with most wanting to conduct their DMV business between 5 and 7 p.m.

Monday-through-Friday office hours from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. were preferred by 46.5 percent. About 10.3 percent wanted field offices open at 7 a.m., with the remaining persons not reporting.

DMV is preparing to change public service schedules under the provisions of Assembly Bill 940, according to Motor Vehicles Chief Deputy Director Charles Ericksen.

Recycling benefits Bogota student

BILL THOMASON, STUDENTS AND RECYCLED TRASH

Eighty-six students in three fifth and sixth grade classes (Unit 4) at Condit School in Claremont have raised $800 in five weeks to help support a South American youth "adopted" by the Unit 4 students eight years ago.

Under the program, the youngsters in the classes collect returnable bottles, aluminum cans, newspapers and cash for the 14-year-old boy, Jiro Castro of Bogota, Colombia.

For the past six years, the unit has sent a cash donation at Christmas to the youth. Amounts have varied from $200 to $750 in the past. This year's gifts will mark a new high.

Teachers involved in the project this year are Bill Thomason, Mrs. Devon Lingenfelter and Mrs. Margo Estes. The school principal is Lee Bashore.

The boy, one of a family of 10, has kept the teachers aware of what the money has been used for through the years. He sends an annual progress report, with a picture, to the school. According to the reports, the money has been used for books, clothing, tuition and a two-story home.

Helping the students with refunds this year are Stater Bros Market, Indian Hill and Foothill boulevards, Claremont, which accepted $200 worth of bottles; Isaac and Sons, Ontario, accepted aluminum cans; and Recycling Resources of Pomona, accepted newspapers.

Bingo boggles balloting

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

The Pomona City Council has voted 3 to 1, with one abstention, to change its tax of 10 percent on gross receipts of bingo operators to 1 percent up to $50,000, 5 percent between $50,000 and $100,000, and 10 percent for over $100,000, effectively immediately.

The council, however, Monday night took a long time getting to that decision, which was the recommendation of City Clerk Larry Thomas.

Councilwoman Georgia Grove started the discussion by suggesting that the city stay at 10 percent.

Councilman Adrian Wright said he believed 10 percent is too much. "The guys I want to get are making the big money," he said.

Mrs. Grove moved to receive and file Thomas' recommendation, which would have left the tax at 10 percent. But no one would second her motion.

Wright then moved that the tax be 5 percent up to $50,000, 10 percent between $50,000 and $100,000, and 15 percent over $100,000. Councilman G. Stanton Selby seconded the motion, which deadlocked, with that pair voting yes and Mrs. Grove and Mayor Charles Bader voting no. Councilman Benjamin Ochoa who abstained said, "You got yourselves into this."

Selby then moved that the tax rate be changed to 5 percent up to $50,000, and 10 percent above that figure.

Wright seconded the motion, and it passed, 3-1 with Bader voting no, and Ochoa again abstaining.

About half an hour later, Wright asked that the discussion be reopened. The council agreed.

Wright said that he thought the 5 percent tax would be too high for the small organizations, and moved that the council accept Thomas' recommendation of 1, 5, and 10 percent.

Mrs. Grove voted no, and Ochoa abstained.

The council instructed the city clerk to begin immediately collecting the tax on the newly agreed basis.

Attacks 'Gypsy' cabbies

A campaign to rid the valley of "gypsy cabbies" which operate illegally and overcharge the public has been launched by Los Angeles County Supervisor Pete Schabarum.

The supervisor asked Sheriff Peter Pitchess for strict enforcement of the county's tax licensing ordinance.

Schabarum said he was concerned that the stepped-up enforcement of the taxi ordinance by the city of Los Angeles is driving unauthorized taxicabs into the unincorporated areas, including the valley.

Los Angeles County presently licenses more than 30 taxi operators and several applications are still pending.

1,000 Kaiser Hospital workers walk out

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

More than 1,000 non-medical employees of the Kaiser Medical Center in Fontana and 70 employees in three area clinics went on strike at 12:01 a.m. today.

Clinics involved are in Ontario, where 25 workers are on strike; in San Bernardino, with 20 employees; and in Riverside, where another 25 workers are on strike.

A hospital spokesman said this morning that both the hospital and clinics are open and operating normally.

"We're filling in with other people," said Bonnie Miller, the spokesman for Kaiser Permanente facilities.

She said all patients should keep their scheduled appointments unless otherwise notified.

Negotiations between striking employees, members of United Steelworkers Local 7600, continued until midnight in an effort to solve the stalemate before contract expiration, she said. Workers began leaving their posts before negotiators stopped talking.

Striking employs are licens vocational nurses and clerical, maintenance and dietary workers. Dispute is over economic issues, according to Miss Martin.

Negotiations had been conducted regularly since September in an attempt to avoid the strike.

This is the second strike to hit Kaiser in three months. Aug. 11, registered nurses at the Fontana medical center, the three clinics and three other medical centers in the Los Angeles area went on strike over wages and working conditions.

The earlier strike was resolved almost a month later when the registered nurses return to work after they received most of their demands.

As of this morning, negotiations in the present strike have been discontinued.

"No date has been set for the next meeting," reported Miss Martin this morning.

Smoking cited as fire cause

A discarded cigarette is blamed for a $3,000 fire at the home of Mike Hall, 618 Maryport Ave., San Dimas, late Monday afternoon.

The fire was reported at 5:23 p.m. in the attached garage of the home. The garage has been converted into a bedroom.

A son of the occupants said he had been smoking in the room about three hours before the fire was discovered. The fire started in a bed.

Damage was listed by county fire officials as $2,500 to the structure and $500 to contents.

Piedmont Mesa annexation on ballot

Residents of Piedmont Mesa, the area of 260 single-family homes bound by Williams Avenue, Base Line Road and Oak Creek Wash, will vote Nov. 8 on annexation to the city of Claremont.

Latest figures show that 548 registered voters are qualified to vote at 4013 Las Casas Ave. Annexation to the city requires a simple majority of the votes cast.

One of the major reasons advanced by supporters of the annexation is that annexing to the city will make it possible to join the sewer district in a subsequent action.

Donald King, planning director, said the area now in Los Angeles County is constructed with septic tanks for each home.

"The soil in the area is not conducive to the use of septic tanks and, as a result, many homeowners are having these tanks pumped at least once a year," King said. He estimated the cost of each pumping as "around $135."

King said a sewer is available on Garey Avenue but Piedmont Mesa resident cannot apply to join the sewer district until the area is a part of the city.

Proponents of the annexation also say that becoming a part of Claremont would permit the residents more control over the future development of a former school site which is adjacent to the area.

At present, the county has jurisdiction over the development of this site.

Fire protection would not change since both Claremont and the county area are covered by the Los Angeles County Fire Department.

Police protection, now offered by the San Dimas sheriff's office, would be provided by Claremont police should the annexation be approved.

The sample ballot sent to voters lists arguments for Annexation 53, as it is identified on the ballot, signed by four residents of the area. There was no argument against annexation filed.

Valley briefs

Water bond debate

Members of the Claremont Kiwanis Club will hear arguments for and against the $26-million Pomona Valley Municipal Water District special bond election when the club meets Thursday noon at Griswold's, Claremont.

The special election is Tuesday.

Speakers will be Stan Kawa, general manager of the water district, favoring the issue, and Ron Teeples, a professor of economics at Claremont Men's College, presenting the negative arguments.

Motorist recuperating

Penny S. Mitchell, the 21-year-old Pomona woman who was injured late Saturday night when the auto she was driving slammed into a parked car and then a parked 40-foot trailer, was reported in fair condition today after surgery for facial and leg injuries at County-USC Medical Center. The accident occurred at Garey Avenue north of Grove Street.

Rout 200 egg throwers

Sheriff's deputies today said they had to sweep through Old Orchard Park in Valinda Monday night to clear it of between 150 and 200 egg-throwing young persons. They said they arrested six persons — two for throwing missiles at moving autos and four for curfew violations. The officers were sent to the park by motorists complaining that they were being egged .

Book woman for arson

A Pomona mother has been arrested by fire officials on charges of arson and attempted murder as a result of a fire in her home late Monday.

Edna Lee Robinson, 30, of 1583 S. Huntington St., is in Pomona Jail today in lieu of $5,000 bail awaiting formal charges by the district attorney's office, according to Fire Inspector Tom Fee.

Mrs. Robinson was arrested two blocks from her home after being spotted by a Pomona police unit.

Fee said Mrs. Robinson is suspected of using matches to start a fire in a bedroom in the home. Asleep in the house at the time of the 10:49 p.m. fire were Mrs. Robinson's mother, Tommy Lee Edwards, and her four children, Benjamin, 10, Patrick, 7, Mario, 3, and Johnny, 2.

According to officials, Mrs. Robinson had argued with neighbors earlier in the evening and had broken three windows in the neighbors' home. Later, one window had been broken in the Robinson house.

Mrs. Robinson reportedly had also been fighting with her mother during the evening.

United Way volunteers tour agencies

To better understand how funds collected by the New United Way 1977-78 campaign are distributed and used in the community, volunteers are being taken on tours of the numerous human-care agencies assisted by the annual drive now underway.

As a part of this get-acquainted program, volunteers from Cal Poly Pomona recently visited the Pomona Valley Regional Center of the Crippled Children's Society.

Mrs. Kathryn MacFarland, executive director of the center, told the group of volunteer campaign coordinators from the university how United Way funds assist in providing free services to handicapped children and adults in the valley.

The university is a part of East Zone of Region II of the New United Way. The zone, headed by Richard Schmidt, manager of the Pomona office of the Automobile Club of Southern California, is comprised of Pomona, Claremont, La Verne, San Dimas, Diamond Bar and Walnut.

This year, the campaign of the United Way of Los Angeles County and its partner of several years, the American Red Cross, has expanded to include nine additional health agencies.

The agencies included in the new partnership are the California Division of the American Cancer Society, Southern California Affiliate of American Diabetes Association, Greater Los Angeles Affiliate of American Heart Association, City of Hope, Crippled Children's Society of Los Angeles County, Hospital Charity Fund, Lung Association of Los Angeles County, Mental Health Association in Los Angeles County, and Myasthenia Gravis Foundation, California Chapter.

This expanded campaign affiliation constitutes the largest federated campaign in California and one of the largest in the country.

Region II will continue its campaign for the next three months seeking to reach a goal of $4 million.

Among the local agencies assisted through the United Way are the PTA 10th District Dental Clinic, Visiting Nurse Association of Pomona-West End, Boys Republic, McKinley Home for Boys, Family Service of Pomona Valley, Salvation Army Family Service, Old Baldy Council Boy Scouts of America, Pomona Boys' Club, Mt. San Antonio Council Camp Fire Girls, Spanish Trails Council Girl Scouts, Pomona Valley YMCA, Greater Pomona Valley YWCA, Ontario-Pomona Association for Retarded Citizens, Catholic Big Brothers, Children's Home Society and Legal Aid Society of Pomona Valley.

Vote yes on tri-communities

Voters in the tri-communities area of Alta Loma, Cucamonga and Etiwanda will decide a week from today whether to incorporate into the City of Rancho Cucamonga.

Such a city with a land area of almost 40 square miles and a population of 40,000 within a year, would be one of the state's larger communities.

Tri-communities is an area not unlike many in California and the rest of the nation which is threatened with urban strangulation in a formerly sleepy rural atmosphere. Cityhood would allow local control over almost unchecked subdivision within its boundaries which up to now has been handled by absentee landlords in the form of San Bernardino County supervisors many miles to the east in the nation's largest county.

The issue is not cityhood vs. status quo but is clouded by another group seeking city status for Alta Loma Alone (ALA) as opposed to proponents of Tri-Communities Incorporation (TCI).

Backers of the ALA plan want an entirely suburban community on a smaller scale divorced from Cucamonga and Etiwanda. They are campaigning against the TCI plan in the Nov. 8 election.

After almost two years of planning and hearing by Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO) members, supervisors backed the LAFCO recommendation of TCI's. After much consideration and soul searching, we do, too.

Both groups want local control over growth. Both seek to preserve at least a semi-rural atmosphere in an area which planners and city officials in Fontana, Ontario and Upland have been eyeing covetously for several years as possible annexation fodder.

Weighing arguments on both sides, we believe the TCI program offers a more balanced plan melding residential, business and industry into a viable community and tax base. Alta Loma alone, with almost no industry to share the cost of cityhood, does not offer this, throwing the tax burden onto homeowners and the small amount of commercial property within those boundaries.

We believe this would be an unfair burden for taxpayers in the ALA area. ALA's plan only attacks problems on one relatively small geographical area where the problems are similar in adjacent territory.

TCI's plan attempts to solve such problems on a broader scale in an area where urban sprawl and commercial growth may be engineered and planned for the benefit of all taxpayers under one governmental umbrella.

The Progress Bulletin suggests a yes vote Nov. 8 for the incorporation of Rancho Cucamonga.

Presidential escapism

Leaving domestic problems behind, President Carter will take off late this month for an 11-day tour of eight countries in Africa, Asia and Europe. The American people may well ask: Is this trip necessary?

C. F. Baldwin, a former U.S. ambassador to Malaysia, has said that "The belief that, by scurrying abroad, being greeted by foreign dignitaries, shaking thousands of hands and chatting with a few other heads of state, a president can achieve foreign policy objectives better than remaining in Washington is not only a myth but is below the level of dignity that the people of a great nation should expect from their leader."

Unfortunately, Carter has accepted that myth. No doubt there are compelling personal reasons why he has decided to make this grand tour. The political heat in Washington has been intense.

The most unfortunate aspect of the forthcoming Carter trip is that it reveals a failure to understand that America's principal problems are at home and must be dealt with on the home front.

The struggle over energy legislation is a case in point. The Carter administration hasn't faced up to the need for vastly increased production of energy — oil, gas, coal, and nuclear power — on American territory.

The United States desperately needs leadership at the highest level that understands the importance of internal economic and technological frontiers. It needs leadership that will motivate the American people to strive for higher productivity.

President Carter, alas, is back in the era of global gestures — the world of the 1960s. He may find that his grand tour is a lead balloon insofar as the American people are concerned. They have read about too many presidential tours in which too much has been promised to too many people.

While he is away, the Congress will be at work. He may also discover that his tripping abroad — a form of presidential escapism — will result in an increasing shift of power to Congressional leaders.

Insecurity lessens learning

Dear Editor:

A group of educators in Hawaii recently completed a study of the achievement or lack of it by public school students. These people did rather exhaustive work and explored in depth many factors which might contribute to the end results which they found. Since they, with justification, felt that to blame non-achievement on socio-economic status was too glib and that doing so might very well mask other important and attention-requiring factors, they eliminated the socio-economic factor by an ingenious statistical device known as "pairing." They selected pairs of schools having very similar student performance and in each case matched a school in an area having high income and social status with one from a deprived area, handling the statistical output from these schools essentially as a unit.

Sure enough, once the ubiquitous socio-economic factor was eliminated from prime consideration, several others began to emerge and to clamor for attention. The report was a complex and thorough one and would be a rich hunting ground for educational reformers. There was one factor, however, evident with consistency so absolute that it could be predicted. In high-performance schools characterized by better-than-average student achievement, the teachers uniformly felt that they had the support and backing of their school administration. Just the reverse, in schools where student achievement was below acceptable standards, the teachers uniformly agreed they did not feel supervision and administration were giving them proper support and proper backing. This correlation was so strong as to be irrefutable.

Carrying this thought only a little bit further, it might be considered a certainty that to create any situation during which the administration of a school—any school—and the classroom teachers of this school are out of accord with each other and in which contention and resentment exists is automatically to create an atmosphere in which student achievement will suffer and in all probability fall off.

Simplifying this thought, the biggest loser in any "hassle" between professional teachers and school administration is going to be neither participant in the ill-feeling but a third person: the defenseless student whose welfare the school structure, both administrative and instructional, was designed wholly to serve.

If this is true, and I think it is, both parents and school boards should keep in mind that the willful creation of strife of any kind between teachers and their "back-up" will automatically create an atmosphere not in the best interest of the schools. No administrator worthy of the standards of his profession would ever permit this to happen. There are many activities which can function adequately in an atmosphere of tension and conflict. Teaching is a subtle, delicate process and must be surrounded by an atmosphere of orderliness, security and non-stress if it is successfully to take place.

White clouds over Pa. town

SHIPPINGPORT, Pa. — Heading north along the winding highway that the townspeople call Green Garden Road, you can see white cotton clouds hanging low over the mountains. The tranquil scene is not, however, entirely the work of nature. The clouds originate from six mammoth, cylindrical cooling towers that rise from the banks of the Ohio River like idols to the gods of energy.

Superheated vapors from the nuclear works below form the clouds which appear so white and innocent. But they hang over Shippingport, Pa., like a pall. Beneath them is a dying town contaminated by a deadly white dust of lead, cadmium, chromium and iron and an even more deadly irradiated mist.

Twenty years ago, Shippingport was a pastoral farming community. Then, in 1953, the Atomic Energy Commission selected the virgin riverbank as the site for the nation's first pressurized water nuclear reactor. The bank has now been transformed into a series of booming, whirring energy compounds, a Disneyland of futuristic domes, cones, reactors, grids and transmission lines, like a scene from "Star Wars."

The nuclear works, endowed by the federal government, is operated by a consortium of power companies known by the acronym CAPCO. The five companies — Duquesne Light, Pennsylvania Power, Ohio Edison, Cleveland Electric and Toledo Edison — provide electricity for some seven million consumers. But it is the Shippingport townsfolk who bear the environmental burden.

Out of the CAPCO compounds, with their cooling towers and 950-foot coal desulfurization chimney, comes the deadly fallout — the mineral dust and irradiated mist that rain down upon the community. We were shown calcium sulfate chunks the size of pie plates, which fell like flying saucers upon the countryside. In the few months since our investigation began, we have also documented spillages of contaminated water of more than 9,000 gallons.

The Shippingport people are frightened and alarmed. Residents have filed a lawsuit against CAPCO. They charge that the power plants have disrupted their lives, ruined their property and destroyed the peaceful aura of their beloved Beaver Valley. Property values have plummetted 40 percent; no one will touch the land near the nuclear site.

Others fear a lingering, invisible death from the radiation. There are tales of birds that walk backwards. Local hunters complain that the lush foliage along the riverbank has turned brown and sickly. The deer long ago abandoned their former haunts.

We found the power companies to be arrogant and secretive. The haze from the coal plants can be seen, but the gases that seep out of the plants and the tritium that seeps into the tap water are more difficult to detect.

Last July, a technician misaligned two valves, releasing 9,000 gallons of water contaminated by tritium. It gushed out of holding tanks and poured into the Ohio. Duquesne officials dutifully reported the spillage, as required by law, to the Nuclear Regulatory Commission in Washington. But they neglected to warn the townspeople in Midland, a mile downstream.

Had the company bothered to notify the town, says the mayor, the river water intake flows could have been closed. Instead, an immeasurable amount of irradiated water flowed into the town's water system.

A month earlier, a 25,000 gallon tank of drinking water was contaminated. Company officials assured us the contamination was "well within federal drinking limits." Yet workers at the power station were cautioned against using the water until the tank could be flushed.

Dr. Ernest J. Sternglass, an animated, bespectacled professor of radiological physics at the University of Pittsburgh, has been tilting with the giant CAPCO for more than a decade. With painstaking dedication, he has documented some alarming levels of radiation in the Shippingport area. He has also correlated his findings with an unexplained rise in infant mortality and cancer rates in Beaver Valley.

CAPCO has spent a small fortune to discredit Sternglass's research.

The farmers are fed up

Sometimes numbers speak louder than words.

In 1914 a farmer could trade two bushels of corn for one pair of shoes; today he'd have to swap more than 10 bushels.

But more punishing than farm prices today is the government snoopervision, the red tape and paperwork.

Earl Butz says the biggest surprise he got during his government service was to discover what he wasn't.

His title was "secretary of agriculture."

He sat on the President's Cabinet.

Presumably, he was there to represent farmers and administer farm programs.

But he discovered that policy is not made in that impressive front office.

Agriculture policy is dictated by a thousand little dictators. An unnamed GS-12 buried in the bowels of the department writes the language in paragraph 3, subsection C, and what he writes becomes law; the secretary never even sees it!

Joe Lamberta is a potato farmer in Delaware. Or he was. He operated 300 acres of potatoes south of Smyrna.

In recent years he has been confined more and more to his small office alongside U.S. 13 doing paperwork for the government.

Then the other day "the man from OSHA" showed up on the Lamberta farm. OSHA is the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, originally intended to protect workers against hazards.

What is this OSHA fella photographing but some grass alongside one of the farm buildings.

The grass had been mowed but a mower will cut only so close alongside a building so this fellow is taking pictures.

When farmer Lamberta asked, "Why so many pictures?" the man from OSHA said he wanted to "use up the film" in his camera.

The man from OSHA said he'd let farmer Lamberta know next Wednesday how much the fine will be.

That's not all. Like most potato farmers in the area, Joe depends on migrant workers who live in a labor camp nearby. Admittedly, these labor camps are not a residential paradise, but what the man from OSHA wanted to know was why there was no screen door on the shower room.

Farmer Joe wanted to know, "Who needs a screen door on a shower room?"

The man from OSHA — an inspector out of the Baltimore office — then wanted to know why the toilets were only 95 feet away from the packing house; there's a regulation specifying 100 feet.

The man from OSHA said after Joe had been fined that he can appeal if he wants to, but both he and Joe know that lawyers would cost more than the fines.

Joe's going out of the potato business. "Getting the hell out," he says. The workers he has generously paid more than the minimum wage, plus free lodging, utilities and free vegetables will have to find other work — or welfare.

Other potato farmers in the area, similarly disgusted, can't afford to keep farming and can't afford not to.

As one says, "It's easy to see why the government wants gun control."

Just in jest

Many and varied are the polls and surveys that have been conducted in connection with the recent television broadcasts of the World Series baseball games. I am amazed, however, that one area of those broadcasts has thus far been overlooked by the pollsters. A lot of fans, I feel certain, would be most interested in learning how many World Series telecast viewers turned down the sound on their TV sets and tuned in the radio broadcasts of the games in order to avoid having to listen to Howard Cosell.

In Washington

Bureaucracy as usual

and ROBERT WALTERS

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Howard Scharf is a man with an unusual problem: If he does his job too well, he's in danger of embarrassing his boss — and possibly losing his job.

Scharf's title is director of the investigations and inspections staff of the Economic Development Administration, a unit of the Commerce Department that currently is doling out more than $6 billion worth of federal public works grants to 12,000 state and local governments.

Scharf's staff is responsible for insuring that there is no fraud or abuse in a program that's very big, even by government standards. But he must report directly to the Assistant Secretary of Labor for Economic Development — the man who runs the program.

That inherent conflict was cited at a congressional hearing earlier this year, and Scharf offered a surprisingly candid reply to a pointed question on the subject:

Q. Aren't you in a position where the better job you do, the more embarrassing it may be for your boss?

A. The better job I do, the better chance I have of working myself out of a job.

That situation, unfortunately, is typical of the problems faced by many of the inspection, audit and investigation specialists assigned by federal departments and agencies to reduce, if not eliminate, waste and mismanagement of the public's money.

Limited authority, overlapping responsibility, poor coordination, inadequate staff, underfunded budgets and a host of other impediments were documented in hearings conducted by a subcommittee of the House Government Operations Committee chaired by Rep. L.H. Mountain, D-N.C.

Fountain's subcommittee produced a bill that would establish an inspector general's office at all major government departments and agencies. But that approach has been stymied by unwarranted opposition all the way from the depths of the bureaucracy to the highest levels in the White House.

If Congress can surmount that hostility, the House bill would bring badly needed uniformity to what now is a chaotic situation that makes federal spending susceptible to fraud.

Under the current system, for example, auditors and investigators report to different officials at different agencies and departments — and often, as in Scharf's case, the boss is the person in charge of the programs being investigated.

At the Department of Transportation, oversight authority is fragmented among no fewer than 116 different units — 11 conducting internal audits, 76 responsible for outside audits and 29 separate investigative units.

With few exceptions, audit and investigative staffs lack both the money and manpower to initiate affirmative probes of programs to search out fraud and abuse. 'We rely ordinarily on reacting to complaint-type situations," an official of the Veterans Administration confessed to the House subcommittee.

Officials of the Departments of Interior and Transportation acknowledged that some of their activities have never been audited. In other cases, departmental representatives said it would take from 10 to 20 years to complete a full cycle of audits of each of their programs.

The Labor Department, for instance, employs only six trained criminal investigators and 13 program analysts to check for fraud and abuse in $25 billion worth of activities, including the vast unemployment compensation program.

Other agencies complained of having one-third or one-fifth the resources necessary to properly monitor the expenditure of public funds.

The House bill would provide the mechanism to control an unmanageable situation vividly described by Fountain: "Government has gotten so big, the agencies so big . . . we have a Frankenstein on our hands, we have a train running away without an engineer."

Ann Landers

3 ways to beat snoring mate

Dear Ann Landers: This is for the crazy lady who wrote to say she loves to watch her husband sleep at night because he looks so much like a little boy. Then she added, "I adore listening to him snore. It's such a comfort to know he's right there beside me." (That broad must sleep in the daytime.)

For 24 years I have been married to a man who snores. If I turned on the light to look at him I'm sure the only thought that would come to mind is murder. His snoring shakes the fixtures, but when he's had a few drinks he makes such a racket the people in the next apartment bang on the floor with what must be a sledgehammer.

Several years ago we took The City of San Francisco (a great train) to the West Coast. The people in the next compartment knocked on our door and asked if I could do something to quiet my husband. I said, "Yes, but it's against the law."

Last year our family doctor suggested either a sedative for me, earplugs or separate bedrooms. I am now using all three. Pass the word to my sister sufferers, Ann. — Peace, It's Wonderful

Dear Peace: Consider it passed. I can't imagine worse punishment than being up all night while the mate is snoring up a storm. Your suggestions all sound good. Too bad it took you so long to get relief.

Dear Ann: Is it in good taste or not to send a notice of death? When it arrived I thought it was an invitation — lovely engraving and beautiful card. The message was as follows:

OUR BABY

The baby wept;
The nurse took it from the mother's arms
And hushed its fears, and soothed its vain alarms,
And the baby slept.
Again it weeps,
And God doth take it from the mother's arms
From present griefs and future unknown harms,
And baby sleeps.

The name of the baby then appeared — date of birth, date of death. (He lived only two months.) The time and place of the funeral appeared, along with the name of the funeral home, the pastor and the resting place.

What do you think of this? — No Name Please

Dear N.N.P.: I think sending the cards probably gave the parents great comfort and anyone who opens his mouth to utter one word of criticism should be promptly silenced.

Dear Ann: People make a big fuss over having to sit next to a person who smokes. No Smoking signs help a lot, also separate sections in planes and restaurants. But what can be done about gum-crackers?

I've gone to meetings, lectures, concerts, movies and plays which were ruined by a gum-cracker. Is there anything a person can say? — Can't Stand It

Dear C.S.I.: A person can say, "Your gum-cracking is getting on my nerves. I'd appreciate it very much if you'd chew more quietly." Your chances for cooperation are about 50-50, but if you don't mention it, they're zero.

Can drugs be a friend in time of stress? If you keep your head together can they be of help? Ann Landers' new booklet, "Straight Dope on Drugs" separates the fact from the fiction. Get it today. For each booklet ordered, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (24 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Dr. Miller

Burros deserve a better fate

DEAR DR. MILLER: About those wild burros, the ones in Arizona and California that are supposedly crowding out the desert bighorn sheep. What are they finally going to do with them? Give them away as pets? I understand that costs three thousand bucks per head. Or, are they going to shoot them? I understand that only costs 50 bucks. Spending three thousand bucks to save a wild jackass sounds pretty stupid to me. — G.A.

DEAR G.A.: Burros deserve better than the shooting "solution." A wild burro in your backyard — a pet? — isn't the ideal answer, either. A better burro solution? Possibly.

With some birth control system and minimal help on food and water supplies, maybe they can make it where they are without real damage to desert environment (including desert bighorn sheep). If not, maybe private enterprise (with a small amount of government cooperation) can shift them to a reserve where they might be used as breed stock for future generations of tame burros, or where they could live without doing damage to other denizens of the desert.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Lately my older male parakeet has been showing homosexual tendencies with my younger male bird. This has only occurred since he has been getting a thyroid combination for a skin thing. Could there be any connection?—G.F.

DEAR G.F.: It's difficult to determine from here whether or not the hormone therapy had any bearing on your bird's behavior, but your own veterinarian might be able to tell.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Pinkerton's a big cat. I mean he's tall and long but he's not broad. My mother-in-law has Shipley, Pinkerton's brother. Shipley's big — all over. She claims it's heredity, that she never overfeeds Shipley, that he is just naturally a fat cat. I claim if that were so Pinkerton would be a big slob, too. Who's right? — R.S.

DEAR R.S.: Shipley's shaped partially by genetic influences. It's true, though, Pinkerton would be plump too if genetics were the only factor. Environment, specifically the type of food consumed and the amount (not merely the amount of calories burned) are also extremely important in determined by genetic influences; the final weight, however, is the result of a combination of genetic and environmental factors.

A rear view of campers

Everyone has fears.

Fear of heights, fear of death, fear of failing, fear of flying (not to be confused with air travel).

I haven't told anyone about this, but my greatest fear is passing a camper on the highway.

The family doesn't even suspect this. Oh, they got a little suspicious once when I followed an Airstream caravan all the way to Tampa once without passing (we were headed to Ft. Lauderdale at the time), but no one said anything.

Because I have spent most of my time looking up the exhaust of campers, I have become quite an authority on them. To begin with, did you know that the average speed of a camper on a yellow line going uphill is 35 mph? And 65 mph in a passing zone going downhill?

Did you know that many campers have bumper stickers proudly proclaiming, "Campers Are the Most Honest People in the World" and have their gas tank caps chained to the car? And a dog inside with eight-inch teeth?

Did you know that campers never pull over at scenic views? Never get gas? And have bionic kidneys?

I almost passed a camper once. I had been reading the back of their car for several hundred miles and knew them pretty well. Their names were Karl and Rita from Iowa, and they had been to the four western provinces of Canada, the Grand Canyon, Williamsburg, Crater Lake and Knotts Berry Farms.

They were anti gun control, wanted us to keep the Panama Canal, honk if we loved Jesus, and had voted down the school levy. I had followed them so long, at one point, I thought I saw Smokey the Bear's lips move.

"Why don't you try passing them?" suggested my husband gently.

"Are you saying I've been going too slow?"

"With luck, we'll make ten miles today."

My hands gripped the wheel as I eased out to pass their camper which was attached to a trailer carrying two motor bikes . . . which was attached to a small car being towed . . . which was attached to a boat which was being pulled by their station wagon.

What the heck. What was my hurry? We were only a few days from our destination.

Dr. Lamb

Plague of bladder infections

DEAR DR. LAMB — Is there any hope for women who are plagued with constant bladder infections? It's like a chronic disease, once you get it, it's always there. Since I've reached 40 I seem to get it four or five times a year and it lasts at least six to eight weeks. I am very discouraged with all the expense of pills and doctor bills and having this pesky infection.

My doctor says to avoid spicy foods, others say avoid coffee and tea, tomatoes and oranges or acid foods.

I drink about 10 cups of coffee (usually decaffeinated) or tea daily and at least five glasses of water. Is my addiction to coffee making the infection harder to clear up? I've read that a phosphorous deficiency is the cause of bladder infections. Is that true?

DEAR READER — This is a fairly common problem for women. It creates a need to urinate frequently, burning during urination and is a drag on a woman's energy and feeling of well being. If the infection involves the kidney as well, and it may, then fever and other symptoms occur.

A woman who is having recurrent bladder infections should have a complete examination to find out if there is any structural abnormality present. The urethra can be constricted or it may be in the wrong position or there may be a stone present. If the bladder is not emptying adequately that will set the stage for repeated infections. Any such abnormalities should be corrected.

Sexual relations may aggravate cystitis. When a young woman begins an active sex life she may start having these problems. That is why it is sometimes colled honeymoon cystitis. There are some things a woman can do to help in this regard. Among these is to empty the bladder immediately might result in taking lots of medicine, though, in a young active couple on their honeymoon. It is worth asking your doctor about. Tub baths should probably be avoided; showers are preferable.

The important thing about your food and fluids is to drink enough fluids to maintain a good urinary flow. With some medicines (such as Mandelamine) it is necessary to acidify the urine. In that case orange juice, fruits and vegetables (but not cranberries, plums and prunes) may have the opposite effect. If an acid urine is necessary your doctor can recommend test tapes that enable you to test your urine and find out if it is in the desired range of acidity or not. This may not be necessary if the medicines you are taking act whether the urine is acid or alkaline.

Love bracelet on the market

Up jumps a newfangled Love Bracelet. It's fitted to the wrist of the wearer exactly, then fastened with a special set of screws. They require a trick screwdriver. The buyer of this dandy trinket presents it to the object of his affections. And she in turn gives him the screwdriver. If and when this amorous couple decides to break up, he says, "We can't go on this way," and she says, "Give me back my screwdriver!" Or words to that effect. Our Love and War man requires further study of the gadget before offering an endorsement.

Jacoby's bridge

East given tough choice

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

East's double of North's one-club opening was just a bad bid. He did have some high cards, but his best suit had just been bid by an opponent.

South's jump to two hearts was conventional. It showed a good heart suit and from 7 to 9 high-card points. This convention, while not a part of standard American, is used by many match-point players.

West might well have tried two spades, but he had seen examples of his partner's takeout doubles before and decided to stay out of the bidding.

North jumped to four hearts. A slight overbid in view of the fact that his partner's two-heart call was not forcing.

West opened the ace of spades and shifted to a diamond. South took dummy's ace and promptly played the ace and trey of clubs. South was sure that East held the club king and wanted to put East right on the spot.

What would you do if you were East? If you rise with the king and South has a singleton club you have chucked a trick. If you duck and South started with jack-small you have chucked a trick that way. This East did play low and South became the only declarer to make 10 tricks at hearts.

A California reader wants to know what the San Francisco convention is, or was.

The convention showed aces and kings on the basis of two points for an ace and one point for a king in response to an artificial four notrump. It never achieved any popularity.

'Great smokeout'

The American Cancer Society is seeking volunteer to distribute pledge cards fot "The Great American Smokeout," a statewide campaign to get smokers to take a day off from cigarettes on Nov. 17.

"We're going to give the campaign plenty of publicity. California smokers are going to hear about the smokeout," said Gloria Mason, public education chairman of the society's northeast Los Angeles County unit, "but the most effective way to get a pledge from a smoker is to ask face to face."

Plans include passing out pledge cards in schools, offices and shopping centers. The pledge card is important as a psychological commitment to help the smoker. The statewide goal is to get one million smokers to pledge a day off from cigarettes. The society is not asking smokers to quit, just to give it up for one day.

"It's the sense of control that's important," said Mason. "Each cigarette not smoked is a health benefit for the smoker."

Pledge cards are available from the American Cancer Society office at 111 W. Center St., Pomona.

'Gold Dust Twins' visit West Point

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — When they flashed across the West Point gridiron more than three decades ago they were known as the "Gold Dust Twins."

But the gold has turned to silver around the temples of Bonita High graduate Glenn Davis, "Mr. Outside," and both he and his famed running mate, Felix "Doc" Blanchard, "Mr. Inside," will be 53 before the end of the year.

Blanchard and Davis, who won the prestigious Heisman Trophy in 1945 and 1946, respectively, were considerably heavier than 30 years ago when they returned to West Point Saturday for special ceremonies, along with Pete Dawkins, Army's 1958 Heisman winner.

They saw Army wallop Holy Cross 48-8 and boost its record to 5-3, best in nine years.

It was a time for nostalgia and the West Point faithful traveled down Memory Lane to Army's national championships of 1944 and 1945, sparked, of course, by Blanchard and Davis.

They have drifted apart over the years, but then they were never really inseparable except on the football field and in the glowing media reports of their exploits.

"We see each other about once a year and we talk on the phone every once in a while if something comes up we're both involved with," said Blanchard, who retired to Lake Buchanan, Tex., as a colonel — "I'm retired-retired," — after 25 years in the Air Force.

"But even at West Point we saw very little of each other, the way our schedules ran. We ate at the training table and we practiced together, but we weren't in the same company and that was it."

Davis, who lives in North Hollywood, Calif., and is director of special events for The Los Angeles Times, was back at West Point five years ago for his 25th class reunion, but for Blanchard it was the first visit in more than a decade.

Naturally, they were asked about Army's modern-day recruiting problems and the difficulty in recruiting blue-chip athletes because of the postgraduate five-year active duty commitment.

"A friend of West Point had seen me play football in high school and that's the way it all started," Davis recalled. "He corresponded with Col. Blaik (Coach Earl "Red" Blaik) and I decided to take him up on his offer even though I had signed up for the wartime V-12 program at Southern California."

Blanchard began his college career at North Carolina, where he played one season and was drafted into the Army.

"After about a year-and-a-half I had been in eight different places," he said. "When they asked me to come to West Point I was in Clovis, N.M., and I said, 'Yeah, that would be nice.'"

It was nice for West Point and the three Heisman winners — only Notre Dame and Ohio State have had more — saw no reason why Army couldn't return to some level approaching its football glory days.

"How'd Navy do against Michigan this year?" Davis asked, noting the 14-7 score. "It can be done. A little improvement can mean a lot. You really shouldn't have to sell West Point to anyone. The people you're recruiting should be honored."

"The appeal of this place among high school-age men and women is on the rise," said the erudite Dawkins, a one-time Rhodes Scholar and now a colonel in charge of Headquarters Command at Fort Ord, Calif., with responsibility for 2,700 men and women. "And among those people it appeals to I believe are some fine football players.

"It would be a mistake for the Army not to take a shot at the very best teams every once in a while, but I don't think they ought to schedule 10 of them back-to-back. In fact, it's a myth that in some golden era Army played the top 10 teams in the country and beat them every year."

The Heisman trio reviewed the parade of cadets before Saturday's game and Davis said the day brought back "many fond memories, but the greatest thrill of all is being a member of the Long Gray Line."

Then he tried to shrug off the football accomplishments of Mr. Inside and Mr. Outside.

"There was never any competition between us," he said. "Doc did one thing and I did another. We didn't keep any records and we didn't care who was scoring the touchdowns or getting the publicity. Today there's probably more emphasis put on things like that.

"We had a lot of good football players here and we were just two other guys on the team."

But who else was Mr. Inside and Mr. Outside?

Ort hasn't changed much

In 30th year at LVC

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

This is Roland Ortmayer's 30th year as head football coach at La Verne College.

Aside fro adding a few pounds along the way, he prbably hasn't changed very much since he came here from William Penn college in Iowa in 1948.

"I'm not one to spend a lot of time thinking about the past," he admitted. "Every day is a new and pleasant experience just to leave home and walk to school meeting a lot of friendly people along the way."

Right now Ortmayer is not very happy about the way the current football season is going at La Verne. The Leopards are 2-4 overall and 0-2 in conference play.

"I thought we had a chance at winning the conference title," he said, "but it hasn't worked out that way. But there have been a lot more like that in the 30 years."

Ortmayer has been the football coach for all of his 30 years at La Verne. He also has been the track coach the last 20, the basketball coach for 15 years and the baseball coach for his first 10 of the 30.

Although he doesn't talk much about himself unless one pursues the subject, "Ort" was quite an athlete himself.

He was born in College Park, Maryland where the University of Maryland is located. But by the time he was old enough to be in high school, he was living in the colorfully-named town of Roundup, Montana.

At Roundup High, Ort lettered for three years in football, basketball and track. Since the school had no baseball team, he played American Legion ball.

Ortmayer was a halfback and quarterback in football, a forward in basketball and shortstop in baseball. In track he was a 12-foot pole vaulter which carried him to second place in the state meet.

"Ort" began his college education at Intermountain College in Helena, Mont. Ortmayer earned freshman letters in football and basketball. But after one year an earthquake demolished the school.

Ortmayer moved to the midwest and enrolled at Northwestern of the Big Ten Conference. He earned his degree in physical education and a varsity letter in football but suffered a knee injury in a game with Illinois that ended his football career.

"Ort" began coaching at Highland Park, Ill. High School as an assistant coach in football and track. From there he went to Kingsport, Tenn. and from there to William Penn in Iowa.

"Dwight Hanawalt was the basketball and track coach when I got here," Ortmayer recalled. Hanawalt is the only coach on the athletic staff that has been at La Verne longer. He still assists Ort in football.

"It's been most pleasant working with the people I've met and I've had just super experiences with my fellow coaches and teaching colleagues," Ortmayer said.

"I think the most exciting thing is to be accepted in lots of different ways. I'm a football coach for awhile, then a teacher, then a track coach and then a counselor, etc."

Ortmayer's unusual philosophy about coaching is that, ideally, everybody should win about as many as they lose and nobody should win a lot more.

"That's just about what my record is over the 30 years," he chuckled. "That's why I'm able to keep that philosophy."

Asked what he feels his role as coach and teacher is as far as his players and students are concerned, his reply was typical Ortmayer.

"It's providing the opportunity for young men and women to add more experiences to their lives which broadens their perspective and helps them overcome challenges."

In his activity classes, Ort has replaced Badminton with a course entitled "Throwing," Volleyball with "Climbing" and has added "Small Water Craft" (Kayaking).

"I just thought it would be fun to get out of things where you're constantly keeping score," he explained.

Ortmayer spends his summer vacation rafting in Montana along the route Lewis and Clark followed. He used to go backpacking (in Arizona or Utah).

He is, perhaps, best known as a football coach for having his teams twice play games on consecutive days. Both came about as a result of typical Ortmayer situations.

"UC Riverside was scheduled and Cal Western (Now USIU) kept calling and asking for a game," he recalled. Then UCR wanted to move their game to Friday so their staff could see UCLA or USC play."

So Ortmayer played at UCR Friday and hosted Cal Western Saturday.

"We won both games and didn't have any injuries," he laughed.

The second time things didn't work out as good.

"Occidental wanted a game and we asked Riverside if they could change the date," he said. "They agreed so we scheduled Oxy. Then UCR found it couldn't change, so we ended up playing at Oxy Friday and at UCR Saturday and lost both games."

One of Ort's quotes once made Sports Illustrated. "We hadn't had a very good game offensively," he remembered. "So I said I'm not sure my offense could make a first down in tall grass. Somebody picked it up and it got in Sports Illustrated."

Ort's most cherished memory is of 1958 when the students, faculty and alumni surprised him with a new station wagon and a trailer.

"That's quite a gift from a small college such as this," he said. "And we'd had either a 3-7 or 3-6-1 season (I can't remember). That's one of the best things about La Verne. They treat you nice instead of firing you."

Asked how long he would continue coaching, Ortmayer replied, "I have a lot of different answers to that. I'll probably die coaching. I can't think of any better way to go."

L.A. lone bidder for '84 Olympics

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — Los Angeles is in "strong position" to be awarded the 1984 Summer Olympic Games after remaining the sole applicant to stage the Games as an International Olympic Committee application deadline passed, IOC President Lord Killanin said today.

However, in an IOC statement announcing the final applications received, Lord Killanin said it was "disappointing" that only one city had applied to the IOC to stage the games - the first time in history this has happened.

The IOC statement said that three cities have formally applied to stage the Winter Games the same year — Goteborg in Sweden, Sapporo in Japan and Sarajevo in Yugoslavia.

An IOC spokesman said that the application from Sarajevo came only hours before the IOC deadline passed Monday night.

At the same time, a fourth application arrived from the French national Olympic committee with a request to hold the Winter Games in one of three towns — Courchevel, Meribel and Belleveille.

Because IOC rules stipulate that only one city can stage the Games, the French application is not a formal one, the spokesman said. But it would still be "considered" along with the other three. he said.

MSAC looks ahead to No. 1 Fullerton

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

The prospect of playing the nation's number-one ranked junior college team isn't upsetting Mt. San Antonio College's Mal Eaton.

Then again, Eaton's Mounties don't face the unbeaten Hornets until Nov. 12.

Eaton's comments on facing Fullerton for the South Coast Conference title highlighted Monday's Progress Bulletin football luncheon at the Castaway Restaurant in Pomona.

MSAC, in the wake of its 13-0 shutout of Cerritos, nabbed both the offensive and defensive player of the week awards.

Mountie defensive back Jerome Covington, who intercepted two passes, deflected two others and made three sacks, was tabbed on defense, while center Greg Griggs, who helped MSAC gain over 400 yards, was selected on offense.

At the four-year level, Cal Poly linebacker Jay Giangregorio won defensive honors while Azusa Pacific tackle Rusty Osborn was selected as the top offensive performer.

Other players nominated for weekly honors were Chaffey's Scott Haugan, APC's Rick Massro, Claremont-Mudd's Greg Palma and Augie Naito, La Verne's Dana Lanier and Pomona-Pitzer's Randy Roddy.

Quoting the coaches:

EATON, MSAC: "We're very happy with our win over Cerritos. It was the only shutout so far this year in our conference. Our defense did a super job, it kind of saved the day for us.

"Our offense moved the ball well between the five and the five, but couldn't punch it in. We'll work on our short-yardage game this week.

"Our bye this week could be either good or bad. If we come back and beat Fullerton, it's good. If we lose to them it's bad! Seriously, we're looking forward to playing the top-ranked team. We'll use the bye to work on fundamentals and to scout them on Saturday."

JOHN ZINDA, C-M: "We're kind of glad our game with Pomona-Pitzer is over. Winning takes the pressure off us. Our defense did an outstanding job, we stopped their passing game. It was the first time we had ever shut them out so that was especially gratifying.

"We're looking forward to playing Occidental this week. I think our game with Pomona-Pitzer should have helped us prepare for Oxy. Like Pitzer, they throw the ball and we will have to adjust to stop their passing game. They're coming off a tough loss to Redlands and hopefully will be a little down for us."

JIM JONES, Poly: "We thought we could stay with Northridge but the biggest difference was the kicking game. They had a super kicker and we did not kick well. They just dominated us with their kicker.

"Our guys are making the most of our situation, they come to play week after week.

"This week we play Fullerton, they are a Division I team and a good team. Realistically, they should handle us. We'll need to throw the ball well and make the big play on defense to stay with them."

REX HUIGENS, La Verne assistant coach: "We just ran into a super defensive team in Whittier and they dominated our offense. We couldn't run and couldn't pass. Brad Frick broke his collarbone in the third quarter and is lost for the year, but even if we had had him for the whole game I doubt that it would have made much difference.

"We play Redlands this week, we have to beat their tackles, they are big and strong. Our offense will have to regroup now that we're without Frick. Our goal right now is to post a winning record in our conference."

WALT AMBORD, P-P: "We lost 13-0 to Claremont, we're disappointed since we thought it was one game we had a chance to win. They played well against us.

"I thought our defense did a good job but we were inconsistent on offense. We made too many mistakes.

"We play Whittier this week, what can you say? I don't know what's going to happen, they are a fine team. I just hope they kind of overlook us since they have Redlands coming up."

No. 2 Aztec QB undergoes surgery

SAN DIEGO (AP) — San Diego State quarterback Mark Halda underwent two hours of surgery on his injured right shoulder and may someday be "as good as new," a surgeon says.

Halda was thrown to the ground Saturday night after carrying the football 25 yards. He landed on his passing arm and shoulder, and a University of Tulsa tackler fell on him.

MSAC coach honored

To win an award bestowed upon you by your contemporaries in a certain field is special.

A person so honored has earned respect displaying special abilities and talents.

One such person is Elizabeth Green, former head coach of the women's badminton team at Mt. San Antonio College.

Green was chosen "1976 Coach of the Year" by fellow members of the California Community Colleges Coaches Association and will receive her award at the Stovall Clinic in Anaheim, January 29, when similar presentations for other sports will be made.

"I'm very honored to be named, especially first coach and because it was by my peers," said a happy Green after learning of the award.

ELIZABETH GREEN

Prior to the 1976 season, badminton did not have coach of the year awards, and until she had been informed she was the first coach ever to be honored, she said she had forgotten all about it.

"I first started coaching here in 1950," Green reflected, "and during those 27 years, we've had very competitive badminton teams. Ever since we've had leagues, MSAC has won first place, so we've had more than our share of championships.

"Last year was especially gratifying," she continued, "because we won the state championship. The team was extremely strong and it was a fine group of men and women. Not just good athletes, but good students as well."

Green played collegiately at Los Angeles City College for two years and at Whittier College for another three. She began coaching at Whittier where she received her bachelor's degree and in time, took charge of the competitive teams at the college.

"Field hockey, softball, badminto. Students aren't exposed to these minor sports as much as other sports," Green explained. "That's why I like coaching them . . . because it's more of a challenge."

Green received her master's degree from the University of Southern California and after a brief stint at Whittier, she became a supervisor at the Pasadena City School District for two years.

In 1949 she came to MSAC, and in a way, became a "Jill of All Trades" coaching nine different sports at various times of the year, including tennis, basketball, archery, swimming and volleyball.

Her two favorite sports are field hockey and badminton, but the latter has a deeper spot in her heart.

"Badminton attracts students who are well skilled and coordinated" Green points out, "to play quality badminton, one has to be a quick thinker, be able to make quick decisions. Eye-hand-foot coordination is also extremely important.

"There are many beautiful things about the sport," she continued. "You can be fully dressed to play and not have to change into any special kind of clothing. And tiny kids can play the game and have fun. And at the same time it can be played at a high level of competition."

"Students who have never played before sign up for the class and it is just amazing how they become really addicted. And to me its rather gratifying," Green said, "because their improvement by the end of the semester is dramatic. Kids can't believe how proficient they become."

Green's methods have been so effective, she has turned out some of the finest badminton players in the United States today, not the least of whom is John Moyer who attended MSAC about six years ago and is now ranked an "A" player.

Green gave up coaching field hockey four years ago when one of her proteges, Debbie Blackmore who played for the Mounties, joined the MSAC athletic department and became head coach for the sport.

Green, who has just been named Division Chairperson for Physical Education, has turned over the reigns of the badminton to Dianne Hales, internationally acclaimed, and one of the United State's top female players.

Simpson's career finished?

BUFFALO (AP) — The Buffalo Bills awaited word today on whether a knee injury would end the spectacular career of star running back O.J. Simpson.

Simpson has been more depressed in recent weeks than at any point in his nine-year pro career, mainly because of his Buffalo Bills' lowly 1-6 start this season, coming off a 2-12 record last year. He also has been hampered this season first by an ankle injury, then an arm injury, and now knee problems.

Simpson's left knee, ailing the past three weeks, was described as "more seriously damaged than you might expect" by a well-placed Bills source. Other sources expressed belief that Simpson will retire if the knee is diagnosed as requiring surgery. They said Simpson might make his decision as early as today.

Following the Bills' 56-17 mauling Sunday by the second-year Seattle Seahawks, Simpson flew to his Los Angeles home.

He reportedly was examined in Los Angeles Monday by Dr. Robert Kerlan. However, Kerlan, a prominent specialist who has treated many famous athletes including former Los Angeles Dodgers pitcher Sandy Koufax, refused comment on the examination.

Simpson, unavailable Monday for comment, was listed as "questionable" because of a knee "derangment" before the Bills' game Sunday in Seattle, but started and carried nine times for 32 yards.

Simpson sat alone on the Bills' bench during the game's second half. Coach Jim Ringo, who removed Simpson with the Bills trailing 42-3 at the half, said, "There's no sense humiliating a great athlete."

Ringo added that he would have no further comment on the Simpson situation.

After the game, Simpson shook hands with club owner Ralph C. Wilson and told him he would telephone Monday. Wilson, a Detroit businessman, could not be reached for comment.

Simpson is in the second year of a reported $2.3 million, three-year contract. He has expressed increasing frustration in recent weeks as it has become obvious that he will end his career with a losing team.

"I just want to get my years over and get out of here," he said before the Seattle game. Simpson said playing for a Super Bowl team was his "greatest goal as a player," but that he realized it would "take a miracle" for his goal to be realized.

Simpson held out before the 1976 season in hopes of being traded to a West Coast team, preferably a contender. However, Wilson's asking price reportedly was too high.

"I thought it would be wise for the team to trade me for some players to build with, but I've got no hard feelings," Simpson said three weeks ago.

However, since then Simpson has leveled several verbal blasts at Wilson.

"One thing I can't figure out is what management is doing. After last season I thought it was apparent that some changes needed to be made.

"They never took the time to develop players here. If a player didn't look good at first, he was gone," Simpson said.

The former University of Southern California star's hope of catching Jim Brown's alltime rushing record of 12,312 yards has been dimmed by the Bills' increased passing. Simpson, who holds 10 NFL rushing records, has gained 557 yards on 126 carries this season, bringing his career total to 10,283.

Pacific-8 grid race is complex

LOS ANGELES (AP) — If you're looking for a fired-up, "We can take it all" speech from a football coach, you might try an old Pat O'Brien movie. But don't ask UCLA Coach Terry Donahue his predictions on a suddenly tight Pacific-8 football race.

"With three weeks to go, I'm not sure," said Donahue, when asked his team's chances in the four-team Pac-8 race. "I have no idea."

With Washington, UCLA and USC tied in conference play at 3-1, just behind Stanford at 4-1, the Pac-8 run for the roses is not only tight, it is complex. Donahue's Bruins, who beat Washington Saturday, 20-12, can go if they win all of their remaining games. Provided, however, that Stanford loses of its remaining three, since Stanford, now 4-1 in Pac-8 play, beat UCLA earlier in the season.

Stanford must get by USC, which, in turn, must get by all of its remaining opponents because of the Trojans' 17-14 loss to Cal. Washington, also still in the Pac-8 race, must also win all of its remaining games.

But UCLA seems to have momentum, at least, going into the final three games. The Bruins have won their last three, four of their last five heading into next Saturday's showdown with Oregon.

Coaches review week

JOHN STRYCULA, Citrus: "We were fortunate to win against Southwestern, and also happy because it was our fifth straight win and assures us of a winning season.

"We got by them despite some injuries, Ken Eriksen was out and Barry McManus carried the ball only four times due to a charley-horse. Both those guys should be back this week.

"We have our showdown game with Saddleback Saturday. The were our pre-season favorite to win the Mission Conference title, and they should be because they have experienced and talented personnel at quarterback, wide receiver and running backs.

"They have the best defense we'll see this year and a big-play type offense. We'll have our hands full with them, they've dominated every one of their conference games so far this year."

MIKE MERANDI, Chaffey: "We beat San Bernardino Valley 21-7, our kids played well, particularly our offense. We had lost three offensive linemen going into the game but still picked up 330 yards rushing. We had to put a good game together after our loss to Citrus and we did.

"We play at Southwestern this week, they are a team with a lot of heart. They play well together and have some talent so we expect all we can handle down there. Sonny LaFargue and Brian Potter are questionable starters for the game due to injuries."

JERRY SCONCE, APC: "We had a most pleasant trip up to St. Mary's, we played an excellent football game. We put things together real well and outgained them 374-74. The final score was not a good indication of how one-sided the game really was. We dominated them on defense.

"We play Cal State L.A. this week. They have great team speed and an excellent defense. They'll probably be too physical for us but we'll try to stay on the same field with them."

Judge blocks start of racing at Los Al

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A thoroughbred horse race meeting scheduled for next week at Los Alamitos Race Course was blocked Monday by a Superior Court judge on a pair of technicalities.

The meeting, which was to have been the first thoroughbred meet ever in Orange County, was planned as part of the Orange County Fair Nov. 8 through Nov. 21.

But Judge David N. Eagleson ruled that the California Horse Racing Board acted improperly in granting the fair racing dates, basing his decision on two grounds:

—The racing dates were granted without environmental clearances.

—The racing board was too late in adding the racing dates to its 1977 calender, adopted in June 1976. The board added the racing dates in December and, by law, must make changes within 61 days from the time the calender is drawn.

The fair will still be held in the Los Alamitos parking lot.

Backers of the thoroughbred meet have indicated they will appeal Eagleson's decision.

Orange County officials have tried for three years to get two-week thoroughbred racing — to which all county fairs are eligible — but has met consistent resistance from established racetracks in the area, at Hollywood Park and Santa Anita.

About 300 horses already are at Los Alamitos, and track officials said they would be able to accommodate the horses until Thursday, in case an appeal wins.

Eagelson's ruling came on a suit filed by Hollywood Park and Santa Anita, aimed at stopping the meeting. Both parks are themselves seeking more thoroughbred racing dates.

Sports briefs

Benjamin, Green honored

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Stanford's Guy Benjamin, who leads college football in passing and has helped the Cardinals take the Pacific-8 lead, was today named Offensive Player of the Week in the conference.

The defensive award, announced Monday, went to California safety Anthony Green who made two key interceptions and 10 tackles in the Bears' 17-14 upset of Southern Cal.

Benjamin completed 17 of 29 passes for 176 yards and hit for three touchdowns in a 26-7 victory over Oregon State which made Stanford's Pac-8 record 4-1. He allowed no interceptions on the rainy day in Corvallis.

Bosox sale illegal?

BOSTON — Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Players Association, says aspects of a tentative sale arrangement for the Boston Red Sox may be illegal, and he has called for an immediate hearing on the sale, the Boston Evening Globe reported.

Miller said the meeting should take place before American League owners meet Thursday to decide whether they will approve the sale.

According to the newspaper, Miller believes various aspects of a loan agreement between the club's prospective owners and the State Street Bank and Trust Co. might be in violation of the collective bargaining agreement in major league baseball, and therefore illegal.

Evert, Fromholtz meet

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (AP) — No. 1 seed Chris Evert was scheduled to meet eighth-seeded Dianne Fromholtz today as some of the world's best women's tennis players begin a round-robin competition for $250,000 in prize money.

Saturday's finals will be nationally televised, with $100,000 going to the winner.

Qualifying for the tournament were Evert, Billie Jean King, Virginia Wade of England, Betty Stove of The Netherlands; Wendy Turnbull, Dianne Fromholtz and Kerry Reid, all of Australia, and Martina Navratilova.

Besides the Evert-Fromholtz match, today's action paired No. 2 seed Stove against No. 7 Turnbull and No. 4 Navratilova in a match against fifth seed Wade.

Four doubles teams also will be in competition — Navratilova-Stove; Wade and Francoise Durr; Linky Boshoff-Ilana Kloss and Helen Cawley-Joanne Russell.

Jazz has choice

NEW YORK (AP) — The New Orleans Jazz has the option of taking forward Wesley Cox or a first-round draft choice next year from the Golden State Warriors as compensation for the loss of player E.C. Coleman, National Basketball Association Commissioner Larry O'Brien ruled Monday.

Coleman became a "veteran free agent" by playing out his option with New Orleans last year and signed with Golden State.

O'Brien said the Jazz could accept Cox plus $40,000 or the team could take Golden State's own first-round pick in the 1976 college draft plus $75,000.

Steelers lose two players

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Laverne Smith, a rookie running back with the Pittsburgh Steelers, had his severely fractured right leg set in surgery Monday at Divine Providence Hospital.

Meanwhile, the Steelers said middle linebacker Jack Lambert would miss next Sunday's game in Denver due to a knee sprain.

Both injuries were sustained Sunday in the Steelers' 31-21 loss in Baltimore.

"The worst part of that ballgame was the price we had to pay for just playing — not for winning," said Coach Chuck Noll.

Agoura High gridder critical

OXNARD, Calif. (AP) — Greg Cole, 17, injured in a high school football game Friday, remained in critical condition Monday after suffering a bloodclot on the brain.

A spokesman at St. John's Hospital said the prognosis was poor for the player who was a starting defense tackle for Agoura High School.

Cole, who has lettered the past three years, was hurt while making a tackle in a game against Channel Islands High School.

Tang takes golf tourney

HANGING ON — New York Giants linebacker Brad Van Pelt (10) tackles St. Louis Cardinals running back Terry Metcalf (21) during Cards' win Monday night in St. Louis.

Cowboys sailing along

NEW YORK (AP) — Halfway home, with seven games gone and seven still to go, some interesting trends are beginning to develop in the National Football League standings.

The last of the NFL's unbeaten teams is Dallas and the Cowboys are sailing along, three games in front in the National Conference East. What's more, of the Cowboys' seven remaining games, only Denver (Dec. 18) could be termed a top club. All of the others, including Pittsburgh, Washington and St. Louis have already lost three or more games each.

In the NFC Central, Minnesota is comfortably out in front, two games ahead of both Chicago and Detroit. The Vikings dropped the season's opener in overtime to Dallas and then won four straight to take the lead. Then, after Los Angeles walloped Minnesota last Monday night, the Vikes bounced right back with a victory in Atlanta Sunday.

That Minnesota win over the Falcons was vital to the Rams, who are tied for the top in the NFC West with surprising Atlanta. Both are 4-3 after losses Sunday—Los Angeles dropping a one-point decision to New Orleans and the Falcons losing by one touchdown to the Vikes. If they stay deadlocked for five more weeks, Atlanta's Dec. 11 date in the Los Angeles Coliseum could be mighty interesting. The Rams play Tampa Bay, Green Bay, San Francisco, Cleveland and Oakland between now and then while the Falcons face San Francisco, Detroit, New Orleans, Tampa Bay and New England over the same period.

All three divisions are tight in the American Conference.

Oakland's convincing victory over Denver Sunday left the defending Super Bowl champion Raiders tied with the surprising Broncos for first place in the West. Both are 6-1 and are finished with each other for the year. Oakland's remaining games are against Seattle, Houston, San Diego, Buffalo, Los Angeles, Minnesota and Kansas City. Denver's second half seems a little tougher with Pittsburgh, San Diego, Kansas City, Baltimore, Houston, San Diego and Dallas.

The tightest divisions in the league are the AFC Central and AFC East.

In the Central, Cleveland at 5-2 holds a one-game lead over Pittsburgh, struggling along at 4-3. They are gearing for a Nov. 13 showdown in Cleveland. But before that, the Steelers must face Denver and Cleveland plays Cincinnati on Sunday. The Bengals and Houston are both two games back of the Browns at 3-4.

In the East, Baltimore is one game in front of both New England and Miami. The Colts won their first five games, then lost to the Patriots but bounced back to beat Pittsburgh Sunday. New England dropped two of its first three but has recovered to win four in a row. The Dolphins won five of their first six but then dropped a last-second decision to San Diego Sunday.

Miami and New England collide Nov. 13. The Colts play the Dolphins Dec. 5 and the Patriots two weeks later in the final game of the regular season.

AIA hosts Soviet team

LOS ANGELES — The Athletes in Action USA basketball team will face its toughest season opener in 11 years of basketball when the Soviet National Team comes to the Sports Arena tonight in an 8 p.m. tipoff.

This will be the second encounter between the two amateur basketball squads in less than eight months. On March 7, 1977 the two teams met in the Long Beach Arena before 10,239 with the Russians prevailing, 108-106.

The past two seasons AIA has not faired so well in the month of November. Both years AIA was 8-5 in November including losing four of six during one stretch. In 1975-76 the USA'ers went on to post a 29-3 record for the remainder of the season.

Last year AIA was 28-3 after the 8-5 start in November. Even more impressive, the Orange County-based quintet won 26 out of its last 27 games to finish with a 36-7 season record. (AIA was 54-7 overall including 18-0 in Australia.)

Former UCLA Bruin Ralph Drollinger is back for his second campaign in the red, white and blue of AIA while guard Brad Hoffman, and forwards Tim Hall and Irvin Kiffin return for their third year with AIA.

AIA's seven new players give the team needed depth. The top prospects are a pair of 6-7 frontcourt men. Former San Diego State Aztec Steve Copp was a third round choice of the New Orleans Jazz in the 1976 draft. While at San Diego State, he earned academic all-American and co-PCAA Player of the Year honors as a senior. The 1977 NAIA Player of the Year Alonzo Bradley hails from Texas Southern. He averaged 23.8 ppg and led the Tigers to the NAIA National Championship last spring.

AIA will visit Cal Poly next Tuesday night at Kellogg Gym to help Bronco Coach Don Hogan get an idea about his 1977-78 varsity squad.

Vachon ready to rejoin Kings

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles Kings' have announced that goalie Rogie Vachon, injured Oct. 19 at Cleveland, will rejoin the club this week.

The Kings' said Monday that Vachon has been cleared by the team doctor and was to join the team today in St. Louis. Vachon was not scheduled to start until later in the week, the NHL club said.

The Kings also announced that injured defenseman Dave Hutchison, out with a cut finger, would rejoin the team shortly.

Cardinals can play defense

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The explosive St. Louis Cardinals scored four touchdowns in their National Football League game Monday night, but the richest plaudits went to safety Mike Sensibaugh and a band of much-maligned defenders.

Sensibaugh, a sore-shouldered safety, dashed 79 yards in the opening seconds of the final quarter to climax an unexpectedly stingy performance that impressed even Giants Coach John McVay.

"Their defense surprised us a bit," McVay said following his Giants' 28-0 loss. "They played very strongly against us. We're not a great offensive football team, but we thought we could do certain things."

The NFL's 25th-ranked defensive team ahead of the clash, St. Louis shut down the Giants on drives to the Cards' 31 in the opening half and to the 30, 20, and 15 during the final two quarters.

"I'm extremely pleased, especially with the speciality teams," noted Cards Coach Don Coryell, who also labeled Duane Carrell's punts as a factor in keeping the Giants at bay.

"Over all ... offense, defense, and specialty teams ... this was our best game this season in all aspects. I didn't dream we'd hold them scoreless."

While fashioning their first shutout of the season, the Cards enthralled a Busch Stadium sellout crowd of 50,323 by bending, but not breaking, against a New York offense which totalled 301 yards to St. Louis' 258.

Quarterback Jim Hart's four pass completions steered the Cards 68 yards late in the opening quarter. Reserve back Steve Jones capped the drive with a 5-yard dash into the end zone.

St. Louis then yielded momentarily to the aerials of the Giants' Joe Pisarcik during a New York advance from its own 16 to the Cards' 31.

There, however, the Giants' assault stalled and Joe Danelo's field goal try from the 38 sailed wide of the uprights.

Then, after Terry Metcalf's halfback pass was picked off by New York cornerback Bill Bryant, the St. Louis defense held again.

When the Cards got the ball back, Giants' defender Ray Rhodes was ruled to have interfered with Cards' wide receiver Mel Gray on a disputed 47-yard play which advanced the ball to the Giants' 30.

Three plays later, a second interference call, this against safety Clyde Powers, put St. Louis at the 20. And finally, after two more penalties backed New York closer to its goal, offensive guard Conrad Dobler was credited with a touchdown after pouncing on Wayne Morris' fumble from the 1.

A flurry of fisticuffs erupted as Dobler enveloped the ball. The chief antagonists were Cards' all-pro tackle Dan Dierdorf and Giants' linebacker Brian Kelley.

"Connie fell on it, and then I saw somebody kicking him," explained the 288-pound Dierdorf, who grabbed Kelley. "I grabbed whoever it was, and our momentum carried us into the goal post."

Order was restored, but the calm also applied unfortunately to the New York offense.

St. Louis conerback Lee Nelson stepped in front of intended receiver Ed Marshal at the Cards' 42 in the third quarter and six plays later Jerry Latin bolted from the Giants' 4 to a touchdown.

The harassed Pisarcik then zipped two completions on a New York drive, but miscalculated on another throw from the Cards' 30. In zone coverage, Sensibaugh smelled out the play and stole it from the grasp of Jimmy Robinson. Behind a convoy of blockers, he made his touchdown romp a breeze.

"We were waiting for the play-action pass," said Sensibaugh, who had not practiced the previous week because of his painful shoulder. "That's what we were keying on."

Pisarcik wound up completing 12 of 25 aerials for 126 yards before giving way late in the game to backup quarterback Jerry Golsteyn, who also suffered an interception.

Simpson, Zorn cheer youngster

SEATTLE (AP) — Fourteenyear-old Jimmy Gallegos, whose spirits aren't dampened by the loss an arm and part of a lung to cancer, got some good-natured banter and the game ball from Buffalo Bills superstar O.J. Simpson.

Then he played catch outside the locker room with Seattle Seahawks quarterback Jim Zorn, who had just passed for four touchdowns to spark his team to a 56-17 National Football League victory over the Bills Sunday.

Doctors say the odds are not in Jimmy's favor. His left arm was amputated in July, 1976, and part of a lung was removed last November. He now has a tumor on the other lung.

But last Thursday, as a defensive back for the Washington Junior High School football team in Yakima, Wash., Jimmy intercepted a pass and returned it 40 yards to help his team win 18-0.

And Sunday he showed up at the Kingdome with his mother, Kathy, his older brother and a junior high school friend. After the game, he hung around outside the Bills' dressing room, until Simpson emerged.

"I'm very glad to meet you, Jimmy," the congenial Simpson said. "What did you think about that football game? One more touchdown, I think, and they would have tied the NFL record."

Simpson stroked a scraggly beard — "I'm growing this to try to get ready for the winter in Buffalo" — and handed Jimmy a football.

"This is the game ball, Jimmy," said Simpson. He signed the ball, dropped it on the turf, picked it up again and handed it back. "At least I didn't fumble in the game today," he joked. Simpson wrote on the ball, "To my pal, Jimmy. Peace to you."

Moments later Zorn came out of the Seattle locker room and Jimmy indicated he'd like to play catch with a pro.

"Do you want a reception or an interception?" joked Zorn. "It'll have to be a reception. I don't throw interceptions."

Someone told Zorn to keep his pass short. "Are you kidding?" he replied. "We're going for the bomb."

Jimmy handled Zorn's pass with ease, reaching up with his right hand and pulling the ball into his chest. Later, crossing the Kingdome field, Jimmy fired a 20-yard bullet pass on target to his companion.

Zorn wrote on the ball, "To Jimmy, a good friend...Ephes 2:8-9."

The Biblical passage reads: "For by grace you have been saved through faith, and this is not your own doing. It is the gift of God."

Kansas City fires 'nice guy' Wiggins

KANSAS CITY (AP) — "Let's look at the facts, the brutal facts," said a Kansas City Chiefs player, his eyes glistening with tears. "Nice guys can't be winning coaches in the National Football League."

But Paul Wiggin, an acknowledged "nice guy" who was fired Monday, still believes it can be done.

Chiefs owner Lamar Hunt called a news conference Monday to announce that "in the best interests of the Kansas City Chiefs," Wiggin had been fired and Tom Bettis, a veteran Chiefs' defensive backfield coach, was named to replace him on an interim basis.

Wiggin indicated earlier he had talked his successor out of resigning in a show of loyalty.

"Tom is a very loyal guy," Wiggin said. "I said, 'Tom, let's talk about a team and a staff and some people we both care for. Let's forget about Paul Wiggin.'"

Bettis, flanked by Hunt and Chiefs President Jack Steadman at the news conference, was asked about Wiggin's remarks.

"Any time you get a shock like this, there's bound to be a lot of wild thoughts going through your head," he said. "Paul and I had a long conversation."

Wiggin, 44, was an assistant coach for the San Francisco 49ers when the Chiefs hired him in January, 1975 to head their much-advertised rebuilding campaign. He was 5-9 in each of two full seasons after replacing Hank Stram, who was fired after a 5-9 mark in 1974.

The Chiefs, a powerhouse in the old American Football League and the Super Bowl champions of 1970, staggered to a 1-6 mark the first seven weeks of this season and were mauled 44-7 last Sunday by the Cleveland Browns, the team for which Wiggin played defensive end for 11 years.

The dismissal of the popular Wiggin triggered a quick, hostile reaction from fans and players.

Several players emerged from Wiggin's office openly weeping after they learned of the dismissal, and Wiggin was wiping tears from his eyes when he met with reporters.

"I don't have any bitterness," said Wiggin, whose coaching philosophy was founded on dedication, emotion and compassion. "And I still believe it's possible for a nice guy to win in the NFL. I did it my way, and it didn't work."

In a written statement, the players said they were "shocked and saddened with what has happened here today."

"Every man on this football team feels a deep sense of guilt for the actions that were taken. It is our fault that we lost a fine man and a great individual, Paul Wiggin. One of the great crimes in life is to have someone else suffer the consequences of your own actions. We feel this is the case today."

The Kansas City Star said calls were running almost 10-1 in sympathy with the ousted coach.

"We decided it was in the best interests of the Kansas City Chiefs to make a coaching change," Hunt said. "Paul Wiggin is a very fine man. He gave the Chiefs credibility and he helped us through a difficult period. But in the opinion of the team management, we had not been making the progress we felt we needed to make.

"We are dedicated to seeing the Kansas City Chiefs become competitive with the best in the National Football League and we felt we were no longer making progress toward that goal."

Wiggin said he had no idea he was being dismissed when called to a meeting with Hunt and Steadman at 10:30 a.m. Monday.

U.S. attempts to convert pests into pets

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The federal government, plagued with wild burro herds overrunning public lands, is trying to convert pests into pets by running an adoption service for the floppy-eared beasts.

The National Park Service and the Bureau of Land Management, in the face of protests over shooting the animals to thin the herds, has come up with an "adopt-a-burro" plan.

"The 'adopt-a-burro' program seems to be a working solution as long as we have enough people willing to take the animals," said Bob Springer, head of the BLM's national range division in Washington. However, it is more expensive — sometimes several thousand dollars — to round up rather than shoot the beasts, he noted.

Phil Hill, 32, owner of a garage and service station in rural Hesperia, drove out to the BLM's Mojave Desert adoption center recently to pick up a grown jenny (female) named Sally and a month-old burro he called Sweetpea.

"We got the baby for our son, Luke, who's only 16 months," says Hill, "It gives our boy an animal to grow up with" on the family's 2½-acre homesite.

"We'll have our burros in the hometown parades, ride them on the horsetrails around here and use them for pack animals up in the mountains," Hill said.

BLM officials say there's been no mad rush out to the recently opened adoption center near Baker or others operated from time-to-time in Arizona or New Mexico.

About 60 of 321 burros rounded up and put in the Mojave Desert pen have been adopted, says Springer. The government gives out the burros free, asking only that prospective "parents" pick them up and have enough space at their home to keep them.

The burros in Wild West days often were best friends to prospectors and miners, who used the pony-sized critters as pack animals. The animals were brought to the West from North Africa in the 1500s by the Spaniards.

The burros, replaced over the years by motorized vehicles, were released by their owners into the desert where they thrived.

Today there are an estimated 8,000 to 10,000 wild burros roaming throughout the desert, mostly in California, Nevada, Arizona and New Mexico. They chomp and tromp on fragile vegetation, causing erosion and destroying food supplies of native desert creatures — including deer and bighorn sheep, says Terral King of the BLM.

Between 1924 and 1968, the park service says, about 2,500 burros were shot at Grand Canyon National Park, where an abundance of the creatures recently led Jim Walters of the park service to declare, "Hell, this isn't a national park, this is a wild burro pasture."

In July, 66 burros were shot by rangers at Bandelier National Monument in New Mexico, where the animals had been trampling and destroying Indian ruins.

"The damage done by burros is evident, continuous and progressively getting worse," says Brant Calkin, Southwest representative of the conservationist Sierra Club. "I'm not the least bit enthusiastic about the program to kill the burros. I'm sure the park service isn't either. But it's a necessary evil."

The park service announced a plan a year ago to wipe out all wild burros in the Grand Canyon and were deluged with 12,000 letters, most protesting the burro shoot, says Walters.

Interior Secretary Cecil D. Andrus ordered that an impact statement on the burros be prepared by the end of this year after a court suit seeking a halt to the plan was filed by the Committee to Protect the Grand Canyon Burro, the American Horse Protection Association and Humane Society of the United States.

PROGRESS BULLETIN
WANT AD

A STEEL WOMAN WITH A SOFT HEART.

Pat Vincent works for Kaiser Steel. But after a full day at the office she's still got a lot of work to do—for United Way. This is the third year in a row that Pat has volunteered her time to see that the deserving get their share of United Way funds.

It's a time-consuming job. She's a member of one of the volunteer panels that looks into the needs of a great variety of organizations to assure that United Way funds are distributed fairly. Tough decisions, but the satisfaction of being able to help makes it all worthwhile.

Pat Vincent, Kaiser Steel employee and United Way volunteer.

The rest of us at Kaiser Steel believe in doing our part, too. This year $300,000 was raised through payroll deductions for the United Way and other charitable organizations. In addition, the company is giving a total of $96,000 to United Way drives in Corona/Norco, Greater Fontana, Pomona, Redlands, Riverside, San Bernardino, and West End, which support a total of more than 200 organizations.

We have a lot of people like Pat who give time and money to help our neighbors, both young and old, enjoy a better life. We hope you'll give your fair share, too.

KAISER STEEL

We try to be good neighbors. It's our neighborhood, too.

Market activity

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Federal Reserve Board's apparent decision to tighten credit and a sharp decline in the dollar's value abroad sent stocks plunging along a broad front Tuesday. Trading was moderate.

The Fed, in a move that came as the Treasury was in the process of a financing operation, tightened credit Monday by allowing hikes in the federal funds rates that banks charge one another for overnight loans. Most observers thought the Fed had ended tightening last week.

At the same time, the dollar fell to all-time lows in West Germany and Japan. The British pound, meanwhile, rose for the second consecutive day after being allowed to float without government intervention.

As a result, the Dow Jones industrial average, which fell 4.33 points Monday, was off 7.54 points to 810.81 shortly before noon EDT. The closely watched average had climbed 21.14 points in the three sessions prior to Monday.

Investors seemed to ignore statements by Charles Schultze, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, calling for "reductions and improvements" in business taxes to raise investment. The government's leading economic indicators rose an anemic 0.3 per cent in September, indicating the economy has slowed down.

Declines led advances, 866 to 272, among the 1,576 issues crossing the tape.

Vetco Inc., trading exdividend, was the most active NYSE issue, off ½ to 23¼. Smith International, in an amendment to an SEC filing, said it no longer was considering a Vetco takeover. Combustion Engineering recently made a $23-a-share tender offer for Vetco stock.

Indiana Standard was the second most active NYSE issue, off ½ to 47¼ following a block trade of 105,100 shares at 47⅛. Public Service Electric & Gas was third, off ¼ to 22⅞.

Prices were lower in moderate trading of American Stock Exchange issues. Houston Oil & Minerals was the most active Amex issue, off ⅞ to 27⅛. Syntex was second, off ⅛ to 16¼. UV Industries warrants were third, off ⅛ to 3⅝.

Prisoner found dead

LONG BEACH (AP) — A man found dead in his jail cell was the third inmate to die here in less than a month, officials say.

Police said Thursday that Joseph E. Waselewski, 47, suffered from emphysema. They listed his death Wednesday as natural pending results of an autopsy.

Coroner's inquiries are pending into the earlier deaths of James B. Lucas, 48, and Gary W. Beckering, 19.

Minimum wage hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate today approved a minimum wage bill that would push the nation's minimum wage up in annual stages from the current $2.30 an hour to $3.35 an hour by 1981.

The bill was approved by voice vote in the Senate with no debate. The House is expected to take it up Thursday.

College grads to make changes in labor force

WASHINGTON, D.C. (BW) — The rapid growth of college graduates in the labor force makes major changes in the workplace "inevitable," Prof. Henry M. Levin of the Stanford School of Education said.

Levin sharply contradicted highly publicized reports that the economic value of college education has declined for the individual student.

While college education is a worthwhile investment for the individual, it may not be so for society, he said. College graduates may simply displace their high school counterparts, taking jobs that are lower in prestige, income and mobility that was true in the past.

"Frustrations and dissatisfactions that will ensue will manifest themselves increasingly in disruptions of production and lower productivity," he predicted.

"Quality control will become a more serious problem. In addition, we are likely to see rising incidences of absenteeism, employee turnover, and alcohol and drug usage on the job, as well as increasing work stoppages created by wildcat strikes and employee sabotage."

The growing gap between expectations of the educated worker and realities of the workplace will create what Herb Gintis has called a new working class of revolutionary youth, an "educated proletariat."

"From a public policy standpoint, there will be no clear path that can be effective in alleviating this dilemma," Levin said.

To shift a higher share of education costs to the student, reducing access to college "will simply move the frustrations and reactions to other institutions and the streets, as was evident in western Europe during 1968.

"Moreover, this is a particularly troublesome solution at a time when the system of higher education has only recently opened up to the less advantaged student population," Levin added.

The widely publicized movement toward "career education" also offers little help. "There is virtually no evidence that such an approach will make students more 'realistic' and offset the historic quest for social mobility through the educational system," Levin said.

The alternative of "lifelong learning" or "recurrent" education likewise has only limited value.

"The relative lack of productive work for young persons who leave the educational system will tend to work against their taking the recurrent educational approach seriously," Levin explained.

"Whatever else its merits, recurrent education is not likely to alleviate the problem of overeducation in the job market."

This leaves major institutional changes in the workplace as the most likely alternative. (Levin analyzed these in a recent book on "The Dialectic of Educational and Work.")

The Stanford educator refuted highly publicized studies which suggested college has become of limited economic value to the individual, compared to other alternatives.

"On the basis of pecuniary criteria, an investment in college education is worth it to the average indivisual," he said.

Studies by Richard Freeman have suggested the rate of return on an investment in college has declined from an average of 11 percent or more prior to 1968 to as low as 7.5 percent currently.

Freeman's data, however, compared college graduates to the total workforce rather than high school graduates. "Freeman did not take account of the large and apparently rising gap in unemployment rates between high school and college graduates," Levin noted.

Among those ages 24 or less, unemployment rose from 2 percent for college graduates in 1967 to 6 percent in 1975 and 1976. For high school graduates the comparable rise was from about 6 percent to 14 or 16 percent.

"The historic decline in opportunities that faces the contemporary college graduates has been equaled or exceeded by the somber reality facing the high school graduate," Levin said.

New tire labeling system

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new way of expressing dimensions is being added to tire shopping in America, representing one more step along the road to the metric system of measurement.

The change means you will see some unfamiliar lettering and numbering on the side of your tires.

Suppose, for example, the tires you now have are labeled "FR78-14."

The "F" refers to the amount of weight the tire can carry. The "R" shows the tires is a radial model. The "78" refers to the relationship between height and width, indicating the tire is 78 percent as high as it is wide, and the "14" shows the tire fits a 14-inch rim.

Generally, the closer the initial code letter is to the beginning of the alphabet, the smaller the tire and the less weight it can carry.

If you go to buy replacements for your "FR78-14" you will find the dealer offering you something marked "P205-75R14."

The "P" indicates the tire is designed for regular use on passenger cars. These are the only metrically numbered tires currently being produced, but some "T" designations — indicating temporary use spares — are expected on the market later this year.

The number "205" is the measurement of the cross section of the tire in millimeters. This is followed by a slash mark, shown here as a dash. Next comes "75," referring to the relationship of height to width rounded to the nearest 5 percent.

The "R" means radial. "B" would indicate bias belted tires and "D" would stand for diagonal or bias ply. The "14" once again shows that the tire fits a 14-inch rim. The 14 has not been converted to metrics because tire rim sizes around the world are measured in inches.

The metrically numbered tires started appearing last year on 1977 Chevettes. More of them will be in use this year on 1978 models, mainly those produced by General Motors.

The old labeling — known as the alpha numeric system — has been in use for seven years. Complete conversion to the new system is expected to take some time because many tires already on the market or in the manufacturing and distribution pipeline are numbered in the old way. Some manufacturers say they will temporarily produce some tires with both types of numbers.

The rest of the information on the side of your tire — the load range, the maximum load limits and cold inflation, the tire ply composition and so on — will remain the same.

A new federal standard requiring labeling on such things as tread wear and resistance to damage has been proposed, but is not yet in effect.

The metric measurements being used in the new tires are not necessarily exactly equal to the old sizes and experts warn that exact interchangeability is not always possible. You may have to adjust the inflation of the tire up to three pounds.

Most manufacturers have prepared charts showing you what to do, however, and tire dealers should be able to explain any needed adjustments.

Alcan Booth

OAKLAND (BW) — Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical Corp., announced it has reached an agreement in principle to sell its 25 percent interest in Alcan Booth Industries Ltd., a British manufacturer of fabricated aluminum products, to Alcan Aluminum (U.K.) Ltd.

The sale will provide Alcan with 100 percent ownership of Alcan Booth.

Navy contracts received

Data-Design Laboratories, Cucamonga, has received $7 million in new contracts for one Navy program, the largest total awarded in the company's history, said Thomas C. Beiseker, president.

The four new contracts were awarded by the Department of the Navy for the Fleet Ballistic Missile Submarine program which includes the new Trident Weapons System. The largest is valued at $4.6 million. The contracts primarily cover a period of one year.

As a Trident team member, the company will provide strategic weapons systems training acquisition and maintenance support as the personnel program coordinator. The company is also involved in other training and documentation programs.

"Over the years our participation in the Trident program has been increasing, and we are pleased by these latest contracts. After another record year in fiscal 1977, we are optimistic about our prospects for further growth in the current year," said Beiseker.

Divorce rate rise steady

NEW YORK (AP) — The divorce rate in the United States, which has been steadily rising for 10 years, reached a new peak in 1976, hitting 5.0 per 1,000 persons, says the American Council of Life Insurance.

Stock market no place to be

"The stock market is a very bad place to be right now" was the consensus of economists and conferees during the economic forecasting conference held by the Applied Financial Economics Center (AFEC) at Claremont Men's College.

John Rutledge, AFEC's associate director, told the 47 financial executives and investors who attended the conference that, "We are sitting on a knife edge — a position which we will not occupy for long. One good push — or a series of nudges — could bring accelerating inflation, price and wage controls, or both. A good push the other way could knock the economy back into recession."

He added that the joke is that Washington policymakers "don't even recognize the thin line we are walking."

The economist said, "We now have a built-in, underlying inflation rate of at least 7 percent per year. But, it might go higher, depending upon a series of events which could trigger a further rise — import embargos, war, bad harvests — etc."

Rutledge believes a sudden worsening of inflation — to 9 or 10 percent for several months — would be "tragic." It would have a devastating effect on the financial markets, he explained, pushing down stock and bond prices and pushing up the dollar prices of foreign currencies. It would produce another unhealthy price-boom in housing, real estate, and commodities, and "worse still," he added, "a burst of inflation is sure to precipitate 'selective' wage and price controls."

Richard Sweeney, AFEC's senior research associate, expects a 4.4 percent average annual rate of real income growth which "will be disappointing to the administration and to many in Congress. This increases the danger of further doses of monetary and fiscal stimulus in the Spring.

"The Washington woods are full of economists who think that a little stimulus can't cause much inflation so long as there are unemployed resources, and who interpret recent jumps in interest rates as evidence of 'tight' monetary policy. But this isn't the lesson we learned from the past 10 years," he said.

Sweeney said many are becoming convinced that the recent excessive money growth and enormous budget deficits are here to stay. He predicts that these "policy expectations" will become more and more firmly imbedded in pricing decisions, wage negotiations, and asset prices as time goes on and that inflation will get more difficult to control and more costly to stop. On the other hand, a sharp reduction in monetary or fiscal stimulus, would produce a sharp recession.

Joyce Brothers

Share work load

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: I'm a working mother with three children and a wonderful husband who also works a full week. We love our jobs and our family, but I've noticed that almost every weekend, we have a family fight. The terrible thing is that I believe many of them are my fault. It's not that I don't want to go back to work, which is what my husband claims. It's just that by Sunday night I feel everybody is getting in my hair and frankly, I'm tired of them and the endless work that has to be done for them. In fairness to them, should I quit my job and be a full-time mother and wife? — N.K.

DEAR N.K.: This is up to you, of course, but it might be quite destructive to your marriage. If you're unhappy, anxious and feel bored or unfulfilled, your family will be the first to know it. If you enjoy your job, and the pressure comes only on weekends, then I think there are better solutions than giving up the job.

One solution is to designate tasks for your husband and children so that all the weekend work doesn't fall on you. This doesn't have to be a burden on anyone. If you plan it right, it can actually be fun. For instance, you don't have to be totally responsible for all the meals if you involve the rest of the family.

A study by a Pennsylvania State University professor, Dr. Maximiliane Szinovacz, revealed that most working wives show stress on Monday. "Blue Monday" comes from anticipating another hard week, but this doesn't mean they don't like or enjoy their work. On Saturdays, they're down because they have to spend one day of the weekend doing household chores they couldn't do during the week. Allocate the work and ask others to share.

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: My wife and I have sacrificed a lot to send our son and daughter to college and we're very disappointed in the quality of their work. They tell us they're doing the best they can, but I find that hard to believe. They were both excellent students in high school and they've now dropped down to a mediocre level. Unfortunately, my son has fallen in love with a young woman we disapprove of. I believe this has affected his grades and his whole attitude about study and discipline. If I withdraw funds, my children may both quit. What can I do to push them toward better academic standards? — M.J.

DEAR M.J.: By the time a youngster reaches college age, about the only thing a parent can do is to talk to him or her as an adult, treat the young person with respect and be as supportive as possible.

I agree it would be foolish to withdraw funds. Besides what have they done to deserve punishment? You certainly wouldn't want to punish your son for falling in love even though you don't approve of his choice.

Often, youngsters who were straight-A students in high school have difficulty getting along in college. For one thing, the competition is tougher and there is bound to be a period of adjustment in which the student tries to adjust to a totally new atmosphere.

A recent study by psychologist Douglas Heath who tracked 68 Haverford College students revealed that those who received good grades in college often were less effective as adults than the poorer students. He doesn't suggest that failure in college will be a sign of future success, but he does feel that traditional academic measures tap too narrow a domain of skill and knowledge to be useful in determining future success and competence.

Rembrandt Club meets Thursday

"Rembrandt in Retrospect" will be the topic for the meeting Thursday of Rembrandt Club when the group meets at 1:30 p.m. in the Rembrandt Hall of Pomona College.

The speaker, Mrs. Perdita Sheirich, is in the process of writing a history of the club and has gathered many fascinating stories about the beginning of the Pomona art department.

One of the first art instructors, Hanna Tempest Jenkins, was a dynamic teacher who not only organized the department but inspired students, some of whom are now famous in the art field. She helped to organize the Rembrandt Club. Slides of some of the outstanding events will be used as illustrations for the talk.

The club has been in existence for 72 years. Those who have been members for 25 years and over will be honored during the afternoon.

Members and guests may visit the art studios and see students at work painting or in the sculpture studio.

Tea will be served in the Montgomery Gallery where there will be a special exhibit related to the history of art at the college.

Mrs. Sheirich graduated from UC Berkeley with a B. A. in decorative arts and art. She worked in New York and San Francisco before moving to Claremont in 1965. She has been president of Rembrandt and is at present a member of the board of directors.

The meeting is open to persons interested in art.

AARP sets meeting this evening

Mrs. Virginia Coffey, retired teacher and world traveler, will present the program for Chapter 227, American Association of Retired Persons, when the group meets at 7 tonight at Pilgrim Congregational Church.

Mrs. Coffey will show slides and present a commentary on a trip to South America.

Potluck slated at auditorium

St. Joseph Altar Society will meet at 12:30 p.m., Wednesday, in St. Joseph Auditorium on the church grounds. A potluck luncheon will be served.

Sgt. Tom McCullogh of the Pomona Police Department will discuss "Safety in the Home and on the Street." The meeting is open to all women of the church.

We all recognize the red-and-white barber pole. Today's barber is familiar to us as a person who cuts hair.

But long ago barbers also were surgeons. One of the operations the early barber performed was to "bleed" a patient as a cure for illness.

In order to perform the operation, the barber had the patient hold onto a pole in the barber shop while he "let" blood out of the patient's arm.

When the pole was no being used, the barber hung his bowl and bandages on it.

Later, barbers painted red and white stripes around a special pole as their advertising sign.

The red-and-white stripes were meant to remind people of the blood-soaked bandages with which the patient was wrapped after bloodletting, while a glass dome on top represented the barber's upturned bowl.

Even though barbers no longer act as surgeons, the old sign of the barber-surgeon is still widely used.

Automaker recalling 1.2 million vehicles

DETROIT (AP) — All Plymouth Volares, Dodge Aspens, Chrysler Lebarons and Dodge Diplomats built before Sept. 23 — some 1.2 million cars — are being recalled by Chrysler Corp. to correct potential brake defects.

The nation's third largest auto maker said Monday there were no injuries or accidents in 20 reported incidents in which cars lost their front brakes.

Chrysler said one defect involves acid leaking from the battery and eating through the brake tubes, causing a loss of brake fluid.

The company said its dealers will replace the brake tubes if necessary and install a protective shield between the tubes and the battery cover at no charge.

In a second problem, Chrysler said front brake hoses which run from the tubes to the front wheel brakes may become brittle and crack in prolonged cold weather.

If trouble develops in the front brakes, the rear brakes will be enough to stop the car, Chrysler said.

Chrysler said owners should inspect brake tubes for signs of corrosion at the rear of the battery cover and inspect the brake hoses for visible cracks.

Has largely nullified air defense system

Pentagon believes cruise missile will force Russ into costly crash program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon experts believe development of the cruise missile has largely nullified the Soviet Union's $100 billion air defense system and that Moscow would have to launch a crash program to catch up.

Defense officials said Monday that even with a $50 billion crash program, the Soviets would trail the United States if the Pentagon continues to improve the sophistication of the new U.S. weapon.

Cruise missile improvements now being developed can be made operational faster than the Russians can update their air defense system, the defense officials said.

The officials, rebutting a published report questioning the weapon's capabilities, said they are confident the present cruise missile can penetrate current Soviet air defenses.

President Carter has decided to step up development of the cruise missile, choosing it over the proposed B-1 bomber as the nation's next major strategic weapon.

But it faces a Soviet defense system described by the Pentagon as the most extensive in the world, involving 500,000 persons, more than 12,000 surface-to-air anti-aircraft missiles stationed at 1,000 sites, and 2,600 aircraft.

The cruise missile, a technology in which the United States is believed to lead the Russians by at least five years, essentially is a small, pilotless jet plane which can carry either nuclear or conventional warheads.

About 14 feet long and 2 feet in diameter, it flies at about 650 miles an hour as low as 30 feet above the surface, presenting what U.S. planners hope would be a nightmare for defensive radar.

Defense officials said the weapon would be launched in a saturation cloud of 3,000 cruise missiles at the same time 200 bombers attacked the target, further complicating air defense problems.

Pentagon officials discussed the cruise missile's capability following a published report that secret computer studies showed the weapon "would not have a chance" of penetrating the Soviet defense system.

The report, by columnists Rowland Evans and Robert Novak, said the computer study was based on a study of the cruise versus the U.S. Hawk air defense system.

According to the report, the study showed that Hawk radar would locate the cruise and that a surface-to-air Hawk missile would shoot it down.

Study hints oil firms exaggerating claims

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new economic study sponsored by a conservative research organization suggests the petroleum industry is exaggerating claims that it needs higher profits.

The study, commissioned by the American Enterprise Institute, says the apparent low profits of oil companies in past years were actually higher than average for the amount of investor risk involved.

The petroleum industry's money-making record thus seemed good enough to attract investment money, said the study released Monday.

That conclusion seems to challenge one of the oil industry's chief arguments for deregulation of oil and natural gas prices. The industry has contended that controlled prices make profits too low to attract investors, thus hampering exploration and development of new energy sources.

The analysis was prepared for the Washington-based institute by Shyam Sunder, assistant professor of accounting at the Graduate School of Business of the University of Chicago.

A spokesman for the American Petroleum Institute, the industry's trade organization, said late Monday that its own experts had not yet read Sunder's analysis.

Sunder first figured out the profits of the oil industry over the past 15 years by the usual measurements, such as return on net worth, or return on assets. He concluded, as others have found, that the industry's profits lagged behind U.S. industry in general until the steep price increases associated with the Arab oil embargo of 1973-74.

Sunder said recent profits only made up for the lower profits of earlier years and may not represent a future trend.

But in his analysis, Sunder noted that standard profit measurements fail to take into account an investor's risk.

To include the risk factor, he did a series of unusual and complicated calculations.

First, Sunder figured out how much oil industry profits fluctuate compared with all other industries — a measure of uncertainty or risk known to stock analysts as a "beta coefficient."

From that, Sunder figured a normal range of profits and calculated how much the oil industry's earnings deviated from the norm for the years 1961 through 1975.

On that "risk-adjusted" basis, Sunder concluded that oil industry profitability was actually a bit higher than the average for all other industries.

South Africa arms embargo resolution introduced

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — African delegations to the United Nations are formulating their response to a Western resolution for an indefinite arms embargo against South Africa.

The resoultion was introduced in the U.N. Security Council Monday night after the Western Big Three vetoed African resolutions calling for military and economic sanctions.

A spokesman for the African bloc, Radha K. Ramphul of Mauritius, said his group "likely" would propose amendments to the resolution.

The new resolution, introduced by West Germany and Canada, would call on all U.N. members to stop shipments of weapons to South Africa's white government until the Security Council lifted the ban. But it omits a ban on nuclear cooperation which the Africans called for in their vetoed arms embargo resolution.

The council adjourned to let the 49-nation African bloc confer on the new resolution.

One resolution did pass the Security Council on Monday. Prompted by the crackdown Oct. 19 on black organizations and leaders still at large, it demands that the South African goverment release all persons imprisoned or restricted under security laws or for opposing the apartheid racial policies and lift the bans on organizations and newspapers opposed to apartheid.

The resolution, sponsored by Benin, Libya and Mauritius as African members of the 15-nation council, passed unanimously.

Then came three triple vetos by the United States, Britain and France, the largest number in one day in the history of the council.

30 children hurt as school buses collide

DENVER (AP) — Two school buses collided at an ice-slickened intersection today, injuring 30 children. Authorities said the injuries were not serious.

Several of the 30 Merrill Junior High School pupils who were taken to hospitals suffered head cuts and knee injuries when thrown forward in the buses, hospital spokesmen said.

The collision occurred shortly before 7:30 a.m. at Colorado Boulevard and Cherry Creek Drive. Police officers at the scene said one bus had stopped at a traffic light and the second bus hit the back of it.

Streets were coated with ice this morning after a storm that dumped up to three inches of heavy, wet snow on the city during the night.

Minimum wage bill signed by president

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter today signed legislation increasing the paychecks of many of America's lowest paid workers 45 percent by 1981. He called it "a step in the right direction" and said it will pump an additional $9 billion into the economy.

At a ceremony in the White House Rose Garden, the president dismissed criticism that the increase would be inflationary, saying rather that it will put money "into the hands of those who need it to buy the necessities of life."

Under the legislation, the minimum wage will rise from the current $2.30 an hour to $2.65 on Jan. 1 and then in annual steps over the next three years to $3.35 an hour on Jan. 1, 1981, a total increase of $1.05.

A number of congressional and labor leaders who helped steer the bill through Congress were on hand for the brief ceremony. They included several whom Carter noted were at the White House 39 years ago when President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed a law establishing the first minimum wage at 25 cents an hour.

AFL-CIO President George Meany, Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va., and Rep. John Dent, D-Pa., had been there in 1938 and each was asked by Carter to say a few words.

Meany said the higher minimum wage will give the great mass of people a greater purchasing power, while Dent said it will bring a "little bit better way of life" to millions of Americans.

The first increase in the new minimum wage on Jan. 1 will add about $2.2 billion to 4.5 million workers. Each additional increase will pump another $2 billion into the economy.

Carter noted that each time the minimum wage was increased, it brought predictions of higher inflation and catastrophy for the economy. But, he added, Congress nevertheless "acted, perhaps belatedly, but wisely in each instance" in raising the federal pay floor.

The president said the overall impact of the bill "is good" and "will be beneficial."

Pomona suspends citing of vehicles for 30 days

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

The Pomona City Council has set a 30-day moratorium on the enforcement of an ordinance pertaining to the storage of recreational vehicles in residential neighborhoods.

The council Monday night, by a 4-1 vote with Councilman G. Stanton Selby saying no, stated the 30-day period was long enough for the city staff to come up with suggestions for amending the disputed ordinance.

The Pomona Planning Commission had recommended a four-month moratorium on recreational vehicles such as boats, campers, camper shells, camping trailers, motor homes, and mobile homes.

The commission wants time to schedule a study session and public hearings with regard to either rewriting or amending the existing ordinance which has provoked Westmont area residents into asking for some relief from the law which has been on the books for 20 years.

Councilwoman Georgia Grove said that the present ordinance is good, and that she saw no need for such a moratorium.

She noted that campers and motor homes are not included in the law.

Councilman Benjamin Ochoa disagreed, and said that he wanted to see the ordinance redefined.

"We want to clean up the city," he said.

City Planner Sanford Sorensen suggested the ordinance may be amended as the council sees fit. He explained that the problem is defining a recreational vehicle.

The present ordinance states that no motor vehicle shall be sorted or parked on private property except in a space enclosed on all sides so as not to be seen from a public street or alley and to the rear of the front yard setback unless the vehicle is capable of movement under its own power.

No trailers, boats, camper bodies or mobile homes shall be stored or parked except in a space enclosed on all sides so as not to be seen from a public street or alley, the ordinance states.

Sorenson said that a person could get into the idea of dune buggies or that of rebuilding a car as a person's recreational vehicle.

Councilman Adrian Wright suggested mororcycles as recreational vehicles, and said the width of properties of new homes may prevent owners from putting motor vehicles in their backyards.

"I do think they ought to be kept neat, though," he said.

Selby said he was confused about the matter, and that the major problem appears to be the definition of recreational vehicles.

Sorensen said that camper bodies and tent trailers are things that come under the present ordinance.

"Whether a camper body is on a truck or off doesn't make any difference," Wright said.

Mayor Charles Bader said that a moratorium could serve as a cooling off period for tempers of those cited because of complaints of neighbors.

He said that complaints filed by one neighbor led to complaints throughout the city.

"You've got people playing games with the ordinance," he explained.

"Is that a fair way to administer the ordinance?" he asked. "I feel a four-month period is appropriate. I don't feel we should be in a position of protecting the complainant."

He questioned the enforcement method of a neighbor being able to complain about neighbor.

Ochoa agreed with Bader. He said he is opposed to a moratorium because it would be regressive, and added that two to three weeks would be sufficient.

Bader asked Sorensen if the staff could come back with some sort of a recommendation in a short time.

Sorensen said he couldn't speak for the staff.

"Why not compromise?" Selby asked.

"I see no reason to hold this over," Mrs. Grove said.

E. J. Gaulding said that he didn't think any kind of moratorium is needed.

"The problem can well be solved," he said. "I want to speak on behalf of the 100 people who want to clean up Pomona," referring to the residents who complained to the city.

Mrs. Penny Moffitt said that there are many retired people who own RVs.

Selby said four months is too long and suggested 60 days. Ochoa asked for no moratorium. Wright suggested 90 days and then 30. Mrs. Grove then moved for a 30 day period, and Ochoa seconded the motion.

Bus service disrupted in some parts of U.S.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Greyhound bus service was disrupted in some parts of the nation today after a union representing 13,000 drivers, mechanics and other employees called for a strike vote against the company.

Contracts for Greyhound employees across the nation expired at midnight Monday, but national Amalgamated Transit Union officials urged workers to stay on the job until the vote was taken.

There were reports of scattered walkouts in Ohio, West Virginia, Virginia and North Carolina. However, Greyhound bus operations were said to be operating normally in most areas served by the company, including San Francisco, Los Angeles, Seattle, Pittsburgh, Phoenix, Denver, New York and Washington, D.C.

A few pickets appeared at the Greyhound terminal in Cincinnati, with all departures reported halted.

"They're using Trailways and other means of transportation," said Ray Eld, manager of the Cincinnati terminal.

Driver Jim Webb, one of those on the picket line, said the strike was ordered by ATU Division 1493. Division officials, however, were not immediately available for comment.

Owen Jones, president of the union's Greyhound Council, said the company's only wage offer was "an out and out insult in this day and time."

Hit public works bill as racist

Liken it to Bakke case

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A federal judge has declared unconstitutional a 1977 Public Works Act provision that requires 10 percent of the work it finances to be done by minority-owned businesses.

But U.S. District Judge A. Andrew Hauk on Monday declined to prohibit any contractors from using funds from the $4 billion Public Works Act.

"I think I have to keep in mind the tremendous harm I could cause if I tried to enjoin $4 billion already granted," said Hauk, who noted that it was the intent of the act to pump construction money into the economy immediately.

While declining to bar the use of funds from the current allocation, the judge issued a permanent injunction against future allocations of federal construction monies with any racial quotas included.

The city and county of Los Angeles so far have received $57 million under the act.

The contractors, represented by the Pacific Legal Foundation of Sacramento, contended they were left out of competitive bidding because of the minority quota.

"There was doubt on the part of the plaintiffs that there were enough available minorities to meet the quota," said attorney Sandra Johnson of the Pacific Legal Foundation.

The U.S. Justice Department defended the minority contractor provision, as it is doing in Pennsylvania, Indiana and Montana suits.

Associated General Contractors, a national trade association, is bringing the challenges, saying suits may be brought in five more states.

"It's much more than affirmative action," says association spokesman John Ellis. "This is essentially a racial quota."

The association, which lists 8,000 general contractors across the country as members, supported the Public Works Act, but opposed the quota.

Justice Department lawyers argue that racial minorities make up 17 percent of the American population, although minority-owned firms account for just 1 per cent of the industry's gross receipts.

Hauk compared the case to the Allan Bakke "reverse discrimination" case now before the U.S. Supreme Court. That case challenges the minority admissions quota at the University of California at Davis medical school.

Hauk said he felt the two cases were the same and contended that the quota provision violated the Fifth Amendment's equal protection clause.

However, Deborah Seymour, a Justice Department lawyer, claimed the two cases were different because the public works minority provision was an act of Congress, while the UC Davis admissions policy was voluntary.

Sentence Texan for contempt in Panther case

OAKLAND (AP) — A white great-granddaughter of a former Texas governor has been sentenced to a $500 fine and five days in jail for refusing to testify in a murder case against Black Panther party leader Huey Newton.

Molly Dougherty, 28, a teacher at a Black Panther school whose great-grandfather was John Ireland, had refused to reply to questions about a leased Lincoln Continental the prosecution claims was used by Newton the night of the slaying.

She had refused to answer Alameda County Deputy District Attorney Tom Orloff's questions Friday, contending the case against Newton is "a frame-up."

Municipal Court Judge J. Robert Friborg found her in contempt of court but delayed sentencing until Monday, hoping she would change her mind over the weekend.

Asked again Monday, she refused to answer when Orloff asked if she leased the vehicle. The prosecution claims Newton got out of the car the night of Aug. 6, 1974, and fatally shot Kathleen Smith, 17, a prostitute.

Last week Raphaelle Gary, 32, another prostitute, also known as "Crystal Grey" and "Little Momma," identified Newton as the man who got out of the Continental on an Oakland streetcorner, struck Miss Smith and pulled a gun on her.

She said she heard a shot and then saw Newton standing over Miss Smith's body, laughing.

Another self-acknowledged prostitute, Michelle "Candy" Jenkins, also placed Newton at the murder scene in testimony last week.

Orloff and Newton's attorney, Sheldon Otis, are scheduled to present closing arguments in the hearing on Friday. Friborg then will decide whether to bind Newton over to Superior Court for trial.

After a three-year, self-imposed exile in Cuba, Newton returned to face the murder charge and an unrelated assault charge involving the pistol whipping of a tailor. Newton remains free on $80,000 bail.

Say Watson refuses grand jury summons

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former County Assessor Philip Watson has refused an invitation by the county Grand Jury to appear at a three-day hearing into his activities, a Los Angeles newspaper reported today.

Watson's attorney, Douglas Dalton, said his client declined the offer due to orders from a physician. Watson, 52, retired on disability following heart surgery in February.

The paper also reported that a grand jury investigation would focus on Watson's allegedly improper assessments and use of county employes.

The investigation will include Watson's alleged use of county employes for his 1972 propertytax limitation initiative and for a $250-a-player golf tournament that raised funds for his successful 1974 re-election campaign, the newspaper said.

It added that assessments of a commercial building owned by a major campaign contributor and of an apartment complex in which Watson reportedly had an interest would also be studied.

The attorney said Watson wanted to present his side to the grand jury without accepting its offer to appear personally — an invitation that is normally extended to people who are being investigated.

Forty witnesses have been subpoenaed for the hearings, which were scheduled to begin today. Among them were six former Watson employes and acting Assessor Gerald Miller.

KTTV strike may halt top shows

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A strike by KTTV newsroom workers has created uncertainty over production schedules for six network television series taped at studios owned by the television station's parent company, Metromedia Inc.

More than 200 engineers involved with the shows are members of the union representing the newsroom workers, and it was unknown how many would honor picket lines put up Monday by the striking newsroom workers.

Episodes of the Norman Lear productions "The Jeffersons," "Maude," "Good Times," "All in the Family" and "One Day at a Time," as well as the James Komack productions of "Sugartime" and "Another Day" were to be taped at the studio this week.

Spokesmen for both producers said it was not immediately certain whether the scheduled tapings would be affected.

Conrad Holzgang, executive in charge of production for the Komack Co., said he expected supervisory personnel could fill in gaps.

Eighteen KTTV employes, including producers, writers, assignment editors and directors, walked off the job Monday, said Doug Culver, a producer and spokesman for the National Association of Broadcast Employes and Technicians Local 53.

Chowchilla kidnap case opens today

OAKLAND (AP) — The Chowchilla kidnapping trial opens today with the testimony of a school bus driver who became a hero during a stranger-than-fiction case of mass abduction.

Ed Ray, repeatedly honored since he and 26 children escaped from an underground tomb, was scheduled as the lead-off witness against their three admitted kidnappers.

Eight of the kidnapped children were also to appear — confronting their abductors for the first time since July of 1976.

The issue of the trial is not who kidnapped Ray and children. The three men on trial — Fred Woods, 26, James Schoenfeld, 26, and Richard Schoenfeld, 24 — have pleaded guilty to the kidnapping.

The question to be resolved is whether the victims suffered "bodily harm" at the hands of their abductors.

Simple kidnap carries a life sentence with eligibility for parole in seven years. But "kidnapping with bodily harm" carries a mandatory life term without the possibility of parole.

The defense, aware that children will be the star witnesses, has chosen a trial by judge rather than a jury which might be swayed by sympathy for the youngsters.

The defendants claim that not only were the children unharmed, but there was never any intention to harm them.

"This was really something that came up as a fluke that was perpetrated by three not too brilliant men," public defender Lester Jendron has said.

He and other defense attorneys are expected to note that the kidnappers provided matresses, food and ventilation in the buried moving van which held Ray and the children.

District Attorney David Minier, who came here from Madera County to prosecute, admits it's an unusual case in which to prove bodily harm. No one was shot or stabbed, and only Ray and four children came back with cuts and bruises.

Minier claims there was a greater harm — "The terror, fear, heat and discomfort of confinement."

The children will be asked to describe again the day of July 15, 1976, which became a nightmare for them.

It was that afternoon, as Ray drove the children home from summer school, that their bus was hijacked by three masked men. Ray and the children were herded into vans, taken to a gravel quarry and buried in their bizarre tomb.

After 16 hours, the childen and bus driver escaped, digging their way out. They were brought home, shivering and bewildered, to the glare of national publicity which had focused on the strange kidnapping.

Within two weeks, the Schoenfelds and Woods, products of priviledged middle-class backgrounds, were in custody.

Kid porn hearings cite Constitution

SAN DIEGO (AP) - The publisher of the legally embroiled Hustler magazine says laws against child pornography should focus on those actually responsible for posing children in sexually explicit photographs.

Larry Flynt told an Assembly Criminal Justice Committee hearing here Monday that to prosecute those who publish or distribute such material is an infringement on freedom of the press.

Flynt, 34, is currently appealing an obscenity conviction and a 25-year prison sentence in Ohio in connection with his own sexually explicit publication.

During an hour of testimony Flynt argued that child pornography is but a mirror that reflects deeper social problems which he said must be addressed first.

Committee members disagreed, saying that freedom of the press is not at stake.

"Aren't these activities being conducted specifically for the photography?" Asked Assemblyman Mel Levine, D-Los Angeles. "Isn't that encouragement or creation of conduct for the purpose of commercialization rather than coverage or reportage?"

Flynt, who was invited to testify by Committee Chairman Ken Maddy of Fresno, said that while a bank robbery is illegal, printing pictures of the event is not.

Levine rejected that analogy, saying that acts depicted in child pornography are "conduct that is expressly for the purpose of commercialization of it."

Flynt was undaunted and when asked if pictures in a magazine entitled "Lollitots" were pornographic, said "Yes. Are they obscene? Personally, yes. But should they have the right to be published? Of course."

Flynt has made an offer to Congress—as yet unaccepted— to use Hustler's profits, which he says total about $20 million a year, to underwrite a revival of the Presidential Commission on Obscenity and Pornography.

Justice is blind; not jurors

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Three blind people seeking a court order against the county for its past practice of excluding blind persons from jury duty have been sent to state court by a federal judge.

In refusing to grant the request to make new selection procedures allowing blind persons to serve on county juries retroactive for all of 1977, U.S. District Court Judge Warren Ferguson said Monday the suit should have been filed in state court.

"You're first going to have to wait to see what the state courts think about this," Ferguson told plaintiffs Mitchell Pomerantz, Maureen Soucy and Bert Hayner. Their attorney, Stanley Fleischman, said he would re-file the suit in state court.

However, Ferguson will hear arguments in the same plaintiffs' related suit against the county for $50,000 damages each.

Since the suit was filed Sept. 16, the county has amended its selection process to make blind people eligible for jury duty.

Cop's murder trial to jury

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Nine men and three women jurors began deliverating today in the trial of a retired San Gabriel policeman accused of kidnaping and murdering a teen-age gang member.

Superior Court Judge William B. Keene ordered the jury sequestered for the night Monday after giving them final instructions for considering their verdict in the three-week-old trial of 33-year-old Billy Joe McIlvain.

The former officer is accused of kidnaping and murder in the shooting death of David Dominguez, 18, a member of a gang that had harassed McIlvain.

Dominguez was killed inside McIlvain's home Feb. 28 after police beseiged the building.

McIlvain initially told police that he had had a long-running feud with Dominguez' gang, called "Sangra," and that Dominguez had kidnaped him at gunpoint and made the former officer drive him to the home.

McIlvain claimed that when the teen-ager's attention was diverted, he pulled a pistol from his boot and shot him.

Younger has tigress by tail

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Women activists contend state Attorney General Evelle Younger's proposal to rotate the post of state chief justice among all Supreme Court members is aimed at diluting the power of women — specifically Chief Justice Rose Ann Bird.

"If he were truly concerned by the accumulation of power in one individual, why did he not propose rotating the chief justice's position when it was held by a man," asked Gloria Allred, spokeswoman for the National Organization for Women.

Ms. Allred held a news conference Monday on the steps of the former home of Clara Shortridge Foltz, first woman lawyer admitted to the California bar in 1879.

Under Younger's plan, announced last week in Sacramento, the state's seven Supreme Court justices would continue to be appointed to virtual life terms, but the chief justiceship would rotate between them.

A chief justice now serves a 12-year term but cannot be opposed on the ballot when the term expires.

Pot smoker driver arrests jump

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The California Department of Justice says that one out of four persons stopped for erratic driving in a special sampling had been smoking marijuana.

Victor Reeve, manager of the department's Central Resources Unit, said Monday the sampling was taken in April, May and June as part of the first study of its kind in the nation.

The results were in the second quarterly report of the study.

Marijuana use was up slightly since the first quarterly report. Officials said the figures are conservative and will probably climb higher.

Reeve said one test was aimed at determining the presence of up to 0.1 percent of tetrahydrocannabinol (THC) in the blood. In this test of 376 motorists stopped for driving erratically, 27.6 percent had up to 0.1 percent in their blood of the chemical in marijuana that impairs a person's functions. The first-quarter percentage was 26.4.

Another test was set up to determine the presence of more than 0.1 percent of that chemical in the blood. Reeve said of the 360 erratic drivers in that sampling, 18.8 percent had levels above 0.1 per cent. The first-quarter figure was 16.1 percent.

He said the tests were taken mostly on state highways in outlying areas. None was taken on city streets or freeways.

The study was initiated after a 1976 law reduced the penalties for possessing an ounce or less of marijuana to a maximum $100 fine, traffic-ticket style offense.

Mexican-Americans decry UC admissions

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The University of California's recent decision to weigh test scores more heavily in deciding whether to admit marginal students has been sharply criticized by two prominent Spanish-surnamed officials.

"To continue to rely on tests which have not been proven adequate indicators of success rates is a gross irresponsibility on the part of the regents," Assemblyman Art Torres, D-Los Angeles, told a news conference Monday.

Torres and Los Angeles school board member Dr. Julian Nava, a university professor, said they are trying to organize a coalition to protest changes in the admission policy adopted earlier this month.

Torres said standardized tests have not adequately predicted the success rate of minority college students. He claimed such students have often performed better into college than test norms would have indicated.

"We're not opposed to testing per se," Torres said after the news conference. "We're just suggesting that the types of tests are not necessarily applicable."

A UC Board of Regents' study concedes the changes will tend to weed out a larger percentage of minority students with high school averages just barely above university minimums.

The study showed that 16.2 percent fewer Mexican-American freshmen, 8.8 percent fewer black freshmen and 2 percent fewer white students would be admitted under the new standards.

The policy, which takes effect in 1979, is based on a complex formula which would give added weight to standardized national test scores of students whose grade point averages are betwen 3.0 and 3.1, said UCLA spokesman Chandler Harris.

Investiture of heir to Spanish throne postponed

COVADONGA, Spain (AP) — The investiture of King Juan Carlos' 9-year-old son with the title traditionally held by the heir to the Spanish throne was postponed by political objections at the last minute today, and instead young Prince Felipe de Borbon formally "accepted" the title of Prince of Asturias.

Socialist and Communist members of the Cortes, the Spanish parliament, boycotted the simple religious ceremony in the northwest Spanish province of Oviedo, the seat of the 9th and 10th century Asturian kingdom.

Unofficial sources said leftist members of the Cortes from Asturias and some monarchists felt the investiture was a constitutional act and therefore should be delayed until after approval of the new democratic constitution.

The constitution is now being written by the Cortes to replace the charter promulgated by the Franco dictatorship. It probably will not be approved until next year at the earliest.

The leftists also objected because the delegation of Asturian officials who asked that the young prince be given the title were holdovers from the Franco regime.

Political sources said the change in the ceremony in no way affected Felipe's status as his father's heir. They said the delay in his investiture was a technicality oniy.

However, monarchists said earlier the official recognition of the child prince as heir to the five-century-old Spanish throne would help to head off any challenge to the future King Philip VI's succession by the rival Carlist branch of the Spanish Bourbon dynasty, which fought a series of wars from 1833 to 1876 but failed to get the crown, or by members of his own branch of the Bourbons.

The Carlists have not been a serious threat since dictator Francisco Franco designated Juan Carlos in 1969 to become king after his death. But the investiture became a matter of some urgency because of two attempts to kill the 39-year-old king in the last two months.

The title of Prince of Asturias, equivalent to Britain's Prince of Wales, was never given to Juan Carlos. The last Prince of Asturias was his uncle Alfonso, the oldest son of King Alfonso XIII, who renounced his right to the throne because he was a hemophiliac.

King Alfonso was deposed in 1931 and Spain became a republic. Franco changed it back to a monarchy in 1947, eight years after his victory in the civil war, but named himself chief of state and left the throne vacant until his death in 1975.

Under the 1947 Law of Succession, Felipe cannot succeed to the throne until he is 31, and if Juan Carlos dies before then a regency council will rule. Spain's new parliament is to rewrite Franco's constitution, but it is not expected to revise the Law of Succession.

Palace aides say Felipe is aware of his royal role but more interested in zipping around the palace grounds outside Madrid on his motorbike.

The king, who often rides a motorcycle alongside his son, had the horsepower of his son's trail bike cut down for safety.

National security, 'career' cited in treatment of Helms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government says national security and concern for a "distinguished career" were factors in allowing former CIA director Richard M. Helms to plead no contest to charges of failing to testify fully about CIA activities in Chile.

The Justice Department, with President Carter's concurrence, cited Helms' "outstanding services" Monday in asking a federal judge to impose the minimum $200 fine and suspend any jail sentence on two misdemeanor charges.

Helms, 64, entered the plea to charges stemming from 1973 testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which was holding hearings on his nomination to be U.S. ambassador to Iran.

RICHARD HELMS

The nomination by then-President Richard M. Nixon was subsequently confirmed by the Senate.

Assistant Attorney General Benjamin R. Civiletti said he expected Helms to be sentenced soon, perhaps as early as today.

The plea bargaining arrangement drew an immediate protest from Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, who presided over a Senate subcommittee investigation into clandestine U.S. involvement in Chilean domestic politics.

"I thought there was to be an end to the double standard of justice for the big shots," Church said. "Apparently, Helms was just too hot to handle."

Watergate burglar held in threat on witness

NEW YORK (AP) — Convicted Watergate burglar Frank Sturgis has been arrested for allegedly threatening a witness who gave a House of Representatives committee details of Sturgis' relationship with Lee Harvey Oswald, police report.

Oswald was the assassin of President John F. Kennedy, according to the Warren Commission, which investigated the assassination.

Police said Sturgis, 52,of Miami, was seized at 11:30 p.m. Monday in the Manhattan apartment of Marita Lorenz, former undercover agent for the FBI and CIA and onetime lover of Cuban President Fidel Castro.

On Miss Lorenz' complaint, police charged Sturgis with aggravated harassment and coercion. They said he applied coercion "instilling fear on the complainant to refrain from testifying before a legally constituted authority.

Miss Lorenz was interviewed Saturday by Gaeton Fonzi and A. Gonzales, investigators from the House Committee on Assassinations, about a trip she says she took with Oswald, Sturgis and four Cubans in a car from Miami to Dallas a few days before Kennedy's death.

She told Fonzi and Gonzales that her companions were members of Operation 40, a 30-member guerrilla organization originally formed by the CIA in 1960 to prepare for the invasion of Cuba.

Sturgis, who has admitted he took part in Operation 40, has denied he made the trip with Miss Lorenz.

Police said Sturgis somehow heard about Miss Lorenz' session with the committee representatives and flew to New York. Police said some of the threats were telephoned.

Sturgis was to be arraigned today in Manhattan Criminal Court.

Boy runs to meet mom, run over by her car

A young Pomona child, running to meet his mother, was run over by the small sedan she was driving Monday afternoon, police reported.

The accident occurred in the driveway of the family's home at 1981 Titus Ave.

The victim's mother, Darlene Romero, 21, told police that she had driven into the driveway and stopped when she realized she had parked too close to the garage door. She said that when she backed up the car, she felt it run over something and found it had been her son, Frank.

The 5-year-old victim was taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital, suffering possible internal injuries. He was reported in fair condition today in the intensive-care unit.

'Proof' coffee crisis contrived

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spiraling U.S. coffee prices in recent years can be attributed in part to supply and price manipulations by coffee exporting countries, congressional investigators say.

The Government Accounting Office, an arm of Congress, issued a 91-page report concluding that "the producing countries have been directed by their perception of their own best interests" in setting export prices and controlling inventories.

The GAO report was released Monday by Rep. Frederick W. Richmond, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Agriculture subcommittee on domestic marketing, consumer relations and nutrition.

Richmond said the report "proves that the 'Great Coffee Crisis' was contrived by the coffee-producing nations to maintain artificially high prices so that they could pay off their enormous petroleum bills."

The GAO report also said the worried reactions of importers, retailers and consumers to news of a possible shortage contributed to rising coffee prices, which at one time approached $4.50 a pound on grocery store shelves.

Richmond said the State Department went along with the dramatic increase in coffee prices in the last two years by negotiating a 1976 International Coffee Agreement with a price floor to cover foreign farmers' costs, but no ceiling to protect consumers.

Coffee prices rose 114 per cent after the pact was signed a year ago, but they plummeted at the import level this spring.

Richmond also accused the major U.S. coffee roasters of not passing on the recent lower import coffee prices to retailers and, eventually, to consumers.

He said the retail price for coffee should be about $2.85 a pound now.

Man found beaten and stabbed at boys club

An unidentified Latin man, possibly an illegal alien, was severely beaten and stabbed 20 times behind the Boys Club at Ferron Street and Turner Avenue in Old Northtown, Cucamonga, Monday night sheriff's deputies reported.

West End deputies said that a woman called the station about 9:15 p.m. to report that a man was injured behind the club.

When deputies arrived minutes later, they found the victim, about 25 to 30 years of age, 5 feet 6, 145 pounds wearing dark blue pants and a blue western-style shirt, severely injured in a pool of blood.

Deputies said it appeared the man had been brutally beaten about the head with large chunks of asphalt and stabbed numerous times in the back and stomach.

The victim was rushed to San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland where deputies said he was in very critical condition.

Deputies believe the victim was attacked by several men and possibly robbed about 9 p.m. Deputies said the man had no wallet or money on him when he was found.

Pair sought in market robbery

Ontario police are seeking two men, one wearing a sheet over his head, who robbed the Stop n Go market at Eighth Street and Baker Avenue in Ontario of a small amount of cash Monday evening.

Police said the two men entered the store about 6:30 p.m. and pulled a revolver on the woman clerk, demanding money from the cash register.

Trick instead of treat as apple has pin inside

An Alta Loma mother reported to West End Sheriff's deputies that her children had received an apple with a pin hidden inside while trick-or-treating Halloween night.

Upland city crews this morning were busy cleaning up the Madonna on the Trail statue that had become the victim of trick-or-treaters who placed a pumpkin over the mother's head and a cape about her shoulders.

Chino police were a bit concerned Halloween night when residents in the downtown area of the city reported that a group of men dressed in Ku Klux Klan outfits were blockading the roads.

A number of police units immediately went to the area and after questioning the suspected Klansmen, found out they were trick-or-treaters playing a prank.

In Montclair police were dispatched to Monte Vista Avenue where a man was reported down and seriously injured in the roadway. When officers arrived, the "body" was quickly stuffed in the car and transported to the station.

The body proved to be a man-sized dummy trick-or-treaters had thrown into the street.

Other West End residents reported a series of Halloween pranks, including a patio chair set on fire, a pumpkin's carrot nose stolen and eggs thrown.

Hitler had son, historian claims

LONDON (AP) — Did Adolf Hitler have a son?

The Sunday Times of London quotes Dr. Werner Maser, 55, a respected historian of the Nazi era, as saying Hitler's son is a 59-year-old Frenchman named Jean Lorret.

Maser says he has known for 12 years that Hitler had a son, located Lorret two years ago and has been working since then to authenticate that he is Hitler's son.

The newspaper said Lorret is seriously ill and willing to talk about his parentage.

According to the Times report, Hitler met Lorret's mother in 1918 while serving in World War I. The boy was given her name and not told of his father's identity until 1952 when his mother was dying.

Car goes over freeway embankment; five hurt

Five persons were injured Monday night when a car came off an onramp of the Orange Freeway from Temple Avenue in west Pomona and went down a 40-foot embankment before crashing into a second car on the freeway, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Injured in the first car were Bernard Daniel Bollinge, 17, Glendora, and a passenger, David Allen Mack, 16, Glendora.

Injured in the second vehicle were Orien Joy Pagan, 39, 23814 Diamond Bar Blvd., Diamond Bar; Jan Hoffman, 40, and Kathy Hoffman, 22, both of 23819 Twin Pines Ave., Diamond Bar.

Two Pomona gas stations robbed

Two Pomona service station attendants were robbed in separate holdups Monday by robbers of similar descriptions.

The first incident was at Robin Oil at 1207 E. Mission Blvd. where the attendant told police Monday afternoon that he surrendered cash to a man armed with a jagged-edged knife. The second holdup occurred several hours later at the Union Oil station nearby at 1200 E. Mission Blvd. The victim, a 32-year-old man, told police he also was robbed by a man armed with a knife.

Motorcyclist injured in crash

A 19-year-old Fullerton man was listed in stable condition today with head injuries at Chino General Hospital after he lost control of his motorcycle while going west on Carbon Canyon Road near Ginseng Lane and crashed Monday night.

California Highway Patrol officers aid the motorcyclist, Dean Patrick Hoebel, was admitted to the Chino hospital shortly after the 5:50 p.m. accident.

Patrolmen said the man apparently lost control of his motorcycle when it came over a hill on the curving road.

The bike went airborne and crashed into a dirt embankment.

Seek rape suspect kin

Claremont police today revealed that they are looking for the brother of a rape suspect they arrested Sunday in connection with the attacks on two Pitzer College coeds Oct. 23.

The man they wish to interview was identified by Detective Ted Kamena as Danny Apodaca, 24. Apodaca's brother, Jesse, 29, was arrested Sunday afternoon at El Barrio Park in Claremont.

Police were issued warrants for the brothers' arrest by Pomona Municipal Court Judge Robert Gustaveson. Bail was set at $25,000 each.

The warrants named the men as suspects in the kidnapping, robbery and rape of the two 18-year-old students.

Faulty lamp plug blamed in fire

Los Angeles County firemen today blamed a $27,000 house fire in Diamond Bar on a faulty lamp plug.

The fire, at 21295 Gerndal Ave., damaged mainly the bedroom containing the lamp. The blaze, which was put out by one engine company, broke out shortly before noon.

Rather sit in Mexican jail than have record in U.S.

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Lance English says he'd rather sit in his Mexican jail cell than spend Dec. 25 with his family in Austin if the U.S. government is going to give him 2½ years of federal probation for a Christmas present.

"I only have 11 more months to go over here with the time I get off for good behavior," said English, 29. "It'd be stupid for me to go back to the States if I've got to be on probation for 2½ years and have a record."

English, who received a five-year, nine-month sentence for marijuana possession, has spent the last four months in the Mexican jail just across the Rio Grande from this border city. He is one of 26 American prisoners in the Matamoros jail awaiting implementation of the prisoner exchange treaty.

"The U.S. officials have told us that we would probably be home for Christmas and that may sound good, but there are still a lot of unanswered questions," said English, interviewed by telephone Monday. "Nobody's told us whether we'd have a record in the States. If that's the case, I'd be better off staying over here."

The U.S. magistrate in Brownsville, William Mallet, said Monday: "As I understand it, the prisoner will have no record in the United States unless he already has one. The Mexican convictions will not be added to their record."

Mallet added he will go to the Matamoros jail on Dec. 12 and 13 and preside over hearings at the Monterrey prison on Dec. 14.

The American prisoners must be brought before a magistrate and verbally agree with the provisions of the treaty before an exchange can be made.

One provison disallows any appeal of a prisoner's sentence in U.S. courts. A prisoner must appeal in the country where he was sentenced under the treaty guidelines.

Terrell English, Lance's father, said in Austin: "It's cost the family about $10,000 since Lance was put in jail over there. If he can come home by Christmas, that's fine; but if he can stay and not have a record, then that's even better. I'm sure he'll do what he thinks is best."

Death unveils drug lab

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police say they have uncovered an illegal PCP laboratory after a man apparently died from fumes that escaped while manufacturing the hallucinogenic drug.

Charles Thomas, 42, of Los Angeles, was pronounced dead at Broadway Community Hospital Sunday. Lt. Fred Reno said Monday that 35-year-old Charles Thurmond of Los Angeles had taken Thomas to the hospital after finding him slumped over a box in the garage laboratory.

Police have reported finding PCP crystals in the garage with a street sale value of about $50,000.

Thurmond has been booked for investigation of possessing PCP.

DISCO HALLOWEEN — Halloween revelers at New York's Studio 54 dance the night away Monday night in costumes ranging from burlesque to stellar.

No tricks, some treats in VIP land

WASHINGTON (AP) — No tricks. No treats. Not even peanuts at the White House this year. Halloween on Pennsylvania Avenue was a bummer.

That's what five tots discovered Monday night on a Halloween tour of who's who in the nation's capital.

Disguised as a bunny, a witch, a cowboy, a soldier and Groucho Marx, they arrived at the White House gates howling, "Trick or treat."

"Sorry, we don't have anything," said one of the guards.

Undaunted, they kept on trickin' to Washington's best addresses.

Former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger wasn't home. Neither was Jackie Kennedy Onassis' mother, Mrs. Hugh Auchincloss, though a light was on in the servant's quarters.

The grand old diplomat, Averell Harriman, had a maid handing out dimes. And Lynda Johnson Robb, whose father used to be president, was pushing raisins.

At the CIA, only real-life spooks could get through the gates.

And at the Iranian embassy, home of caviar and champagne served by white-gloved butlers, there were no treats this year.

"This is a government building," the official greeter said.

The kids' five-star pumpkin award went to Ethel Kennedy, who lives on an estate called Hickory Hill in McLean, Va.

In her front yard, where the late Sen. Robert Kennedy used to play touch football with his brood, a straw witch riding a broom dangled from a tree.

Inside, where fireplaces on either side of the hallway were burning, two maids presided over a table filled with mugs of cider and a dozen kinds of candy.

Down the road, nobody answered the door at Sen. Edward Kennedy's home until the cowboy yelled, "Trick or treat, smell my feet." His reward: peanut crunch.

Across the Potomac River in Washington's exclusive Georgetown section, a uniformed maid at the home of Washington Post publisher Katharine Graham handed out chocolates and hard candy.

A woman in a blue jogging outfit offered apples and candy at the castle-like home of reporter Bob Woodward, who helped make Watergate a household word.

Several blocks away, the heir to the Reynolds tobacco fortune, Smith Bagley, lives in a hotel-size house with a tennis court in the back yard. When the doorbell rang, a woman answered holding a silver tray piled high with candy.

Standing in the glow of a giant crystal chandelier, she offered the tray to the trick-or-treaters, cautioning, "Only one lollypop each."

COME UP EMPTY — A White House guard offers some conversation but no treats outside the White House Monday night as he turns away trick-or-treaters. The youngsters visited other well known Washington addresses during their Halloween travel.

700 pounds of pot is seized

CANOGA PARK (AP) — Police say they have arrested five persons at a motel and confiscated some 700 pounds of Kansas marijuana having an estimated street value of $65,000.

The raid Monday night at the Desoto Motel followed the purchase of 155 pounds of marijuana by undercover officers who paid three men and two women $2,700, police said.

The five have been booked for investigation of possessing marijuana for sale.

Only one — Jimmy Burgett, 32 — has been identified by police. Burgett, whose address was unknown, was also being held on an eight-year-old felony warrant accusing him of selling dangerous drugs and receiving stolen property.

Mt. SAC astronomy students

Wizards building marvels

Designing original circuitry for laser light concerts and building the largest refracting telescope in the world are not every-day projects for the students of astronomy at Mt. San Antonio College (MSAC).

But the MSAC planetarium has proven to be a fertile training environment for students. And three of the program's graduates have gained such proficiency in these areas that they are far beyond many experts and professionals with dozens of years in the field, college officials claim.

The three are Jeff Schroeder, Pomona, Bill Cameron, Covina and Mike Wandtke, Pomona. They started their training as seating guides for the planetarium's Friday programs.

Schroeder began his work on the refracting telescope three years ago. Two years were spent designing then constructing the metal parts of the 11-inch, 1,100-pound instrument in the college's industrial technology lab. The third year, he ground the delicate lenses.

The final assembly stands 16-feet tall. The largest of its kind ever built by an amateur, the telescope and Schroeder received national publicity in "Sky and Telescope" when the project Was completed last summer.

During the recent solar eclipse, Schroeder trailered the telescope to the campus so students and staff could view the phenomenon.

Planetarium director Ronald N. Hartman said, "Jeff is quite ready to work in a planetarium at the technical level to develop programs, and under the director's guidance to give shows."

Cameron and Wandtke have been working during the same period on the perfection of laser circuitry that allows precision manipulation of the beam.

Using optical materials to draw the laser light patterns, they have choreographed electronic music with the patterns for the current planetarium program, Isasc Asimov's "The Last Question," and have developed a number of other concerts for general use.

Cameron said, "Our first materials were very crude and the scanners did not give us the repeatibility we were after. We have just recently located a company which makes scanners with all kinds of patterns. This will give us more control over the laser beam and more versatility in our laser light concert programs."

Hartman said, "Bill and Mike have done more research and actual development in this area than almost anyone else in the country. Their technology is outstanding."

In addition to developing laser technology which integrates art, music and science for both planetarium programming and for concerts, Cameron and Wandtke are moving into the techniques of holography to use for special effects. The team has been using Wandtke's laser instrument.

For "The Last Question," Schroeder designed and produced all the art work, "jumping head-long into the use of the air brush for the first time," Hartman said. His design for the futuristic city in "The Last Question" is one of the highlights of the show.

All three students have been giving demonstrations to both school children and Friday evening planetarium audiences on the planetarium instrumentation.

Schroeder, who earned a machine tool technology degree from MSAC, recently completed his bachelor's degree at Cal Poly Pomona. Cameron is also a B.S. graduate of Cal Poly. Wandtke earned his B.S. from Cal State Fullerton.

YMCA names two staffers

The Pomona Valley YMCA has added two new people to its staff. They are Margaret Soto, hired as director of volunteers and program assistant, and Willie Redmon, hired as director of resources for the outreach program.

WILLIE REDMON

Mrs. Soto has lived in the valley for 15 years. She attended Mt. San Antonio College and studied psychology and sociology.

She is the mother of three. Her eldest soon will be graduated from the Marine Corps training school in San Diego.

She formerly was employed by Los Angeles County Probation Department where for more than six years she developed youth programs.

Redmon is a 1968 graduate of USC with a degree in psychology and physical education. He coached and taught in LaJunta, Colo., two years, and later served four years in the Air Force.

Later he moved to California and did graduate work at Cal State Los Angeles in psychology.

Currently Redmon is attending law school in West Covina. He and his wife, Anita, and their three sons moved to Pomona a year ago.

Push night hours for DMV

Many California motorists want the Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV) to provide evening and Saturday service at local offices, automatically extend the driving privilege of people with good driving records, and issue driver's licenses good for 8 or 12-year terms.

Those preferences are suggested by the results of a scientific survey conducted for DMV by an independent polling firm, Field Research Corp., between Aug. 13 and 23, and released recently.

The company's "Fieldscope" survey polled 1,100 randomly selected adults, aged 18 or over, in personal in-home interviews on four questions about the department's service schedules and driver's license issuance program.

Saturday service in DMV's 147 local field offices was preferred by 21.4 pcent of those polled, with 74.1 percent satisfied with weekdays only, and 4.5 percent either not answering or having no DMV business to conduct. The strongest preference for Saturday service came from persons 25 to 29 years old, while persons 50 years of age or over generally believed any weekday was acceptable.

Fieldscope's survey results also showed 42.6 percent would like local department offices to be open after 5 p.m., with most wanting to conduct their DMV business between 5 and 7 p.m.

Monday-through-Friday office hours from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. were preferred by 46.5 percent. About 10.3 percent wanted field offices open at 7 a.m., with the remaining persons not reporting.

DMV is preparing to change public service schedules under the provisions of Assembly Bill 940, according to Motor Vehicles Chief Deputy Director Charles Ericksen.

Recycling benefits Bogota student

BILL THOMASON, STUDENTS AND RECYCLED TRASH

Eighty-six students in three fifth and sixth grade classes (Unit 4) at Condit School in Claremont have raised $800 in five weeks to help support a South American youth "adopted" by the Unit 4 students eight years ago.

Under the program, the youngsters in the classes collect returnable bottles, aluminum cans, newspapers and cash for the 14-year-old boy, Jiro Castro of Bogota, Colombia.

For the past six years, the unit has sent a cash donation at Christmas to the youth. Amounts have varied from $200 to $750 in the past. This year's gifts will mark a new high.

Teachers involved in the project this year are Bill Thomason, Mrs. Devon Lingenfelter and Mrs. Margo Estes. The school principal is Lee Bashore.

The boy, one of a family of 10, has kept the teachers aware of what the money has been used for through the years. He sends an annual progress report, with a picture, to the school. According to the reports, the money has been used for books, clothing, tuition and a two-story home.

Helping the students with refunds this year are Stater Bros Market, Indian Hill and Foothill boulevards, Claremont, which accepted $200 worth of bottles; Isaac and Sons, Ontario, accepted aluminum cans; and Recycling Resources of Pomona, accepted newspapers.

Bingo boggles balloting

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

The Pomona City Council has voted 3 to 1, with one abstention, to change its tax of 10 percent on gross receipts of bingo operators to 1 percent up to $50,000, 5 percent between $50,000 and $100,000, and 10 percent for over $100,000, effectively immediately.

The council, however, Monday night took a long time getting to that decision, which was the recommendation of City Clerk Larry Thomas.

Councilwoman Georgia Grove started the discussion by suggesting that the city stay at 10 percent.

Councilman Adrian Wright said he believed 10 percent is too much. "The guys I want to get are making the big money," he said.

Mrs. Grove moved to receive and file Thomas' recommendation, which would have left the tax at 10 percent. But no one would second her motion.

Wright then moved that the tax be 5 percent up to $50,000, 10 percent between $50,000 and $100,000, and 15 percent over $100,000. Councilman G. Stanton Selby seconded the motion, which deadlocked, with that pair voting yes and Mrs. Grove and Mayor Charles Bader voting no. Councilman Benjamin Ochoa who abstained said, "You got yourselves into this."

Selby then moved that the tax rate be changed to 5 percent up to $50,000, and 10 percent above that figure.

Wright seconded the motion, and it passed, 3-1 with Bader voting no, and Ochoa again abstaining.

About half an hour later, Wright asked that the discussion be reopened. The council agreed.

Wright said that he thought the 5 percent tax would be too high for the small organizations, and moved that the council accept Thomas' recommendation of 1, 5, and 10 percent.

Mrs. Grove voted no, and Ochoa abstained.

The council instructed the city clerk to begin immediately collecting the tax on the newly agreed basis.

Attacks 'Gypsy' cabbies

A campaign to rid the valley of "gypsy cabbies" which operate illegally and overcharge the public has been launched by Los Angeles County Supervisor Pete Schabarum.

The supervisor asked Sheriff Peter Pitchess for strict enforcement of the county's tax licensing ordinance.

Schabarum said he was concerned that the stepped-up enforcement of the taxi ordinance by the city of Los Angeles is driving unauthorized taxicabs into the unincorporated areas, including the valley.

Los Angeles County presently licenses more than 30 taxi operators and several applications are still pending.

1,000 Kaiser Hospital workers walk out

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

More than 1,000 non-medical employees of the Kaiser Medical Center in Fontana and 70 employees in three area clinics went on strike at 12:01 a.m. today.

Clinics involved are in Ontario, where 25 workers are on strike; in San Bernardino, with 20 employees; and in Riverside, where another 25 workers are on strike.

A hospital spokesman said this morning that both the hospital and clinics are open and operating normally.

"We're filling in with other people," said Bonnie Miller, the spokesman for Kaiser Permanente facilities.

She said all patients should keep their scheduled appointments unless otherwise notified.

Negotiations between striking employees, members of United Steelworkers Local 7600, continued until midnight in an effort to solve the stalemate before contract expiration, she said. Workers began leaving their posts before negotiators stopped talking.

Striking employs are licens vocational nurses and clerical, maintenance and dietary workers. Dispute is over economic issues, according to Miss Martin.

Negotiations had been conducted regularly since September in an attempt to avoid the strike.

This is the second strike to hit Kaiser in three months. Aug. 11, registered nurses at the Fontana medical center, the three clinics and three other medical centers in the Los Angeles area went on strike over wages and working conditions.

The earlier strike was resolved almost a month later when the registered nurses return to work after they received most of their demands.

As of this morning, negotiations in the present strike have been discontinued.

"No date has been set for the next meeting," reported Miss Martin this morning.

Smoking cited as fire cause

A discarded cigarette is blamed for a $3,000 fire at the home of Mike Hall, 618 Maryport Ave., San Dimas, late Monday afternoon.

The fire was reported at 5:23 p.m. in the attached garage of the home. The garage has been converted into a bedroom.

A son of the occupants said he had been smoking in the room about three hours before the fire was discovered. The fire started in a bed.

Damage was listed by county fire officials as $2,500 to the structure and $500 to contents.

Piedmont Mesa annexation on ballot

Residents of Piedmont Mesa, the area of 260 single-family homes bound by Williams Avenue, Base Line Road and Oak Creek Wash, will vote Nov. 8 on annexation to the city of Claremont.

Latest figures show that 548 registered voters are qualified to vote at 4013 Las Casas Ave. Annexation to the city requires a simple majority of the votes cast.

One of the major reasons advanced by supporters of the annexation is that annexing to the city will make it possible to join the sewer district in a subsequent action.

Donald King, planning director, said the area now in Los Angeles County is constructed with septic tanks for each home.

"The soil in the area is not conducive to the use of septic tanks and, as a result, many homeowners are having these tanks pumped at least once a year," King said. He estimated the cost of each pumping as "around $135."

King said a sewer is available on Garey Avenue but Piedmont Mesa resident cannot apply to join the sewer district until the area is a part of the city.

Proponents of the annexation also say that becoming a part of Claremont would permit the residents more control over the future development of a former school site which is adjacent to the area.

At present, the county has jurisdiction over the development of this site.

Fire protection would not change since both Claremont and the county area are covered by the Los Angeles County Fire Department.

Police protection, now offered by the San Dimas sheriff's office, would be provided by Claremont police should the annexation be approved.

The sample ballot sent to voters lists arguments for Annexation 53, as it is identified on the ballot, signed by four residents of the area. There was no argument against annexation filed.

Valley briefs

Water bond debate

Members of the Claremont Kiwanis Club will hear arguments for and against the $26-million Pomona Valley Municipal Water District special bond election when the club meets Thursday noon at Griswold's, Claremont.

The special election is Tuesday.

Speakers will be Stan Kawa, general manager of the water district, favoring the issue, and Ron Teeples, a professor of economics at Claremont Men's College, presenting the negative arguments.

Motorist recuperating

Penny S. Mitchell, the 21-year-old Pomona woman who was injured late Saturday night when the auto she was driving slammed into a parked car and then a parked 40-foot trailer, was reported in fair condition today after surgery for facial and leg injuries at County-USC Medical Center. The accident occurred at Garey Avenue north of Grove Street.

Rout 200 egg throwers

Sheriff's deputies today said they had to sweep through Old Orchard Park in Valinda Monday night to clear it of between 150 and 200 egg-throwing young persons. They said they arrested six persons — two for throwing missiles at moving autos and four for curfew violations. The officers were sent to the park by motorists complaining that they were being egged .

Book woman for arson

A Pomona mother has been arrested by fire officials on charges of arson and attempted murder as a result of a fire in her home late Monday.

Edna Lee Robinson, 30, of 1583 S. Huntington St., is in Pomona Jail today in lieu of $5,000 bail awaiting formal charges by the district attorney's office, according to Fire Inspector Tom Fee.

Mrs. Robinson was arrested two blocks from her home after being spotted by a Pomona police unit.

Fee said Mrs. Robinson is suspected of using matches to start a fire in a bedroom in the home. Asleep in the house at the time of the 10:49 p.m. fire were Mrs. Robinson's mother, Tommy Lee Edwards, and her four children, Benjamin, 10, Patrick, 7, Mario, 3, and Johnny, 2.

According to officials, Mrs. Robinson had argued with neighbors earlier in the evening and had broken three windows in the neighbors' home. Later, one window had been broken in the Robinson house.

Mrs. Robinson reportedly had also been fighting with her mother during the evening.

To better understand how funds collected by the New United Way 1977-78 campaign are distributed and used in the community, volunteers are being taken on tours of the numerous human-care agencies assisted by the annual drive now underway.

As a part of this get-acquainted program, volunteers from Cal Poly Pomona recently visited the Pomona Valley Regional Center of the Crippled Children's Society.

Mrs. Kathryn MacFarland, executive director of the center, told the group of volunteer campaign coordinators from the university how United Way funds assist in providing free services to handicapped children and adults in the valley.

The university is a part of East Zone of Region II of the New United Way. The zone, headed by Richard Schmidt, manager of the Pomona office of the Automobile Club of Southern California, is comprised of Pomona, Claremont, La Verne, San Dimas, Diamond Bar and Walnut.

This year, the campaign of the United Way of Los Angeles County and its partner of several years, the American Red Cross, has expanded to include nine additional health agencies.

The agencies included in the new partnership are the California Division of the American Cancer Society, Southern California Affiliate of American Diabetes Association, Greater Los Angeles Affiliate of American Heart Association, City of Hope, Crippled Children's Society of Los Angeles County, Hospital Charity Fund, Lung Association of Los Angeles County, Mental Health Association in Los Angeles County, and Myasthenia Gravis Foundation, California Chapter.

This expanded campaign affiliation constitutes the largest federated campaign in California and one of the largest in the country.

Region II will continue its campaign for the next three months seeking to reach a goal of $4 million.

Among the local agencies assisted through the United Way are the PTA 10th District Dental Clinic, Visiting Nurse Association of Pomona-West End, Boys Republic, McKinley Home for Boys, Family Service of Pomona Valley, Salvation Army Family Service, Old Baldy Council Boy Scouts of America, Pomona Boys' Club, Mt. San Antonio Council Camp Fire Girls, Spanish Trails Council Girl Scouts, Pomona Valley YMCA, Greater Pomona Valley YWCA, Ontario-Pomona Association for Retarded Citizens, Catholic Big Brothers, Children's Home Society and Legal Aid Society of Pomona Valley.

Vote yes on tri-communities

Voters in the tri-communities area of Alta Loma, Cucamonga and Etiwanda will decide a week from today whether to incorporate into the City of Rancho Cucamonga.

Such a city with a land area of almost 40 square miles and a population of 40,000 within a year, would be one of the state's larger communities.

Tri-communities is an area not unlike many in California and the rest of the nation which is threatened with urban strangulation in a formerly sleepy rural atmosphere. Cityhood would allow local control over almost unchecked subdivision within its boundaries which up to now has been handled by absentee landlords in the form of San Bernardino County supervisors many miles to the east in the nation's largest county.

The issue is not cityhood vs. status quo but is clouded by another group seeking city status for Alta Loma Alone (ALA) as opposed to proponents of Tri-Communities Incorporation (TCI).

Backers of the ALA plan want an entirely suburban community on a smaller scale divorced from Cucamonga and Etiwanda. They are campaigning against the TCI plan in the Nov. 8 election.

After almost two years of planning and hearing by Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO) members, supervisors backed the LAFCO recommendation of TCI's. After much consideration and soul searching, we do, too.

Both groups want local control over growth. Both seek to preserve at least a semi-rural atmosphere in an area which planners and city officials in Fontana, Ontario and Upland have been eyeing covetously for several years as possible annexation fodder.

Weighing arguments on both sides, we believe the TCI program offers a more balanced plan melding residential, business and industry into a viable community and tax base. Alta Loma alone, with almost no industry to share the cost of cityhood, does not offer this, throwing the tax burden onto homeowners and the small amount of commercial property within those boundaries.

We believe this would be an unfair burden for taxpayers in the ALA area. ALA's plan only attacks problems on one relatively small geographical area where the problems are similar in adjacent territory.

TCI's plan attempts to solve such problems on a broader scale in an area where urban sprawl and commercial growth may be engineered and planned for the benefit of all taxpayers under one governmental umbrella.

The Progress Bulletin suggests a yes vote Nov. 8 for the incorporation of Rancho Cucamonga.

Presidential escapism

Leaving domestic problems behind, President Carter will take off late this month for an 11-day tour of eight countries in Africa, Asia and Europe. The American people may well ask: Is this trip necessary?

C. F. Baldwin, a former U.S. ambassador to Malaysia, has said that "The belief that, by scurrying abroad, being greeted by foreign dignitaries, shaking thousands of hands and chatting with a few other heads of state, a president can achieve foreign policy objectives better than remaining in Washington is not only a myth but is below the level of dignity that the people of a great nation should expect from their leader."

Unfortunately, Carter has accepted that myth. No doubt there are compelling personal reasons why he has decided to make this grand tour. The political heat in Washington has been intense.

The most unfortunate aspect of the forthcoming Carter trip is that it reveals a failure to understand that America's principal problems are at home and must be dealt with on the home front.

The struggle over energy legislation is a case in point. The Carter administration hasn't faced up to the need for vastly increased production of energy — oil, gas, coal, and nuclear power — on American territory.

The United States desperately needs leadership at the highest level that understands the importance of internal economic and technological frontiers. It needs leadership that will motivate the American people to strive for higher productivity.

President Carter, alas, is back in the era of global gestures — the world of the 1960s. He may find that his grand tour is a lead balloon insofar as the American people are concerned. They have read about too many presidential tours in which too much has been promised to too many people.

While he is away, the Congress will be at work. He may also discover that his tripping abroad — a form of presidential escapism — will result in an increasing shift of power to Congressional leaders.

Insecurity lessens learning

Dear Editor:

A group of educators in Hawaii recently completed a study of the achievement or lack of it by public school students. These people did rather exhaustive work and explored in depth many factors which might contribute to the end results which they found. Since they, with justification, felt that to blame non-achievement on socio-economic status was too glib and that doing so might very well mask other important and attention-requiring factors, they eliminated the socio-economic factor by an ingenious statistical device known as "pairing." They selected pairs of schools having very similar student performance and in each case matched a school in an area having high income and social status with one from a deprived area, handling the statistical output from these schools essentially as a unit.

Sure enough, once the ubiquitous socio-economic factor was eliminated from prime consideration, several others began to emerge and to clamor for attention. The report was a complex and thorough one and would be a rich hunting ground for educational reformers. There was one factor, however, evident with consistency so absolute that it could be predicted. In high-performance schools characterized by better-than-average student achievement, the teachers uniformly felt that they had the support and backing of their school administration. Just the reverse, in schools where student achievement was below acceptable standards, the teachers uniformly agreed they did not feel supervision and administration were giving them proper support and proper backing. This correlation was so strong as to be irrefutable.

Carrying this thought only a little bit further, it might be considered a certainty that to create any situation during which the administration of a school—any school—and the classroom teachers of this school are out of accord with each other and in which contention and resentment exists is automatically to create an atmosphere in which student achievement will suffer and in all probability fall off.

Simplifying this thought, the biggest loser in any "hassle" between professional teachers and school administration is going to be neither participant in the ill-feeling but a third person: the defenseless student whose welfare the school structure, both administrative and instructional, was designed wholly to serve.

If this is true, and I think it is, both parents and school boards should keep in mind that the willful creation of strife of any kind between teachers and their "back-up" will automatically create an atmosphere not in the best interest of the schools. No administrator worthy of the standards of his profession would ever permit this to happen. There are many activities which can function adequately in an atmosphere of tension and conflict. Teaching is a subtle, delicate process and must be surrounded by an atmosphere of orderliness, security and non-stress if it is successfully to take place.

White clouds over Pa. town

SHIPPINGPORT, Pa. — Heading north along the winding highway that the townspeople call Green Garden Road, you can see white cotton clouds hanging low over the mountains. The tranquil scene is not, however, entirely the work of nature. The clouds originate from six mammoth, cylindrical cooling towers that rise from the banks of the Ohio River like idols to the gods of energy.

Superheated vapors from the nuclear works below form the clouds which appear so white and innocent. But they hang over Shippingport, Pa., like a pall. Beneath them is a dying town contaminated by a deadly white dust of lead, cadmium, chromium and iron and an even more deadly irradiated mist.

Twenty years ago, Shippingport was a pastoral farming community. Then, in 1953, the Atomic Energy Commission selected the virgin riverbank as the site for the nation's first pressurized water nuclear reactor. The bank has now been transformed into a series of booming, whirring energy compounds, a Disneyland of futuristic domes, cones, reactors, grids and transmission lines, like a scene from "Star Wars."

The nuclear works, endowed by the federal government, is operated by a consortium of power companies known by the acronym CAPCO. The five companies — Duquesne Light, Pennsylvania Power, Ohio Edison, Cleveland Electric and Toledo Edison — provide electricity for some seven million consumers. But it is the Shippingport townsfolk who bear the environmental burden.

Out of the CAPCO compounds, with their cooling towers and 950-foot coal desulfurization chimney, comes the deadly fallout — the mineral dust and irradiated mist that rain down upon the community. We were shown calcium sulfate chunks the size of pie plates, which fell like flying saucers upon the countryside. In the few months since our investigation began, we have also documented spillages of contaminated water of more than 9,000 gallons.

The Shippingport people are frightened and alarmed. Residents have filed a lawsuit against CAPCO. They charge that the power plants have disrupted their lives, ruined their property and destroyed the peaceful aura of their beloved Beaver Valley. Property values have plummetted 40 percent; no one will touch the land near the nuclear site.

Others fear a lingering, invisible death from the radiation. There are tales of birds that walk backwards. Local hunters complain that the lush foliage along the riverbank has turned brown and sickly. The deer long ago abandoned their former haunts.

We found the power companies to be arrogant and secretive. The haze from the coal plants can be seen, but the gases that seep out of the plants and the tritium that seeps into the tap water are more difficult to detect.

Last July, a technician misaligned two valves, releasing 9,000 gallons of water contaminated by tritium. It gushed out of holding tanks and poured into the Ohio. Duquesne officials dutifully reported the spillage, as required by law, to the Nuclear Regulatory Commission in Washington. But they neglected to warn the townspeople in Midland, a mile downstream.

Had the company bothered to notify the town, says the mayor, the river water intake flows could have been closed. Instead, an immeasurable amount of irradiated water flowed into the town's water system.

A month earlier, a 25,000 gallon tank of drinking water was contaminated. Company officials assured us the contamination was "well within federal drinking limits." Yet workers at the power station were cautioned against using the water until the tank could be flushed.

Dr. Ernest J. Sternglass, an animated, bespectacled professor of radiological physics at the University of Pittsburgh, has been tilting with the giant CAPCO for more than a decade. With painstaking dedication, he has documented some alarming levels of radiation in the Shippingport area. He has also correlated his findings with an unexplained rise in infant mortality and cancer rates in Beaver Valley.

CAPCO has spent a small fortune to discredit Sternglass's research.

The farmers are fed up

Sometimes numbers speak louder than words.

In 1914 a farmer could trade two bushels of corn for one pair of shoes; today he'd have to swap more than 10 bushels.

But more punishing than farm prices today is the government snoopervision, the red tape and paperwork.

Earl Butz says the biggest surprise he got during his government service was to discover what he wasn't.

His title was "secretary of agriculture."

He sat on the President's Cabinet.

Presumably, he was there to represent farmers and administer farm programs.

But he discovered that policy is not made in that impressive front office.

Agriculture policy is dictated by a thousand little dictators. An unnamed GS-12 buried in the bowels of the department writes the language in paragraph 3, subsection C, and what he writes becomes law; the secretary never even sees it!

Joe Lamberta is a potato farmer in Delaware. Or he was. He operated 300 acres of potatoes south of Smyrna.

In recent years he has been confined more and more to his small office alongside U.S. 13 doing paperwork for the government.

Then the other day "the man from OSHA" showed up on the Lamberta farm. OSHA is the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, originally intended to protect workers against hazards.

What is this OSHA fella photographing but some grass alongside one of the farm buildings.

The grass had been mowed but a mower will cut only so close alongside a building so this fellow is taking pictures.

When farmer Lamberta asked, "Why so many pictures?" the man from OSHA said he wanted to "use up the film" in his camera.

The man from OSHA said he'd let farmer Lamberta know next Wednesday how much the fine will be.

That's not all. Like most potato farmers in the area, Joe depends on migrant workers who live in a labor camp nearby. Admittedly, these labor camps are not a residential paradise, but what the man from OSHA wanted to know was why there was no screen door on the shower room.

Farmer Joe wanted to know, "Who needs a screen door on a shower room?"

The man from OSHA — an inspector out of the Baltimore office — then wanted to know why the toilets were only 95 feet away from the packing house; there's a regulation specifying 100 feet.

The man from OSHA said after Joe had been fined that he can appeal if he wants to, but both he and Joe know that lawyers would cost more than the fines.

Joe's going out of the potato business. "Getting the hell out," he says. The workers he has generously paid more than the minimum wage, plus free lodging, utilities and free vegetables will have to find other work — or welfare.

Other potato farmers in the area, similarly disgusted, can't afford to keep farming and can't afford not to.

As one says, "It's easy to see why the government wants gun control."

Just in jest

Many and varied are the polls and surveys that have been conducted in connection with the recent television broadcasts of the World Series baseball games. I am amazed, however, that one area of those broadcasts has thus far been overlooked by the pollsters. A lot of fans, I feel certain, would be most interested in learning how many World Series telecast viewers turned down the sound on their TV sets and tuned in the radio broadcasts of the games in order to avoid having to listen to Howard Cosell.

In Washington

By MARTHA ANGLE and ROBERT WALTERS

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Howard Scharf is a man with an unusual problem: If he does his job too well, he's in danger of embarrassing his boss — and possibly losing his job.

Scharf's title is director of the investigations and inspections staff of the Economic Development Administration, a unit of the Commerce Department that currently is doling out more than $6 billion worth of federal public works grants to 12,000 state and local governments.

Scharf's staff is responsible for insuring that there is no fraud or abuse in a program that's very big, even by government standards. But he must report directly to the Assistant Secretary of Labor for Economic Development — the man who runs the program.

That inherent conflict was cited at a congressional hearing earlier this year, and Scharf offered a surprisingly candid reply to a pointed question on the subject:

Q. Aren't you in a position where the better job you do, the more embarrassing it may be for your boss?

A. The better job I do, the better chance I have of working myself out of a job.

That situation, unfortunately, is typical of the problems faced by many of the inspection, audit and investigation specialists assigned by federal departments and agencies to reduce, if not eliminate, waste and mismanagement of the public's money.

Limited authority, overlapping responsibility, poor coordination, inadequate staff, underfunded budgets and a host of other impediments were documented in hearings conducted by a subcommittee of the House Government Operations Committee chaired by Rep. L.H. Mountain, D-N.C.

Fountain's subcommittee produced a bill that would establish an inspector general's office at all major government departments and agencies. But that approach has been stymied by unwarranted opposition all the way from the depths of the bureaucracy to the highest levels in the White House.

If Congress can surmount that hostility, the House bill would bring badly needed uniformity to what now is a chaotic situation that makes federal spending susceptible to fraud.

Under the current system, for example, auditors and investigators report to different officials at different agencies and departments — and often, as in Scharf's case, the boss is the person in charge of the programs being investigated.

At the Department of Transportation, oversight authority is fragmented among no fewer than 116 different units — 11 conducting internal audits, 76 responsible for outside audits and 29 separate investigative units.

With few exceptions, audit and investigative staffs lack both the money and manpower to initiate affirmative probes of programs to search out fraud and abuse. 'We rely ordinarily on reacting to complaint-type situations," an official of the Veterans Administration confessed to the House subcommittee.

Officials of the Departments of Interior and Transportation acknowledged that some of their activities have never been audited. In other cases, departmental representatives said it would take from 10 to 20 years to complete a full cycle of audits of each of their programs.

The Labor Department, for instance, employs only six trained criminal investigators and 13 program analysts to check for fraud and abuse in $25 billion worth of activities, including the vast unemployment compensation program.

Other agencies complained of having one-third or one-fifth the resources necessary to properly monitor the expenditure of public funds.

The House bill would provide the mechanism to control an unmanageable situation vividly described by Fountain: "Government has gotten so big, the agencies so big . . . we have a Frankenstein on our hands, we have a train running away without an engineer."

Ann Landers

3 ways to beat snoring mate

Dear Ann Landers: This is for the crazy lady who wrote to say she loves to watch her husband sleep at night because he looks so much like a little boy. Then she added, "I adore listening to him snore. It's such a comfort to know he's right there beside me." (That broad must sleep in the daytime.)

For 24 years I have been married to a man who snores. If I turned on the light to look at him I'm sure the only thought that would come to mind is murder. His snoring shakes the fixtures, but when he's had a few drinks he makes such a racket the people in the next apartment bang on the floor with what must be a sledgehammer.

Several years ago we took The City of San Francisco (a great train) to the West Coast. The people in the next compartment knocked on our door and asked if I could do something to quiet my husband. I said, "Yes, but it's against the law."

Last year our family doctor suggested either a sedative for me, earplugs or separate bedrooms. I am now using all three. Pass the word to my sister sufferers, Ann. — Peace, It's Wonderful

Dear Peace: Consider it passed. I can't imagine worse punishment than being up all night while the mate is snoring up a storm. Your suggestions all sound good. Too bad it took you so long to get relief.

Dear Ann: Is it in good taste or not to send a notice of death? When it arrived I thought it was an invitation — lovely engraving and beautiful card. The message was as follows:

OUR BABY

The baby wept;
The nurse took it from the mother's arms
And hushed its fears, and soothed its vain alarms,
And the baby slept.
Again it weeps,
And God doth take it from the mother's arms
From present griefs and future unknown harms,
And baby sleeps.

The name of the baby then appeared — date of birth, date of death. (He lived only two months.) The time and place of the funeral appeared, along with the name of the funeral home, the pastor and the resting place.

What do you think of this? — No Name Please

Dear N.N.P.: I think sending the cards probably gave the parents great comfort and anyone who opens his mouth to utter one word of criticism should be promptly silenced.

Dear Ann: People make a big fuss over having to sit next to a person who smokes. No Smoking signs help a lot, also separate sections in planes and restaurants. But what can be done about gum-crackers?

I've gone to meetings, lectures, concerts, movies and plays which were ruined by a gum-cracker. Is there anything a person can say? — Can't Stand It

Dear C.S.I.: A person can say, "Your gum-cracking is getting on my nerves. I'd appreciate it very much if you'd chew more quietly." Your chances for cooperation are about 50-50, but if you don't mention it, they're zero.

Can drugs be a friend in time of stress? If you keep your head together can they be of help? Ann Landers' new booklet, "Straight Dope on Drugs" separates the fact from the fiction. Get it today. For each booklet ordered, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (24 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Marmaduke

"Did you have to blabber to EVERYBODY that I give you a bone once in awhile?"

Dr. Miller

Burros deserve a better fate

DEAR DR. MILLER: About those wild burros, the ones in Arizona and California that are supposedly crowding out the desert bighorn sheep. What are they finally going to do with them? Give them away as pets? I understand that costs three thousand bucks per head. Or, are they going to shoot them? I understand that only costs 50 bucks. Spending three thousand bucks to save a wild jackass sounds pretty stupid to me. — G.A.

DEAR G.A.: Burros deserve better than the shooting "solution." A wild burro in your backyard — a pet? — isn't the ideal answer, either. A better burro solution? Possibly.

With some birth control system and minimal help on food and water supplies, maybe they can make it where they are without real damage to desert environment (including desert bighorn sheep). If not, maybe private enterprise (with a small amount of government cooperation) can shift them to a reserve where they might be used as breed stock for future generations of tame burros, or where they could live without doing damage to other denizens of the desert.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Lately my older male parakeet has been showing homosexual tendencies with my younger male bird. This has only occurred since he has been getting a thyroid combination for a skin thing. Could there be any connection?—G.F.

DEAR G.F.: It's difficult to determine from here whether or not the hormone therapy had any bearing on your bird's behavior, but your own veterinarian might be able to tell.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Pinkerton's a big cat. I mean he's tall and long but he's not broad. My mother-in-law has Shipley, Pinkerton's brother. Shipley's big — all over. She claims it's heredity, that she never overfeeds Shipley, that he is just naturally a fat cat. I claim if that were so Pinkerton would be a big slob, too. Who's right? — R.S.

DEAR R.S.: Shipley's shaped partially by genetic influences. It's true, though, Pinkerton would be plump too if genetics were the only factor. Environment, specifically the type of food consumed and the amount (not merely the amount of calories burned) are also extremely important in determined by genetic influences; the final weight, however, is the result of a combination of genetic and environmental factors.

A rear view of campers

Everyone has fears.

Fear of heights, fear of death, fear of failing, fear of flying (not to be confused with air travel).

I haven't told anyone about this, but my greatest fear is passing a camper on the highway.

The family doesn't even suspect this. Oh, they got a little suspicious once when I followed an Airstream caravan all the way to Tampa once without passing (we were headed to Ft. Lauderdale at the time), but no one said anything.

Because I have spent most of my time looking up the exhaust of campers, I have become quite an authority on them. To begin with, did you know that the average speed of a camper on a yellow line going uphill is 35 mph? And 65 mph in a passing zone going downhill?

Did you know that many campers have bumper stickers proudly proclaiming, "Campers Are the Most Honest People in the World" and have their gas tank caps chained to the car? And a dog inside with eight-inch teeth?

Did you know that campers never pull over at scenic views? Never get gas? And have bionic kidneys?

I almost passed a camper once. I had been reading the back of their car for several hundred miles and knew them pretty well. Their names were Karl and Rita from Iowa, and they had been to the four western provinces of Canada, the Grand Canyon, Williamsburg, Crater Lake and Knotts Berry Farms.

They were anti gun control, wanted us to keep the Panama Canal, honk if we loved Jesus, and had voted down the school levy. I had followed them so long, at one point, I thought I saw Smokey the Bear's lips move.

"Why don't you try passing them?" suggested my husband gently.

"Are you saying I've been going too slow?"

"With luck, we'll make ten miles today."

My hands gripped the wheel as I eased out to pass their camper which was attached to a trailer carrying two motor bikes . . . which was attached to a small car being towed . . . which was attached to a boat which was being pulled by their station wagon.

What the heck. What was my hurry? We were only a few days from our destination.

Plague of bladder infections

DEAR DR. LAMB — Is there any hope for women who are plagued with constant bladder infections? It's like a chronic disease, once you get it, it's always there. Since I've reached 40 I seem to get it four or five times a year and it lasts at least six to eight weeks. I am very discouraged with all the expense of pills and doctor bills and having this pesky infection.

My doctor says to avoid spicy foods, others say avoid coffee and tea, tomatoes and oranges or acid foods.

I drink about 10 cups of coffee (usually decaffeinated) or tea daily and at least five glasses of water. Is my addiction to coffee making the infection harder to clear up? I've read that a phosphorous deficiency is the cause of bladder infections. Is that true?

DEAR READER — This is a fairly common problem for women. It creates a need to urinate frequently, burning during urination and is a drag on a woman's energy and feeling of well being. If the infection involves the kidney as well, and it may, then fever and other symptoms occur.

A woman who is having recurrent bladder infections should have a complete examination to find out if there is any structural abnormality present. The urethra can be constricted or it may be in the wrong position or there may be a stone present. If the bladder is not emptying adequately that will set the stage for repeated infections. Any such abnormalities should be corrected.

Sexual relations may aggravate cystitis. When a young woman begins an active sex life she may start having these problems. That is why it is sometimes colled honeymoon cystitis. There are some things a woman can do to help in this regard. Among these is to empty the bladder immediately might result in taking lots of medicine, though, in a young active couple on their honeymoon. It is worth asking your doctor about. Tub baths should probably be avoided; showers are preferable.

The important thing about your food and fluids is to drink enough fluids to maintain a good urinary flow. With some medicines (such as Mandelamine) it is necessary to acidify the urine. In that case orange juice, fruits and vegetables (but not cranberries, plums and prunes) may have the opposite effect. If an acid urine is necessary your doctor can recommend test tapes that enable you to test your urine and find out if it is in the desired range of acidity or not. This may not be necessary if the medicines you are taking act whether the urine is acid or alkaline.

Love bracelet on the market

Up jumps a newfangled Love Bracelet. It's fitted to the wrist of the wearer exactly, then fastened with a special set of screws. They require a trick screwdriver. The buyer of this dandy trinket presents it to the object of his affections. And she in turn gives him the screwdriver. If and when this amorous couple decides to break up, he says, "We can't go on this way," and she says, "Give me back my screwdriver!" Or words to that effect. Our Love and War man requires further study of the gadget before offering an endorsement.

Seven out of 10 teenage girls in this country do at least some of the families' weekly grocery shopping. More than half of their mothers work, that's why. Wait, somebody certainly will say, Does that mean almost half of their mothers don't work? No. Outside the house. You know.

STRAIGHT BANANA

The plant scientists worked a long time to develop a straight banana. But they finally won. A dozen years ago, it was. They grew bananas that were almost perfectly straight. And these flopped miserably at the market. Nobody would buy them.

Opening lead — Ace ♠

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

East's double of North's one-club opening was just a bad bid. He did have some high cards, but his best suit had just been bid by an opponent.

South's jump to two hearts was conventional. It showed a good heart suit and from 7 to 9 high-card points. This convention, while not a part of standard American, is used by many match-point players.

West might well have tried two spades, but he had seen examples of his partner's takeout doubles before and decided to stay out of the bidding.

North jumped to four hearts. A slight overbid in view of the fact that his partner's two-heart call was not forcing.

West opened the ace of spades and shifted to a diamond. South took dummy's ace and promptly played the ace and trey of clubs. South was sure that East held the club king and wanted to put East right on the spot.

What would you do if you were East? If you rise with the king and South has a singleton club you have chucked a trick. If you duck and South started with jack-small you have chucked a trick that way. This East did play low and South became the only declarer to make 10 tricks at hearts.

Ask the Jacobys

A California reader wants to know what the San Francisco convention is, or was.

The convention showed aces and kings on the basis of two points for an ace and one point for a king in response to an artificial four notrump. It never achieved any popularity.

'Great smokeout'

The American Cancer Society is seeking volunteer to distribute pledge cards fot "The Great American Smokeout," a statewide campaign to get smokers to take a day off from cigarettes on Nov. 17.

"We're going to give the campaign plenty of publicity. California smokers are going to hear about the smokeout," said Gloria Mason, public education chairman of the society's northeast Los Angeles County unit, "but the most effective way to get a pledge from a smoker is to ask face to face."

Plans include passing out pledge cards in schools, offices and shopping centers. The pledge card is important as a psychological commitment to help the smoker. The statewide goal is to get one million smokers to pledge a day off from cigarettes. The society is not asking smokers to quit, just to give it up for one day.

"It's the sense of control that's important," said Mason. "Each cigarette not smoked is a health benefit for the smoker."

Pledge cards are available from the American Cancer Society office at 111 W. Center St., Pomona.

'Gold Dust Twins' visit West Point

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — When they flashed across the West Point gridiron more than three decades ago they were known as the "Gold Dust Twins."

But the gold has turned to silver around the temples of Bonita High graduate Glenn Davis, "Mr. Outside," and both he and his famed running mate, Felix "Doc" Blanchard, "Mr. Inside," will be 53 before the end of the year.

Blanchard and Davis, who won the prestigious Heisman Trophy in 1945 and 1946, respectively, were considerably heavier than 30 years ago when they returned to West Point Saturday for special ceremonies, along with Pete Dawkins, Army's 1958 Heisman winner.

They saw Army wallop Holy Cross 48-8 and boost its record to 5-3, best in nine years.

It was a time for nostalgia and the West Point faithful traveled down Memory Lane to Army's national championships of 1944 and 1945, sparked, of course, by Blanchard and Davis.

They have drifted apart over the years, but then they were never really inseparable except on the football field and in the glowing media reports of their exploits.

"We see each other about once a year and we talk on the phone every once in a while if something comes up we're both involved with," said Blanchard, who retired to Lake Buchanan, Tex., as a colonel — "I'm retired-retired," — after 25 years in the Air Force.

"But even at West Point we saw very little of each other, the way our schedules ran. We ate at the training table and we practiced together, but we weren't in the same company and that was it."

Davis, who lives in North Hollywood, Calif., and is director of special events for The Los Angeles Times, was back at West Point five years ago for his 25th class reunion, but for Blanchard it was the first visit in more than a decade.

Naturally, they were asked about Army's modern-day recruiting problems and the difficulty in recruiting blue-chip athletes because of the postgraduate five-year active duty commitment.

"A friend of West Point had seen me play football in high school and that's the way it all started," Davis recalled. "He corresponded with Col. Blaik (Coach Earl "Red" Blaik) and I decided to take him up on his offer even though I had signed up for the wartime V-12 program at Southern California."

Blanchard began his college career at North Carolina, where he played one season and was drafted into the Army.

"After about a year-and-a-half I had been in eight different places," he said. "When they asked me to come to West Point I was in Clovis, N.M., and I said, 'Yeah, that would be nice.'"

It was nice for West Point and the three Heisman winners — only Notre Dame and Ohio State have had more — saw no reason why Army couldn't return to some level approaching its football glory days.

"How'd Navy do against Michigan this year?" Davis asked, noting the 14-7 score. "It can be done. A little improvement can mean a lot. You really shouldn't have to sell West Point to anyone. The people you're recruiting should be honored."

"The appeal of this place among high school-age men and women is on the rise," said the erudite Dawkins, a one-time Rhodes Scholar and now a colonel in charge of Headquarters Command at Fort Ord, Calif., with responsibility for 2,700 men and women. "And among those people it appeals to I believe are some fine football players.

"It would be a mistake for the Army not to take a shot at the very best teams every once in a while, but I don't think they ought to schedule 10 of them back-to-back. In fact, it's a myth that in some golden era Army played the top 10 teams in the country and beat them every year."

The Heisman trio reviewed the parade of cadets before Saturday's game and Davis said the day brought back "many fond memories, but the greatest thrill of all is being a member of the Long Gray Line."

Then he tried to shrug off the football accomplishments of Mr. Inside and Mr. Outside.

"There was never any competition between us," he said. "Doc did one thing and I did another. We didn't keep any records and we didn't care who was scoring the touchdowns or getting the publicity. Today there's probably more emphasis put on things like that.

"We had a lot of good football players here and we were just two other guys on the team."

But who else was Mr. Inside and Mr. Outside?

Ort hasn't changed much

In 30th year at LVC

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

This is Roland Ortmayer's 30th year as head football coach at La Verne College.

Aside fro adding a few pounds along the way, he prbably hasn't changed very much since he came here from William Penn college in Iowa in 1948.

"I'm not one to spend a lot of time thinking about the past," he admitted. "Every day is a new and pleasant experience just to leave home and walk to school meeting a lot of friendly people along the way."

Right now Ortmayer is not very happy about the way the current football season is going at La Verne. The Leopards are 2-4 overall and 0-2 in conference play.

"I thought we had a chance at winning the conference title," he said, "but it hasn't worked out that way. But there have been a lot more like that in the 30 years."

Ortmayer has been the football coach for all of his 30 years at La Verne. He also has been the track coach the last 20, the basketball coach for 15 years and the baseball coach for his first 10 of the 30.

Although he doesn't talk much about himself unless one pursues the subject, "Ort" was quite an athlete himself.

He was born in College Park, Maryland where the University of Maryland is located. But by the time he was old enough to be in high school, he was living in the colorfully-named town of Roundup, Montana.

At Roundup High, Ort lettered for three years in football, basketball and track. Since the school had no baseball team, he played American Legion ball.

Ortmayer was a halfback and quarterback in football, a forward in basketball and shortstop in baseball. In track he was a 12-foot pole vaulter which carried him to second place in the state meet.

"Ort" began his college education at Intermountain College in Helena, Mont. Ortmayer earned freshman letters in football and basketball. But after one year an earthquake demolished the school.

Ortmayer moved to the midwest and enrolled at Northwestern of the Big Ten Conference. He earned his degree in physical education and a varsity letter in football but suffered a knee injury in a game with Illinois that ended his football career.

"Ort" began coaching at Highland Park, Ill. High School as an assistant coach in football and track. From there he went to Kingsport, Tenn. and from there to William Penn in Iowa.

"Dwight Hanawalt was the basketball and track coach when I got here," Ortmayer recalled. Hanawalt is the only coach on the athletic staff that has been at La Verne longer. He still assists Ort in football.

"It's been most pleasant working with the people I've met and I've had just super experiences with my fellow coaches and teaching colleagues," Ortmayer said.

"I think the most exciting thing is to be accepted in lots of different ways. I'm a football coach for awhile, then a teacher, then a track coach and then a counselor, etc."

Ortmayer's unusual philosophy about coaching is that, ideally, everybody should win about as many as they lose and nobody should win a lot more.

"That's just about what my record is over the 30 years," he chuckled. "That's why I'm able to keep that philosophy."

Asked what he feels his role as coach and teacher is as far as his players and students are concerned, his reply was typical Ortmayer.

"It's providing the opportunity for young men and women to add more experiences to their lives which broadens their perspective and helps them overcome challenges."

In his activity classes, Ort has replaced Badminton with a course entitled "Throwing," Volleyball with "Climbing" and has added "Small Water Craft" (Kayaking).

"I just thought it would be fun to get out of things where you're constantly keeping score," he explained.

Ortmayer spends his summer vacation rafting in Montana along the route Lewis and Clark followed. He used to go backpacking (in Arizona or Utah).

He is, perhaps, best known as a football coach for having his teams twice play games on consecutive days. Both came about as a result of typical Ortmayer situations.

"UC Riverside was scheduled and Cal Western (Now USIU) kept calling and asking for a game," he recalled. Then UCR wanted to move their game to Friday so their staff could see UCLA or USC play."

So Ortmayer played at UCR Friday and hosted Cal Western Saturday.

"We won both games and didn't have any injuries," he laughed.

The second time things didn't work out as good.

"Occidental wanted a game and we asked Riverside if they could change the date," he said. "They agreed so we scheduled Oxy. Then UCR found it couldn't change, so we ended up playing at Oxy Friday and at UCR Saturday and lost both games."

One of Ort's quotes once made Sports Illustrated. "We hadn't had a very good game offensively," he remembered. "So I said I'm not sure my offense could make a first down in tall grass. Somebody picked it up and it got in Sports Illustrated."

Ort's most cherished memory is of 1958 when the students, faculty and alumni surprised him with a new station wagon and a trailer.

"That's quite a gift from a small college such as this," he said. "And we'd had either a 3-7 or 3-6-1 season (I can't remember). That's one of the best things about La Verne. They treat you nice instead of firing you."

Asked how long he would continue coaching, Ortmayer replied, "I have a lot of different answers to that. I'll probably die coaching. I can't think of any better way to go."

L.A. lone bidder for '84 Olympics

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — Los Angeles is in "strong position" to be awarded the 1984 Summer Olympic Games after remaining the sole applicant to stage the Games as an International Olympic Committee application deadline passed, IOC President Lord Killanin said today.

However, in an IOC statement announcing the final applications received, Lord Killanin said it was "disappointing" that only one city had applied to the IOC to stage the games - the first time in history this has happened.

The IOC statement said that three cities have formally applied to stage the Winter Games the same year — Goteborg in Sweden, Sapporo in Japan and Sarajevo in Yugoslavia.

An IOC spokesman said that the application from Sarajevo came only hours before the IOC deadline passed Monday night.

At the same time, a fourth application arrived from the French national Olympic committee with a request to hold the Winter Games in one of three towns — Courchevel, Meribel and Belleveille.

Because IOC rules stipulate that only one city can stage the Games, the French application is not a formal one, the spokesman said. But it would still be "considered" along with the other three. he said.

MSAC looks ahead to No. 1 Fullerton

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

The prospect of playing the nation's number-one ranked junior college team isn't upsetting Mt. San Antonio College's Mal Eaton.

Then again, Eaton's Mounties don't face the unbeaten Hornets until Nov. 12.

Eaton's comments on facing Fullerton for the South Coast Conference title highlighted Monday's Progress Bulletin football luncheon at the Castaway Restaurant in Pomona.

MSAC, in the wake of its 13-0 shutout of Cerritos, nabbed both the offensive and defensive player of the week awards.

Mountie defensive back Jerome Covington, who intercepted two passes, deflected two others and made three sacks, was tabbed on defense, while center Greg Griggs, who helped MSAC gain over 400 yards, was selected on offense.

At the four-year level, Cal Poly linebacker Jay Giangregorio won defensive honors while Azusa Pacific tackle Rusty Osborn was selected as the top offensive performer.

Other players nominated for weekly honors were Chaffey's Scott Haugan, APC's Rick Massro, Claremont-Mudd's Greg Palma and Augie Naito, La Verne's Dana Lanier and Pomona-Pitzer's Randy Roddy.

Quoting the coaches:

EATON, MSAC: "We're very happy with our win over Cerritos. It was the only shutout so far this year in our conference. Our defense did a super job, it kind of saved the day for us.

"Our offense moved the ball well between the five and the five, but couldn't punch it in. We'll work on our short-yardage game this week.

"Our bye this week could be either good or bad. If we come back and beat Fullerton, it's good. If we lose to them it's bad! Seriously, we're looking forward to playing the top-ranked team. We'll use the bye to work on fundamentals and to scout them on Saturday."

JOHN ZINDA, C-M: "We're kind of glad our game with Pomona-Pitzer is over. Winning takes the pressure off us. Our defense did an outstanding job, we stopped their passing game. It was the first time we had ever shut them out so that was especially gratifying.

"We're looking forward to playing Occidental this week. I think our game with Pomona-Pitzer should have helped us prepare for Oxy. Like Pitzer, they throw the ball and we will have to adjust to stop their passing game. They're coming off a tough loss to Redlands and hopefully will be a little down for us."

JIM JONES, Poly: "We thought we could stay with Northridge but the biggest difference was the kicking game. They had a super kicker and we did not kick well. They just dominated us with their kicker.

"Our guys are making the most of our situation, they come to play week after week.

"This week we play Fullerton, they are a Division I team and a good team. Realistically, they should handle us. We'll need to throw the ball well and make the big play on defense to stay with them."

REX HUIGENS, La Verne assistant coach: "We just ran into a super defensive team in Whittier and they dominated our offense. We couldn't run and couldn't pass. Brad Frick broke his collarbone in the third quarter and is lost for the year, but even if we had had him for the whole game I doubt that it would have made much difference.

"We play Redlands this week, we have to beat their tackles, they are big and strong. Our offense will have to regroup now that we're without Frick. Our goal right now is to post a winning record in our conference."

WALT AMBORD, P-P: "We lost 13-0 to Claremont, we're disappointed since we thought it was one game we had a chance to win. They played well against us.

"I thought our defense did a good job but we were inconsistent on offense. We made too many mistakes.

"We play Whittier this week, what can you say? I don't know what's going to happen, they are a fine team. I just hope they kind of overlook us since they have Redlands coming up."

No. 2 Aztec QB undergoes surgery

SAN DIEGO (AP) — San Diego State quarterback Mark Haida underwent two hours of surgery on his injured right shoulder and may someday be "as good as new," a surgeon says.

Halda was thrown to the ground Saturday night after carrying the football 25 yards. He landed on his passing arm and shoulder, and a University of Tulsa tackler fell on him.

DEFENSE — Clarence Duren, safety, San Diego Chargers. Duren killed four Miami drives and set up one of San Diego's scores with three interceptions and a fumble recovery in the Chargers' 14-13 triumph over the Dolphins.

OFFENSE — Jim Zorn, quarterback, Seattle Seahawks. Zorn, who missed four games with a knee injury, returned to action with a flourish by throwing four touchdown passes and running for a fifth score in Seattle's 56-17 romp over Buffalo. Zorn hit on 11 of 23 passes for 296 yards in less than three full periods, including scoring strikes of 31 and 48 yards to Steve Largent, 37 yards to Duke Fergerson and 10 yards to Don Testerman.

MSAC coach honored

To win an award bestowed upon you by your contemporaries in a certain field is special.

A person so honored has earned respect displaying special abilities and talents.

One such person is Elizabeth Green, former head coach of the women's badminton team at Mt. San Antonio College.

Green was chosen "1976 Coach of the Year" by fellow members of the California Community Colleges Coaches Association and will receive her award at the Stovall Clinic in Anaheim, January 29, when similar presentations for other sports will be made.

"I'm very honored to be named, especially first coach and because it was by my peers," said a happy Green after learning of the award.

ELIZABETH GREEN

Prior to the 1976 season, badminton did not have coach of the year awards, and until she had been informed she was the first coach ever to be honored, she said she had forgotten all about it.

"I first started coaching here in 1950," Green reflected, "and during those 27 years, we've had very competitive badminton teams. Ever since we've had leagues, MSAC has won first place, so we've had more than our share of championships.

"Last year was especially gratifying," she continued, "because we won the state championship. The team was extremely strong and it was a fine group of men and women. Not just good athletes, but good students as well."

Green played collegiately at Los Angeles City College for two years and at Whittier College for another three. She began coaching at Whittier where she received her bachelor's degree and in time, took charge of the competitive teams at the college.

"Field hockey, softball, badminto. Students aren't exposed to these minor sports as much as other sports," Green explained. "That's why I like coaching them . . . because it's more of a challenge."

Green received her master's degree from the University of Southern California and after a brief stint at Whittier, she became a supervisor at the Pasadena City School District for two years.

In 1949 she came to MSAC, and in a way, became a "Jill of All Trades" coaching nine different sports at various times of the year, including tennis, basketball, archery, swimming and volleyball.

Her two favorite sports are field hockey and badminton, but the latter has a deeper spot in her heart.

"Badminton attracts students who are well skilled and coordinated" Green points out, "to play quality badminton, one has to be a quick thinker, be able to make quick decisions. Eye-hand-foot coordination is also extremely important.

"There are many beautiful things about the sport," she continued. "You can be fully dressed to play and not have to change into any special kind of clothing. And tiny kids can play the game and have fun. And at the same time it can be played at a high level of competition."

"Students who have never played before sign up for the class and it is just amazing how they become really addicted. And to me its rather gratifying," Green said, "because their improvement by the end of the semester is dramatic. Kids can't believe how proficient they become."

Green's methods have been so effective, she has turned out some of the finest badminton players in the United States today, not the least of whom is John Moyer who attended MSAC about six years ago and is now ranked an "A" player.

Green gave up coaching field hockey four years ago when one of her proteges, Debbie Blackmore who played for the Mounties, joined the MSAC athletic department and became head coach for the sport.

Green, who has just been named Division Chairperson for Physical Education, has turned over the reigns of the badminton to Dianne Hales, internationally acclaimed, and one of the United State's top female players.

Simpson's career finished?

BUFFALO (AP) — The Buffalo Bills awaited word today on whether a knee injury would end the spectacular career of star running back O.J. Simpson.

Simpson has been more depressed in recent weeks than at any point in his nine-year pro career, mainly because of his Buffalo Bills' lowly 1-6 start this season, coming off a 2-12 record last year. He also has been hampered this season first by an ankle injury, then an arm injury, and now knee problems.

Simpson's left knee, ailing the past three weeks, was described as "more seriously damaged than you might expect" by a well-placed Bills source. Other sources expressed belief that Simpson will retire if the knee is diagnosed as requiring surgery. They said Simpson might make his decision as early as today.

Following the Bills' 56-17 mauling Sunday by the second-year Seattle Seahawks, Simpson flew to his Los Angeles home.

He reportedly was examined in Los Angeles Monday by Dr. Robert Kerlan. However, Kerlan, a prominent specialist who has treated many famous athletes including former Los Angeles Dodgers pitcher Sandy Koufax, refused comment on the examination.

Simpson, unavailable Monday for comment, was listed as "questionable" because of a knee "derangment" before the Bills' game Sunday in Seattle, but started and carried nine times for 32 yards.

Simpson sat alone on the Bills' bench during the game's second half. Coach Jim Ringo, who removed Simpson with the Bills trailing 42-3 at the half, said, "There's no sense humiliating a great athlete."

Ringo added that he would have no further comment on the Simpson situation.

After the game, Simpson shook hands with club owner Ralph C. Wilson and told him he would telephone Monday. Wilson, a Detroit businessman, could not be reached for comment.

Simpson is in the second year of a reported $2.3 million, three-year contract. He has expressed increasing frustration in recent weeks as it has become obvious that he will end his career with a losing team.

"I just want to get my years over and get out of here," he said before the Seattle game. Simpson said playing for a Super Bowl team was his "greatest goal as a player," but that he realized it would "take a miracle" for his goal to be realized.

Simpson held out before the 1976 season in hopes of being traded to a West Coast team, preferably a contender. However, Wilson's asking price reportedly was too high.

"I thought it would be wise for the team to trade me for some players to build with, but I've got no hard feelings," Simpson said three weeks ago.

However, since then Simpson has leveled several verbal blasts at Wilson.

"One thing I can't figure out is what management is doing. After last season I thought it was apparent that some changes needed to be made.

"They never took the time to develop players here. If a player didn't look good at first, he was gone," Simpson said.

The former University of Southern California star's hope of catching Jim Brown's alltime rushing record of 12,312 yards has been dimmed by the Bills' increased passing. Simpson, who holds 10 NFL rushing records, has gained 557 yards on 126 carries this season, bringing his career total to 10,283.

Pacific-8 grid race is complex

LOS ANGELES (AP) — If you're looking for a fired-up, "We can take it all" speech from a football coach, you might try an old Pat O'Brien movie. But don't ask UCLA Coach Terry Donahue his predictions on a suddenly tight Pacific-8 football race.

"With three weeks to go, I'm not sure," said Donahue, when asked his team's chances in the four-team Pac-8 race. "I have no idea."

With Washington, UCLA and USC tied in conference play at 3-1, just behind Stanford at 4-1, the Pac-8 run for the roses is not only tight, it is complex. Donahue's Bruins, who beat Washington Saturday, 20-12, can go if they win all of their remaining games. Provided, however, that Stanford loses of its remaining three, since Stanford, now 4-1 in Pac-8 play, beat UCLA earlier in the season.

Stanford must get by USC, which, in turn, must get by all of its remaining opponents because of the Trojans' 17-14 loss to Cal. Washington, also still in the Pac-8 race, must also win all of its remaining games.

But UCLA seems to have momentum, at least, going into the final three games. The Bruins have won their last three, four of their last five heading into next Saturday's showdown with Oregon.

Coaches review week

JOHN STRYCULA, Citrus: "We were fortunate to win against Southwestern, and also happy because it was our fifth straight win and assures us of a winning season.

"We got by them despite some injuries, Ken Eriksen was out and Barry McManus carried the ball only four times due to a charley-horse. Both those guys should be back this week.

"We have our showdown game with Saddleback Saturday. The were our pre-season favorite to win the Mission Conference title, and they should be because they have experienced and talented personnel at quarterback, wide receiver and running backs.

"They have the best defense we'll see this year and a big-play type offense. We'll have our hands full with them, they've dominated every one of their conference games so far this year."

MIKE MERANDI, Chaffey: "We beat San Bernardino Valley 21-7, our kids played well, particularly our offense. We had lost three offensive linemen going into the game but still picked up 330 yards rushing. We had to put a good game together after our loss to Citrus and we did.

"We play at Southwestern this week, they are a team with a lot of heart. They play well together and have some talent so we expect all we can handle down there. Sonny LaFargue and Brian Potter are questionable starters for the game due to injuries."

JERRY SCONCE, APC: "We had a most pleasant trip up to St. Mary's, we played an excellent football game. We put things together real well and outgained them 374-74. The final score was not a good indication of how one-sided the game really was. We dominated them on defense.

"We play Cal State L.A. this week. They have great team speed and an excellent defense. They'll probably be too physical for us but we'll try to stay on the same field with them."

Judge blocks start of racing at Los Al

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A thoroughbred horse race meeting scheduled for next week at Los Alamitos Race Course was blocked Monday by a Superior Court judge on a pair of technicalities.

The meeting, which was to have been the first thoroughbred meet ever in Orange County, was planned as part of the Orange County Fair Nov. 8 through Nov. 21.

But Judge David N. Eagleson ruled that the California Horse Racing Board acted improperly in granting the fair racing dates, basing his decision on two grounds:

—The racing dates were granted without environmental clearances.

—The racing board was too late in adding the racing dates to its 1977 calender, adopted in June 1976. The board added the racing dates in December and, by law, must make changes within 61 days from the time the calender is drawn.

The fair will still be held in the Los Alamitos parking lot.

Backers of the thoroughbred meet have indicated they will appeal Eagleson's decision.

Orange County officials have tried for three years to get two-week thoroughbred racing — to which all county fairs are eligible — but has met consistent resistance from established racetracks in the area, at Hollywood Park and Santa Anita.

About 300 horses already are at Los Alamitos, and track officials said they would be able to accommodate the horses until Thursday, in case an appeal wins.

Eagelson's ruling came on a suit filed by Hollywood Park and Santa Anita, aimed at stopping the meeting. Both parks are themselves seeking more thoroughbred racing dates.

Benjamin, Green honored

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Stanford's Guy Benjamin, who leads college football in passing and has helped the Cardinals take the Pacific-8 lead, was today named Offensive Player of the Week in the conference.

The defensive award, announced Monday, went to California safety Anthony Green who made two key interceptions and 10 tackles in the Bears' 17-14 upset of Southern Cal.

Benjamin completed 17 of 29 passes for 176 yards and hit for three touchdowns in a 26-7 victory over Oregon State which made Stanford's Pac-8 record 4-1. He allowed no interceptions on the rainy day in Corvallis.

Bosox sale illegal?

BOSTON — Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Players Association, says aspects of a tentative sale arrangement for the Boston Red Sox may be illegal, and he has called for an immediate hearing on the sale, the Boston Evening Globe reported.

Miller said the meeting should take place before American League owners meet Thursday to decide whether they will approve the sale.

According to the newspaper, Miller believes various aspects of a loan agreement between the club's prospective owners and the State Street Bank and Trust Co. might be in violation of the collective bargaining agreement in major league baseball, and therefore illegal.

Evert, Fromholtz meet

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (AP) — No. 1 seed Chris Evert was scheduled to meet eighth-seeded Dianne Fromholtz today as some of the world's best women's tennis players begin a round-robin competition for $250,000 in prize money.

Saturday's finals will be nationally televised, with $100,000 going to the winner.

Qualifying for the tournament were Evert, Billie Jean King, Virginia Wade of England, Betty Stove of The Netherlands; Wendy Turnbull, Dianne Fromholtz and Kerry Reid, all of Australia, and Martina Navratilova.

Besides the Evert-Fromholtz match, today's action paired No. 2 seed Stove against No. 7 Turnbull and No. 4 Navratilova in a match against fifth seed Wade.

Four doubles teams also will be in competition — Navratilova-Stove; Wade and Francoise Durr; Linky Boshoff-Ilana Kloss and Helen Cawley-Joanne Russell.

Jazz has choice

NEW YORK (AP) — The New Orleans Jazz has the option of taking forward Wesley Cox or a first-round draft choice next year from the Golden State Warriors as compensation for the loss of player E.C. Coleman, National Basketball Association Commissioner Larry O'Brien ruled Monday.

Coleman became a "veteran free agent" by playing out his option with New Orleans last year and signed with Golden State.

O'Brien said the Jazz could accept Cox plus $40,000 or the team could take Golden State's own first-round pick in the 1976 college draft plus $75,000.

Steelers lose two players

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Laverne Smith, a rookie running back with the Pittsburgh Steelers, had his severely fractured right leg set in surgery Monday at Divine Providence Hospital.

Meanwhile, the Steelers said middle linebacker Jack Lambert would miss next Sunday's game in Denver due to a knee sprain.

Both injuries were sustained Sunday in the Steelers' 31-21 loss in Baltimore.

Cowboys sailing along

NEW YORK (AP) — Halfway home, with seven games gone and seven still to go, some interesting trends are beginning to develop in the National Football League standings.

The last of the NFL's unbeaten teams is Dallas and the Cowboys are sailing along, three games in front in the National Conference East. What's more, of the Cowboys' seven remaining games, only Denver (Dec. 18) could be termed a top club. All of the others, including Pittsburgh, Washington and St. Louis have already lost three or more games each.

In the NFC Central, Minnesota is comfortably out in front, two games ahead of both Chicago and Detroit. The Vikings dropped the season's opener in overtime to Dallas and then won four straight to take the lead. Then, after Los Angeles walloped Minnesota last Monday night, the Vikes bounced right back with a victory in Atlanta Sunday.

That Minnesota win over the Falcons was vital to the Rams, who are tied for the top in the NFC West with surprising Atlanta. Both are 4-3 after losses Sunday—Los Angeles dropping a one-point decision to New Orleans and the Falcons losing by one touchdown to the Vikes. If they stay deadlocked for five more weeks, Atlanta's Dec. 11 date in the Los Angeles Coliseum could be mighty interesting. The Rams play Tampa Bay, Green Bay, San Francisco, Cleveland and Oakland between now and then while the Falcons face San Francisco, Detroit, New Orleans, Tampa Bay and New England over the same period.

All three divisions are tight in the American Conference.

Oakland's convincing victory over Denver Sunday left the defending Super Bowl champion Raiders tied with the surprising Broncos for first place in the West. Both are 6-1 and are finished with each other for the year. Oakland's remaining games are against Seattle, Houston, San Diego, Buffalo, Los Angeles, Minnesota and Kansas City. Denver's second half seems a little tougher with Pittsburgh, San Diego, Kansas City, Baltimore, Houston, San Diego and Dallas.

The tightest divisions in the league are the AFC Central and AFC East.

In the Central, Cleveland at 5-2 holds a one-game lead over Pittsburgh, struggling along at 4-3. They are gearing for a Nov. 13 showdown in Cleveland. But before that, the Steelers must face Denver and Cleveland plays Cincinnati on Sunday. The Bengals and Houston are both two games back of the Browns at 3-4.

In the East, Baltimore is one game in front of both New England and Miami. The Colts won their first five games, then lost to the Patriots but bounced back to beat Pittsburgh Sunday. New England dropped two of its first three but has recovered to win four in a row. The Dolphins won five of their first six but then dropped a last-second decision to San Diego Sunday.

Miami and New England collide Nov. 13. The Colts play the Dolphins Dec. 5 and the Patriots two weeks later in the final game of the regular season.

AIA hosts Soviet team

LOS ANGELES — The Athletes in Action USA basketball team will face its toughest season opener in 11 years of basketball when the Soviet National Team comes to the Sports Arena tonight in an 8 p.m. tipoff.

This will be the second encounter between the two amateur basketball squads in less than eight months. On March 7, 1977 the two teams met in the Long Beach Arena before 10,239 with the Russians prevailing, 108-106.

The past two seasons AIA has not faired so well in the month of November. Both years AIA was 8-5 in November including losing four of six during one stretch. In 1975-76 the USA'ers went on to post a 29-3 record for the remainder of the season.

Last year AIA was 28-3 after the 8-5 start in November. Even more impressive, the Orange County-based quintet won 26 out of its last 27 games to finish with a 36-7 season record. (AIA was 54-7 overall including 18-0 in Australia.)

Former UCLA Bruin Ralph Drollinger is back for his second campaign in the red, white and blue of AIA while guard Brad Hoffman, and forwards Tim Hall and Irvin Kiffin return for their third year with AIA.

AIA's seven new players give the team needed depth. The top prospects are a pair of 6-7 frontcourt men. Former San Diego State Aztec Steve Copp was a third round choice of the New Orleans Jazz in the 1976 draft. While at San Diego State, he earned academic all-American and co-PCAA Player of the Year honors as a senior. The 1977 NAIA Player of the Year Alonzo Bradley hails from Texas Southern. He averaged 23.8 ppg and led the Tigers to the NAIA National Championship last spring.

AIA will visit Cal Poly next Tuesday night at Kellogg Gym to help Bronco Coach Don Hogan get an idea about his 1977-78 varsity squad.

Vachon ready to rejoin Kings

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles Kings' have announced that goalie Rogie Vachon, injured Oct. 19 at Cleveland, will rejoin the club this week.

The Kings' said Monday that Vachon has been cleared by the team doctor and was to join the team today in St. Louis. Vachon was not scheduled to start until later in the week, the NHL club said.

The Kings also announced that injured defenseman Dave Hutchison, out with a cut finger, would rejoin the team shortly.

Cardinals can play defense

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The explosive St. Louis Cardinals scored four touchdowns in their National Football League game Monday night, but the richest plaudits went to safety Mike Sensibaugh and a band of much-maligned defenders.

Sensibaugh, a sore-shouldered safety, dashed 79 yards in the opening seconds of the final quarter to climax an unexpectedly stingy performance that impressed even Giants Coach John McVay.

"Their defense surprised us a bit," McVay said following his Giants' 28-0 loss. "They played very strongly against us. We're not a great offensive football team, but we thought we could do certain things."

The NFL's 25th-ranked defensive team ahead of the clash, St. Louis shut down the Giants on drives to the Cards' 31 in the opening half and to the 30, 20, and 15 during the final two quarters.

"I'm extremely pleased, especially with the speciality teams," noted Cards Coach Don Coryell, who also labeled Duane Carrell's punts as a factor in keeping the Giants at bay.

"Over all ... offense, defense, and specialty teams ... this was our best game this season in all aspects. I didn't dream we'd hold them scoreless."

While fashioning their first shutout of the season, the Cards enthralled a Busch Stadium sellout crowd of 50,323 by bending, but not breaking, against a New York offense which totalled 301 yards to St. Louis' 258.

Quarterback Jim Hart's four pass completions steered the Cards 68 yards late in the opening quarter. Reserve back Steve Jones capped the drive with a 5-yard dash into the end zone.

St. Louis then yielded momentarily to the aerials of the Giants' Joe Pisarcik during a New York advance from its own 16 to the Cards' 31.

There, however, the Giants' assault stalled and Joe Danelo's field goal try from the 38 sailed wide of the uprights.

Then, after Terry Metcalf's halfback pass was picked off by New York cornerback Bill Bryant, the St. Louis defense held again.

When the Cards got the ball back, Giants' defender Ray Rhodes was ruled to have interfered with Cards' wide receiver Mel Gray on a disputed 47-yard play which advanced the ball to the Giants' 30.

Three plays later, a second interference call, this against safety Clyde Powers, put St. Louis at the 20. And finally, after two more penalties backed New York closer to its goal, offensive guard Conrad Dobler was credited with a touchdown after pouncing on Wayne Morris' fumble from the 1.

A flurry of fisticuffs erupted as Dobler enveloped the ball. The chief antagonists were Cards' all-pro tackle Dan Dierdorf and Giants' linebacker Brian Kelley.

"Connie fell on it, and then I saw somebody kicking him," explained the 288-pound Dierdorf, who grabbed Kelley. "I grabbed whoever it was, and our momentum carried us into the goal post."

Order was restored, but the calm also applied unfortunately to the New York offense.

St. Louis conerback Lee Nelson stepped in front of intended receiver Ed Marshal at the Cards' 42 in the third quarter and six plays later Jerry Latin bolted from the Giants' 4 to a touchdown.

The harassed Pisarcik then zipped two completions on a New York drive, but miscalculated on another throw from the Cards' 30. In zone coverage, Sensibaugh smelled out the play and stole it from the grasp of Jimmy Robinson. Behind a convoy of blockers, he made his touchdown romp a breeze.

"We were waiting for the play-action pass," said Sensibaugh, who had not practiced the previous week because of his painful shoulder. "That's what we were keying on."

Pisarcik wound up completing 12 of 25 aerials for 126 yards before giving way late in the game to backup quarterback Jerry Golsteyn, who also suffered an interception.

Simpson, Zorn cheer youngster

SEATTLE (AP) — Fourteenyear-old Jimmy Gallegos, whose spirits aren't dampened by the loss an arm and part of a lung to cancer, got some good-natured banter and the game ball from Buffalo Bills superstar O.J. Simpson.

Then he played catch outside the locker room with Seattle Seahawks quarterback Jim Zorn, who had just passed for four touchdowns to spark his team to a 56-17 National Football League victory over the Bills Sunday.

Doctors say the odds are not in Jimmy's favor. His left arm was amputated in July, 1976, and part of a lung was removed last November. He now has a tumor on the other lung.

But last Thursday, as a defensive back for the Washington Junior High School football team in Yakima, Wash., Jimmy intercepted a pass and returned it 40 yards to help his team win 18-0.

And Sunday he showed up at the Kingdome with his mother, Kathy, his older brother and a junior high school friend. After the game, he hung around outside the Bills' dressing room, until Simpson emerged.

"I'm very glad to meet you, Jimmy," the congenial Simpson said. "What did you think about that football game? One more touchdown, I think, and they would have tied the NFL record."

Simpson stroked a scraggly beard — "I'm growing this to try to get ready for the winter in Buffalo" — and handed Jimmy a football.

"This is the game ball, Jimmy," said Simpson. He signed the ball, dropped it on the turf, picked it up again and handed it back. "At least I didn't fumble in the game today," he joked. Simpson wrote on the ball, "To my pal, Jimmy. Peace to you."

Moments later Zorn came out of the Seattle locker room and Jimmy indicated he'd like to play catch with a pro.

"Do you want a reception or an interception?" joked Zorn. "It'll have to be a reception. I don't throw interceptions."

Someone told Zorn to keep his pass short. "Are you kidding?" he replied. "We're going for the bomb."

Jimmy handled Zorn's pass with ease, reaching up with his right hand and pulling the ball into his chest. Later, crossing the Kingdome field, Jimmy fired a 20-yard bullet pass on target to his companion.

Zorn wrote on the ball, "To Jimmy, a good friend...Ephes 2:8-9."

The Biblical passage reads: "For by grace you have been saved through faith, and this is not your own doing. It is the gift of God."

Kansas City fires 'nice guy' Wiggins

KANSAS CITY (AP) — "Let's look at the facts, the brutal facts," said a Kansas City Chiefs player, his eyes glistening with tears. "Nice guys can't be winning coaches in the National Football League."

But Paul Wiggin, an acknowledged "nice guy" who was fired Monday, still believes it can be done.

Chiefs owner Lamar Hunt called a news conference Monday to announce that "in the best interests of the Kansas City Chiefs," Wiggin had been fired and Tom Bettis, a veteran Chiefs' defensive backfield coach, was named to replace him on an interim basis.

Wiggin indicated earlier he had talked his successor out of resigning in a show of loyalty.

"Tom is a very loyal guy," Wiggin said. "I said, 'Tom, let's talk about a team and a staff and some people we both care for. Let's forget about Paul Wiggin.'"

Bettis, flanked by Hunt and Chiefs President Jack Steadman at the news conference, was asked about Wiggin's remarks.

"Any time you get a shock like this, there's bound to be a lot of wild thoughts going through your head," he said. "Paul and I had a long conversation."

Wiggin, 44, was an assistant coach for the San Francisco 49ers when the Chiefs hired him in January, 1975 to head their much-advertised rebuilding campaign. He was 5-9 in each of two full seasons after replacing Hank Stram, who was fired after a 5-9 mark in 1974.

The Chiefs, a powerhouse in the old American Football League and the Super Bowl champions of 1970, staggered to a 1-6 mark the first seven weeks of this season and were mauled 44-7 last Sunday by the Cleveland Browns, the team for which Wiggin played defensive end for 11 years.

The dismissal of the popular Wiggin triggered a quick, hostile reaction from fans and players.

Several players emerged from Wiggin's office openly weeping after they learned of the dismissal, and Wiggin was wiping tears from his eyes when he met with reporters.

"I don't have any bitterness," said Wiggin, whose coaching philosophy was founded on dedication, emotion and compassion. "And I still believe it's possible for a nice guy to win in the NFL. I did it my way, and it didn't work."

In a written statement, the players said they were "shocked and saddened with what has happened here today."

"Every man on this football team feels a deep sense of guilt for the actions that were taken. It is our fault that we lost a fine man and a great individual, Paul Wiggin. One of the great crimes in life is to have someone else suffer the consequences of your own actions. We feel this is the case today."

The Kansas City Star said calls were running almost 10-1 in sympathy with the ousted coach.

"We decided it was in the best interests of the Kansas City Chiefs to make a coaching change," Hunt said. "Paul Wiggin is a very fine man. He gave the Chiefs credibility and he helped us through a difficult period. But in the opinion of the team management, we had not been making the progress we felt we needed to make.

"We are dedicated to seeing the Kansas City Chiefs become competitive with the best in the National Football League and we felt we were no longer making progress toward that goal."

Wiggin said he had no idea he was being dismissed when called to a meeting with Hunt and Steadman at 10:30 a.m. Monday.

U.S. attempts to convert pests into pets

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The federal government, plagued with wild burro herds overrunning public lands, is trying to convert pests into pets by running an adoption service for the floppy-eared beasts.

The National Park Service and the Bureau of Land Management, in the face of protests over shooting the animals to thin the herds, has come up with an "adopt-a-burro" plan.

"The 'adopt-a-burro' program seems to be a working solution as long as we have enough people willing to take the animals," said Bob Springer, head of the BLM's national range division in Washington. However, it is more expensive — sometimes several thousand dollars — to round up rather than shoot the beasts, he noted.

Phil Hill, 32, owner of a garage and service station in rural Hesperia, drove out to the BLM's Mojave Desert adoption center recently to pick up a grown jenny (female) named Sally and a month-old burro he called Sweetpea.

"We got the baby for our son, Luke, who's only 16 months," says Hill, "It gives our boy an animal to grow up with" on the family's 2½-acre homesite.

"We'll have our burros in the hometown parades, ride them on the horsetrails around here and use them for pack animals up in the mountains," Hill said.

BLM officials say there's been no mad rush out to the recently opened adoption center near Baker or others operated from time-to-time in Arizona or New Mexico.

About 60 of 321 burros rounded up and put in the Mojave Desert pen have been adopted, says Springer. The government gives out the burros free, asking only that prospective "parents" pick them up and have enough space at their home to keep them.

The burros in Wild West days often were best friends to prospectors and miners, who used the pony-sized critters as pack animals. The animals were brought to the West from North Africa in the 1500s by the Spaniards.

The burros, replaced over the years by motorized vehicles, were released by their owners into the desert where they thrived.

Today there are an estimated 8,000 to 10,000 wild burros roaming throughout the desert, mostly in California, Nevada, Arizona and New Mexico. They chomp and tromp on fragile vegetation, causing erosion and destroying food supplies of native desert creatures — including deer and bighorn sheep, says Terral King of the BLM.

Between 1924 and 1968, the park service says, about 2,500 burros were shot at Grand Canyon National Park, where an abundance of the creatures recently led Jim Walters of the park service to declare, "Hell, this isn't a national park, this is a wild burro pasture."

In July, 66 burros were shot by rangers at Bandelier National Monument in New Mexico, where the animals had been trampling and destroying Indian ruins.

"The damage done by burros is evident, continuous and progressively getting worse," says Brant Calkin, Southwest representative of the conservationist Sierra Club. "I'm not the least bit enthusiastic about the program to kill the burros. I'm sure the park service isn't either. But it's a necessary evil."

The park service announced a plan a year ago to wipe out all wild burros in the Grand Canyon and were deluged with 12,000 letters, most protesting the burro shoot, says Walters.

Interior Secretary Cecil D. Andrus ordered that an impact statement on the burros be prepared by the end of this year after a court suit seeking a halt to the plan was filed by the Committee to Protect the Grand Canyon Burro, the American Horse Protection Association and Humane Society of the United States.

A STEEL WOMAN WITH A SOFT HEART.

Pat Vincent works for Kaiser Steel. But after a full day at the office she's still got a lot of work to do—for United Way. This is the third year in a row that Pat has volunteered her time to see that the deserving get their share of United Way funds.

Pat Vincent, Kaiser Steel employee and United Way volunteer.

It's a time-consuming job. She's a member of one of the volunteer panels that looks into the needs of a great variety of organizations to assure that United Way funds are distributed fairly. Tough decisions, but the satisfaction of being able to help makes it all worthwhile.

The rest of us at Kaiser Steel believe in doing our part, too. This year $300,000 was raised through payroll deductions for the United Way and other charitable organizations. In addition, the company is giving a total of $96,000 to United Way drives in Corona/Norco, Greater Fontana, Pomona, Redlands, Riverside, San Bernardino, and West End, which support a total of more than 200 organizations.

We have a lot of people like Pat who give time and money to help our neighbors, both young and old, enjoy a better life. We hope you'll give your fair share, too.

KAISER STEEL

We try to be good neighbors. It's our neighborhood, too.

Market activity

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Federal Reserve Board's apparent decision to tighten credit and a sharp decline in the dollar's value abroad sent stocks plunging along a broad front Tuesday. Trading was moderate.

The Fed, in a move that came as the Treasury was in the process of a financing operation, tightened credit Monday by allowing hikes in the federal funds rates that banks charge one another for overnight loans. Most observers thought the Fed had ended tightening last week.

At the same time, the dollar fell to all-time lows in West Germany and Japan. The British pound, meanwhile, rose for the second consecutive day after being allowed to float without government intervention.

As a result, the Dow Jones industrial average, which fell 4.33 points Monday, was off 7.54 points to 810.81 shortly before noon EDT. The closely watched average had climbed 21.14 points in the three sessions prior to Monday.

Investors seemed to ignore statements by Charles Schultze, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, calling for "r e d u c t i o n s and improvements" in business taxes to raise investment. The government's leading economic indicators rose an anemic 0.3 per cent in September, indicating the economy has slowed down.

Declines led advances, 866 to 272, among the 1,576 issues crossing the tape.

Vetco Inc., trading exdividend, was the most active NYSE issue, off ½ to 23¼. Smith International, in an amendment to an SEC filing, said it no longer was considering a Vetco takeover. Combustion Engineering recently made a $23-a-share tender offer for Vetco stock.

Indiana Standard was the second most active NYSE issue, off ½ to 47¼ following a block trade of 105,100 shares at 47⅛. Public Service Electric & Gas was third, off ¼ to 22⅞.

Prices were lower in moderate trading of American Stock Exchange issues. Houston Oil & Minerals was the most active Amex issue, off ⅞ to 27⅛. Syntex was second, off ⅛ to 16¼. UV Industries warrants were third, off ⅛ to 3⅝.

Prisoner found dead

LONG BEACH (AP) — A man found dead in his jail cell was the third inmate to die here in less than a month, officials say.

Police said Thursday that Joseph E. Waselewski, 47, suffered from emphysema. They listed his death Wednesday as natural pending results of an autopsy.

Coroner's inquiries are pending into the earlier deaths of James B. Lucas, 48, and Gary W. Beckering, 19.

Minimum wage hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate today approved a minimum wage bill that would push the nation's minimum wage up in annual stages from the current $2.30 an hour to $3.35 an hour by 1981.

The bill was approved by voice vote in the Senate with no debate. The House is expected to take it up Thursday.

New tire labeling system

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new way of expressing dimensions is being added to tire shopping in America, representing one more step along the road to the metric system of measurement.

The change means you will see some unfamiliar lettering and numbering on the side of your tires.

Suppose, for example, the tires you now have are labeled "FR78-14."

The "F" refers to the amount of weight the tire can carry. The "R" shows the tires is a radial model. The "78" refers to the relationship between height and width, indicating the tire is 78 percent as high as it is wide, and the "14" shows the tire fits a 14-inch rim.

Generally, the closer the initial code letter is to the beginning of the alphabet, the smaller the tire and the less weight it can carry.

If you go to buy replacements for your "FR78-14" you will find the dealer offering you something marked "P205-75R14."

The "P" indicates the tire is designed for regular use on passenger cars. These are the only metrically numbered tires currently being produced, but some "T" designations — indicating temporary use spares — are expected on the market later this year.

The number "205" is the measurement of the cross section of the tire in millimeters. This is followed by a slash mark, shown here as a dash. Next comes "75," referring to the relationship of height to width rounded to the nearest 5 percent.

The "R" means radial. "B" would indicate bias belted tires and "D" would stand for diagonal or bias ply. The "14" once again shows that the tire fits a 14-inch rim. The 14 has not been converted to metrics because tire rim sizes around the world are measured in inches.

The metrically numbered tires started appearing last year on 1977 Chevettes. More of them will be in use this year on 1978 models, mainly those produced by General Motors.

The old labeling — known as the alpha numeric system — has been in use for seven years. Complete conversion to the new system is expected to take some time because many tires already on the market or in the manufacturing and distribution pipeline are numbered in the old way. Some manufacturers say they will temporarily produce some tires with both types of numbers.

The rest of the information on the side of your tire — the load range, the maximum load limits and cold inflation, the tire ply composition and so on — will remain the same.

A new federal standard requiring labeling on such things as tread wear and resistance to damage has been proposed, but is not yet in effect.

The metric measurements being used in the new tires are not necessarily exactly equal to the old sizes and experts warn that exact interchangeability is not always possible. You may have to adjust the inflation of the tire up to three pounds.

Most manufacturers have prepared charts showing you what to do, however, and tire dealers should be able to explain any needed adjustments.

Alcan Booth

OAKLAND (BW) — Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical Corp., announced it has reached an agreement in principle to sell its 25 percent interest in Alcan Booth Industries Ltd., a British manufacturer of fabricated aluminum products, to Alcan Aluminum (U.K.) Ltd.

The sale will provide Alcan with 100 percent ownership of Alcan Booth.

Navy contracts received

Data-Design Laboratories, Cucamonga, has received $7 million in new contracts for one Navy program, the largest total awarded in the company's history, said Thomas C. Beiseker, president.

The four new contracts were awarded by the Department of the Navy for the Fleet Ballistic Missile Submarine program which includes the new Trident Weapons System. The largest is valued at $4.6 million. The contracts primarily cover a period of one year.

As a Trident team member, the company will provide strategic weapons systems training acquisition and maintenance support as the personnel program coordinator. The company is also involved in other training and documentation programs.

"Over the years our participation in the Trident program has been increasing, and we are pleased by these latest contracts. After another record year in fiscal 1977, we are optimistic about our prospects for further growth in the current year," said Beiseker.

Divorce rate rise steady

NEW YORK (AP) — The divorce rate in the United States, which has been steadily rising for 10 years, reached a new peak in 1976, hitting 5.0 per 1,000 persons, says the American Council of Life Insurance.

Stock market no place to be

"The stock market is a very bad place to be right now" was the consensus of economists and conferees during the economic forecasting conference held by the Applied Financial Economics Center (AFEC) at Claremont Men's College.

John Rutledge, AFEC's associate director, told the 47 financial executives and investors who attended the conference that, "We are sitting on a knife edge — a position which we will not occupy for long. One good push — or a series of nudges — could bring accelerating inflation, price and wage controls, or both. A good push the other way could knock the economy back into recession."

He added that the joke is that Washington policymakers "don't even recognize the thin line we are walking."

The economist said, "We now have a built-in, underlying inflation rate of at least 7 percent per year. But, it might go higher, depending upon a series of events which could trigger a further rise — import embargos, war, bad harvests — etc."

Rutledge believes a sudden worsening of inflation — to 9 or 10 percent for several months — would be "tragic." It would have a devastating effect on the financial markets, he explained, pushing down stock and bond prices and pushing up the dollar prices of foreign currencies. It would produce another unhealthy price-boom in housing, real estate, and commodities, and "worse still," he added, "a burst of inflation is sure to precipitate 'selective' wage and price controls."

Richard Sweeney, AFEC's senior research associate, expects a 4.4 percent average annual rate of real income growth which "will be disappointing to the administration and to many in Congress. This increases the danger of further doses of monetary and fiscal stimulus in the Spring.

"The Washington woods are full of economists who think that a little stimulus can't cause much inflation so long as there are unemployed resources, and who interpret recent jumps in interest rates as evidence of 'tight' monetary policy. But this isn't the lesson we learned from the past 10 years," he said.

Sweeney said many are becoming convinced that the recent excessive money growth and enormous budget deficits are here to stay. He predicts that these "policy expectations" will become more and more firmly imbedded in pricing decisions, wage negotiations, and asset prices as time goes on and that inflation will get more difficult to control and more costly to stop. On the other hand, a sharp reduction in monetary or fiscal stimulus, would produce a sharp recession.

Joyce Brothers

Share work load

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: I'm a working mother with three children and a wonderful husband who also works a full week. We love our jobs and our family, but I've noticed that almost every weekend, we have a family fight. The terrible thing is that I believe many of them are my fault. It's not that I don't want to go back to work, which is what my husband claims. It's just that by Sunday night I feel everybody is getting in my hair and frankly, I'm tired of them and the endless work that has to be done for them. In fairness to them, should I quit my job and be a full-time mother and wife? — N.K.

DEAR N.K.: This is up to you, of course, but it might be quite destructive to your marriage. If you're unhappy, anxious and feel bored or unfulfilled, your family will be the first to know it. If you enjoy your job, and the pressure comes only on weekends, then I think there are better solutions than giving up the job.

One solution is to designate tasks for your husband and children so that all the weekend work doesn't fall on you. This doesn't have to be a burden on anyone. If you plan it right, it can actually be fun. For instance, you don't have to be totally responsible for all the meals if you involve the rest of the family.

A study by a Pennsylvania State University professor, Dr. Maximiliane Szinovacz, revealed that most working wives show stress on Monday. "Blue Monday" comes from anticipating another hard week, but this doesn't mean they don't like or enjoy their work. On Saturdays, they're down because they have to spend one day of the weekend doing household chores they couldn't do during the week. Allocate the work and ask others to share.

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: My wife and I have sacrificed a lot to send our son and daughter to college and we're very disappointed in the quality of their work. They tell us they're doing the best they can, but I find that hard to believe. They were both excellent students in high school and they've now dropped down to a mediocre level. Unfortunately, my son has fallen in love with a young woman we disapprove of. I believe this has affected his grades and his whole attitude about study and discipline. If I withdraw funds, my children may both quit. What can I do to push them toward better academic standards? — M.J.

DEAR M.J.: By the time a youngster reaches college age, about the only thing a parent can do is to talk to him or her as an adult, treat the young person with respect and be as supportive as possible.

I agree it would be foolish to withdraw funds. Besides what have they done to deserve punishment? You certainly wouldn't want to punish your son for falling in love even though you don't approve of his choice.

Often, youngsters who were straight-A students in high school have difficulty getting along in college. For one thing, the competition is tougher and there is bound to be a period of adjustment in which the student tries to adjust to a totally new atmosphere.

A recent study by psychologist Douglas Heath who tracked 68 Haverford College students revealed that those who received good grades in college often were less effective as adults than the poorer students. He doesn't suggest that failure in college will be a sign of future success, but he does feel that traditional academic measures tap too narrow a domain of skill and knowledge to be useful in determining future success and competence.

Rembrandt Club meets Thursday

"Rembrandt in Retrospect" will be the topic for the meeting Thursday of Rembrandt Club when the group meets at 1:30 p.m. in the Rembrandt Hall of Pomona College.

The speaker, Mrs. Perdita Sheirich, is in the process of writing a history of the club and has gathered many fascinating stories about the beginning of the Pomona art department.

One of the first art instructors, Hanna Tempest Jenkins, was a dynamic teacher who not only organized the department but inspired students, some of whom are now famous in the art field. She helped to organize the Rembrandt Club. Slides of some of the outstanding events will be used as illustrations for the talk.

The club has been in existence for 72 years. Those who have been members for 25 years and over will be honored during the afternoon.

Members and guests may visit the art studios and see students at work painting or in the sculpture studio.

Tea will be served in the Montgomery Gallery where there will be a special exhibit related to the history of art at the college.

Mrs. Sheirich graduated from UC Berkeley with a B. A. in decorative arts and art. She worked in New York and San Francisco before moving to Claremont in 1965. She has been president of Rembrandt and is at present a member of the board of directors.

The meeting is open to persons interested in art.

AARP sets meeting this evening

Mrs. Virginia Coffey, retired teacher and world traveler, will present the program for Chapter 227, American Association of Retired Persons, when the group meets at 7 tonight at Pilgrim Congregational Church.

Mrs. Coffey will show slides and present a commentary on a trip to South America.

Potluck slated at auditorium

St. Joseph Altar Society will meet at 12:30 p.m., Wednesday, in St. Joseph Auditorium on the church grounds. A potluck luncheon will be served.

Sgt. Tom McCullogh of the Pomona Police Department will discuss "Safety in the Home and on the Street." The meeting is open to all women of the church.

We all recognize the red-and-white barber pole. Today's barber is familiar to us as a person who cuts hair.

But long ago barbers also were surgeons. One of the operations the early barber performed was to "bleed" a patient as a cure for illness.

In order to perform the operation, the barber had the patient hold onto a pole in the barber shop while he "let" blood out of the patient's arm.

When the pole was no being used, the barber hung his bowl and bandages on it.

Later, barbers painted red and white stripes around a special pole as their advertising sign.

The red-and-white stripes were meant to remind people of the blood-soaked bandages with which the patient was wrapped after bloodletting, while a glass dome on top represented the barber's upturned bowl.

Even though barbers no longer act as surgeons, the old sign of the barber-surgeon is still widely used.
